BOMBS USED BY FAY LIKE

Report That Fires Were Caused by Chlorate of Potash

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Secret service men assigned to the cases of Robert Fay, the confessed bomb plotter and four others charged with conspiracy in planning the attack on the liner Lusitania, worked on a report today that the bombs used by Fay were similar to those which had caused fires on certain trans-Atlantic ships last summer.

As late as last month small fires were reported on ships loaded with sugar. In one instance a sugar ship on its arrival at an European port reported that two bombs, discovered on board while the vessel was at sea had failed to explode.

Two circumstances drew the attention of secret service men to the Fay case. One was that the fires on the ships were caused by chlorate of potash, the same material which Fay has used in preparing bombs to attach to ships' rudders and propellers.

The other was that several of the ships on which fires were discovered and sailed from piers in the Hudson river, not far from the boat house at Weehawken, N. J., where Fay, with Walter L. Scholz, his brother-in-law, kept a motor boat and explosives. The details obtained of the fires on the sugar ships are being compared by assistants of United States District Attorney Marshall, with the disclosures made in Fay's confession to determine what connection, if any, the present alleged conspiracy had with the attempt to destroy sugar ships.

Italians—British Casualties 493,294

The Serbians have been driven over the border eastward from Visegrad, in Bosnia, and other advances have been scored by the Teutonic and Bulgarian forces engaged in the Serbian invasion. Berlin announces today, "The Bulgarians are pursuing the retreating Serbians along the eastern front, the statement declares."

The German war office reports conditions unchanged in the east, no further progress of the attacks on Dvinsk or Riga being recorded.

Greece Makes Denial

Categorical denial is given by the Greek legation in London to the instructions from Premier Zaimis, to reports that have been circulated with relation to the attitude of Greece toward the entente powers, such as that regarding an alleged intention by Greece, "to menace the security of the allied troops at Saloniki." The purpose of such reports was to sow dissension between Greece and the allies, the statement declares.

King George Injured

King George of England met with an accident yesterday, being thrown from his horse while "inspecting his army in the field," the fall bruising the king severely. It is said, unofficially, that the injury to the king was not serious. The official statement says he will be confined to his bed for the present.

The last report on King George's whereabouts placed him in France, on Tuesday last, where, with the French president and other officials he reviewed troops of the British and French armies.

British Casualties

The total British casualties up to October 9, it is announced today, have been 493,294.

DEER FOR PARK

Five Deer to Be Installed at Fort Hill Park by Park Department

Purchasing Agent Foye received the most remarkable requisition, today, ever received by a purchasing agent at city hall. The requisition came from the park department and called for five deer; not the kind that are being sent up from Maine by Lowell hunters who go down there and pay guides to shoot them, but real live deer, the grace and beauty of which will add life and color to the scene at Fort Hill park, for it is stated in the requisition that the deer are intended for Fort Hill.

Mr. Foye was a bit inclined to believe that the park commissioners were joking when he found out they were in earnest he gave the matter his "earnest consideration." It flashed across the horizon of his mentality that he had seen deer at Canobie Lake park and he immediately got in touch with somebody that knew about them. Mr. Foye learned that he might purchase the deer there. He was assured that they come of a

O.M.I. CADETS' MEETING

There will be a meeting of the O.M.I. Cadets this evening in the school hall to make plans for the memorial mass next Sunday in commemoration of members who have died during the past few years. These include Sergt. Callahan, Sergt. John Haggerty, Lieut. O'Loughlin and Priv. William McCann. At the memorial service a double quartet will sing "Lead, Kindly Light," and "Nearer, My God, to Thee." A large attendance is expected this evening.

A few days ago considerable publicity was given to the fact that five cases of diphtheria had been reported at the Pawtucketville annex of St. Joseph's parochial school, and some alarmists proposed closing the school. It would appear that diphtheria respects neither class nor creed, for there are seven cases of the same disease reported from the primary school in Charles street.

PEABODY, Oct. 29.—The bodies of all of the 21 girl pupils of St. John's parochial school, who lost their lives yesterday in a fire which swept through the building before they had a chance to escape, were claimed by their parents today. Five bodies remained over night in an undertaking establishment while relatives endeavored to identify them. Four of these were identified and at noon three remained the charred form of a little girl, burned beyond possible hope of recognition.

When the four had been taken away Mrs. John Ahearn, mother of Agnes Ahearn, eight years old, who was unaccounted for, went to the improvised morgue and finally accepted the body as that of her child. It was placed in a coffin and sent to her home.

$71,000 VOTED FOR DUMMER ST. EXTENSIONHearing on Proposition Nov. 9
—Amendment to Traffic Rules
—Hearing on Increase of Fares

An order to borrow $71,000 for the extension of Dummer street and seizure of land in connection therewith was taken up at a meeting of the municipal council this forenoon and was sent to the city clerk's office to remain ten days as required by law. It was suggested that the emergency clause might be attached in order to speed the matter along, but Commissioner Duncan said he didn't think it was necessary. "We've waited 30 or 40 years for this extension," he said, "and I guess we can wait another week."

The matter was assigned for a hearing Nov. 9 at 11 a. m. The order contemplates the acquisition of all the land between the First Congregational church and Maiden lane. It will also include Maiden lane and if the proposition goes through a 12-foot sidewalk will take the place of the lane. The plans also call for a 16-foot park extending the full length of the property to be acquired and there was some discussion today as to whether it ought to be made a beauty park or used for parking automobiles. This feature of the proposition will be more fully discussed at the hearing on Nov. 9. The plan also includes a winding street that would encircle the park, thus affording one-way streets, either way.

Traffic Ordinance Amended
The city solicitor had prepared an ordinance amending the traffic ordinance as suggested by the mayor at a previous meeting. The amendment was made for the purpose of including Middle street, from Central to Palmer street, in the 20-minute period. The ordinance was passed to be enrolled.

Solicitor Asks Assistance

There was an order having to do with the work in connection with the taking of land in Kirk and Anne streets, the city solicitor asking for assistance in the conveyance of titles. "I am not a lawyer," said the solicitor, "but the law department will not be able to do this work. We have about all the work we can handle at the present time and there will be a great deal of work in connection with mortgages, easement rights, etc. I think there are 15 or 20 titles to be looked up. The order was adopted."

Request for Generator

Commissioner Carmichael was voted authority to purchase, through the purchasing agent's office, a gas generator in connection with the laboratory equipment at the boulevard filtration plant, the expense of the generator not to exceed $235.83.

Removing City's Property

Commissioner Putnam said he had been informed that persons moving out of houses in Anne and Kirk streets, houses to be torn down to make way for the new high school, were taking marble mantles and electric fixtures with them. "The buildings are now owned by the city," he said, "and tenants moving out have no right to take away any of the city's property." He asked that the city solicitor be instructed to communicate with the people in question telling them that they must not remove the city's property and it was so voted.

Mr. Putnam also asked the authority of the council to sell a steam heating boiler now installed at 16 Kirk street. Mr. Duncan wanted to know if Mr. Putnam was going to sell whatever the tenants didn't take and Mr. Putnam allowed that he would sell anything he could. He was told that he might sell the boiler through the regular channel, the purchasing agent's office.

Sidewalk Assessment Abated

A report and an order for the abatement of sidewalk assessment was brought up at the last meeting of the council and was put over to today because it was not thoroughly understood by the council. Louis Lebrun, of the streets department, asked for abatement and City Engineer Kearney was on hand today to explain matters. He said that Mr. Lebrun had already paid a sidewalk assessment and that if he paid the last assessment levied he would be paying twice. After hearing the engineer's explanation of the assessment, the council voted to abate the assessment.

Moving the Mortar

Commissioner Putnam asked that the council authorize him to remove the mortar presented the city by Congressman Rogers, from the North corner to the plot of green between city hall and the Memorial building. He said he had received a communication from Congressman Rogers stating that he, the congressman, would stand the expense of the transfer of the mortar and its installation at the spot in question. Mr. Putnam was authorized to attend to it.

Pole Location Hearings

A number of petitions for wire attachments and street and sidewalk improvements were properly referred and petitions for pole locations in LaGrange, Broadway, Bennett, Stevens, Kingsman and Upham streets were assigned for hearings on Nov. 15.

Public Service Commission

The mayor read a communication from the public service commission, acknowledging receipt of the council's communication relative to the six-cent fares, and it was stated in the communication that the commission would hold a hearing in Boston, Monday, Nov. 3, at 10.30 a. m. The mayor stated that the city solicitor would attend all of the hearings and that there was a movement on foot to have the city solicitors of all the cities interested get together and formulate some definite plan of opposition to the proposed increase in fares.

DENIES PEACE PARLEYS

NO EXCHANGE OF VIEWS BY BERLIN AND LONDON, SAYS LLOYD GEORGE

LONDON, Oct. 29.—An emphatic denial that Great Britain was engaged in any peace negotiations, direct or indirect, was made by David Lloyd George, the minister of munitions, in reply to a question in the house of commons yesterday.

Mr. Lloyd George spoke for Premier Asquith, when the question of which Annan Bryce had given notice came up. The query was as to whether unofficial exchanges of views had been carried on between Berlin and London with the possible object of the conclusion of an early peace, and whether inquiries of similar nature had been made by official representatives of any neutral power.

"Certainly not," was the reply of the minister of munitions.

"The words of the prime minister still hold good," he added, referring not only to the question of peace negotiations, but to the query as to whether the premier still adhered to the declaration in his Guildhall speech that Great Britain would not shake her sword until "the freedom of Europe was secured."

Mr. Lloyd George continued: "We shall not think of entering any peace negotiations except in common with our allies in accordance with the agreement made in September, 1914."

The visit to The Hague of W. S. Self, the German colonial secretary, is said by the Chronicle to be connected with a movement for calling a truce in Central Africa. The Netherlands minister to London, the Chronicle adds, recently went to The Hague and discussed the matter with the Dutch cabinet.

The Daily Chronicle says it remains to be seen whether Germany will be able to propose the basis for an armistice acceptable to Earl Kitchener.

In contrast with this report is the statement of Herz Soli in an interview with a representative of As Est, a Hungarian newspaper of Budapest, who quotes him as saying:

"It is necessary for us not only to maintain our previous colonial possessions, but even to increase them, irrespective of the European issues and of the settlement in Europe after the war. Our only enemy from a colonial point of view is England. As soon as we restore our communications with the Straits and Constantinople and drive the allied forces into the sea in Gallipoli, together with the Italians and any others attaching themselves to these, the events that will follow will develop like those in a well written play."

"On the day when the English army on the Nile, with the Australians, the Canadians and Indians, capitulate before the Turks, or when they have to re-embark at Alexandria, the world-power of England will sink into the deep, from Gibraltar to Singapore. What she will save out of this catastrophe will not be decided by England alone."

LORD MAYOR OF LONDON

CHARLES JOHNSON FIRST OF 723 WHO HAVE HELD OFFICE NOT TO ATTEND PUBLIC DINNER

LONDON, Oct. 29.—Sir Charles Johnson, who retired from office as Lord Mayor of London on Nov. 1, is the first of the 723 men who have held that office who can boast that he has not given or attended a single public dinner during the whole year of his incumbency. "That of course, is due to the war," he explains, "for the war has changed all our preconceived notions of what a London mayoralty means. We have been a serious people in the past year, with no time for ceremonials and no one single to the grim business before us. Those who know my horror of speech-making tell me with a smile that I could not have had a more congenial majority even if I had selected a 'yes' year."

The lord mayor, who is chief with respect to the city, was unable to carry out his official plan to visit America during his term of office. "I have many friends in America," he said, "and I have crossed the Atlantic but fewer than 75 times. But for the war I should have spent my vacation in the United States and Canada and have been the first mayor to visit America while in office."

In reply to a question as to what particular part of his year's work he was proudest of, Sir Charles said, "Without any hesitation, I would award the establishment of that splendid body of men, the National Guard of the City of London, and to have taken a large part of the honor and credit of that important branch of the system of national defense."

The new lord mayor will take office at midday on November 2, when he makes the time-honored progress to the city courts to greet and receive the congratulations of the judges. In the evening there is the inaugural banquet in the ancient Guildhall, at which the members of the cabinet, the principal judges, the diplomatic corps, and a

NEVER SAW ELECTRIC CAR

Jerome Stone, Dana's Oldest Resident, Is Buried—Made Last Trip From Home Many Years Ago

DANA, Oct. 29.—The funeral of Jerome Stone, the town's oldest resident, took place yesterday afternoon at the Congregational church. Rev. Paul Shannon officiated. The burial was in the local cemetery. Mr. Stone, who was a native of Dana, had never seen an electric car and the last trip he made away from home was some 40 or 50 years ago, when he drove to Hartford, Conn.

The body was taken to the northern district mortuary on North Grove street for examination by Medical Examiner Maguire.

COST LIVES OF $7,233 ANIMALS

LONDON, Oct. 29.—Careful investigations cost the lives of $7,233 animals in England and Scotland during the year of 1914, states a report issued by the home office. Of these experiments, 21,744 were in the nature of inoculations and were performed almost entirely by experimenters in the various experiments.

A QUARTER CENTURY AGO

A striking difference is noticed between the tone of the front pages of The Sun today, which are filled with news of bloody conflicts on foreign battle fields and those of quarter of a century ago which contained nothing more warlike than the accounts of the battles of the police and the Law and Order league with rum and each other, over the enforcement or non-enforcement of the law in a no-license city, and the legislative conflict being waged in Ireland for home rule. But in one of the issues of the old Sun I found the following item:

"It is true," said a New York clergyman, "that Russia is banishing the Jews; that Turkey is persecuting the Armenians; that England is hard upon Irishmen and Hindus; that America bars her doors against the Celestials; that France is molesting the Algerines; and that thus it goes all around the world, in Europe, Asia, Africa and America, among Christians, Mohammedans, Buddhists and Pagans, who all keep hosts of man-killers ready to ravage or ruin."

Deputy's Silver Jubilee

Today is Police Deputy Hugh Downey's silver jubilee as a regular member of the police force for quarter of a century ago last night the board of aldermen appointed him and J. F. Gallyvan, both of whom were at that time supernumeraries, to be members of the regular forces. Deputy Downey has been through "all the chairs" up to chief, and they do say—but he has been sergeant, lieutenant, captain and deputy, and through them all, one of the most popular and respected men in the department. He was never a traffic cop. That's one little thing that he missed.

Deaths in Well Known Family

Says The Sun of quarter of a century ago:

"There was an anniversary high mass of requiem at St. Patrick's church, on Monday for the repose of the souls of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick's Cumiskey, and their daughter, Miss Minnie Cumiskey. Rev. Fr. Gleason officiated and besides the members of the family a large number of friends were present." The three deaths were particularly sad, occurring within a year of each other with the exception of a few days, and the late Patrick Cumiskey, who was one of Lowell's most popular citizens at the time of his death, meeting his end in tragic manner. Mr. and Mrs. Cumiskey were noted for their charity and the poor of St. Patrick's parish lost two generous and steadfast friends in their deaths.

The Cutting Club

Quarter of a century ago the Times and Star ran a voting contest for the most popular policeman in Lowell, the winner to receive a complete uniform. More money was probably spent on that contest than would fit out the entire police department to uniforms today. The friends of the successful candidate organized a club which they called "The Cutting Club," receiving its name from the fact that its members met around some festive board and cut coupons at a social session. The old Sun said of the contest, editorially: "It is rumored that the policemen who are buying the Times and Star by the thousand are getting square with the publishers by cutting out the votes and selling the papers to the newsboys at the rate of quarter of a cent each. The whole game is like an auction, with the stipulation that the highest bidder will be deemed the most popular man of his class in the city. The policeman who pays most for this fictitious popularity can have one or both of the uniforms to be given away."

YES—IT IS POSSIBLE TO STOP RHEUMATISM

Rheumatism is a tormenting and stubborn malady. In some cases it yields to treatment which is without avail in other cases.

The darting pains, lame muscles or stiffened joints only disappear by gradually expelling the uric acid, and so many thousands have been relieved by the blood-enriching oil-food in Scott's Emulsion that you should give it a faithful trial. Scott's Emulsion acts as a powerful blood-purifier by increasing the red corpuscles and it strengthens the organs to carry off the acids which cause the trouble.

Try Scott's Emulsion. It cannot harm. It has helped thousands and may be exactly what you need. No Alcohol.

tion popularity can have one or both of the uniforms to be given away." A few years later the Times and Star ran a contest for the best looking man in Lowell, the winner to receive a tall hat. Mr. John McNeese was the sur- prised recipient of the honors, but has never been known to wear the lid except at an occasional funeral. Meanwhile, the same papers were in a contest of their own, with the other papers of the city, and the fittest survived.

Couldn't Stop Conant

The Sun of quarter of a century ago had the following: "The Middlesex North District Medical society held its quarterly meeting at the American House, Wednesday, J. E. Conant & Co. sold a lot of surgical instruments and a medical library." This doesn't mean that the society was in hard luck and went under the hammer. Not at all. It simply means that Auctioneer Conant with surgical instruments and a medical library for sale wasn't wasting any energy trying to dispose of them at a horse sale, but simply awaited his opportunity, and went to it, in characteristic manner.

An Old Time Resident Dead

The old Sun contained the following account of the death of one of the early Catholic residents of the city: "James J. McCafferty, an old and highly respected resident of Centralville, died at his home, off West Third street, Saturday morning at 9.30 o'clock of heart trouble. Mr. McCafferty was born in Lowell 53 years ago (1862) and had lived nearly all his life in Centralville. He was many years employed in the Lowell Carpet company's plant, the greater part of the time as an overseer. He leaves a widow and two sons. He was a brother of the late Judge Matthew J. McCafferty of Worcester, Mass."

State Board of Trade

That the Massachusetts state board of trade is about quarter of a century of age is evidenced by the following:

which appeared in The Sun at that time: "A meeting for the formation of a state board of trade, as proposed by President Adams, of this city, will be held at the rooms of the Shoe and Leather association, Boston, Oct. 30, at 11 a. m."

The late Charles E. Adams succeeded in organizing the state board of trade and was honored with the presidency of that organization. He took a lively interest in the affairs of the local board and in the affairs of the city, generally, up to the time of his death, and in passing remembered two local institutions in substantial manner in his will.

The Burkes' Bazaar

The bazaar held by the Burke Temperance Institute in Huntington hall just quarter of a century ago was one of the big events of its time. It opened with a concert in Huntington hall on Sunday evening and ran all week with big crowds each evening. Among the local talent that appeared at the concert in addition to singers from Boston were Messrs. James A. Murphy and George Burns, the Arion quartet, and Messrs. McDaniels and Dufresne, of the American orchestra. On Monday evening the military companies of the city were present; on Tuesday, the Foresters; on Wednesday, the Hibernians; on Thursday, the labor organizations; on Friday the different temperance societies while the bazaar closed on Saturday night. Those who were on the different tables were as follows:

Young Men's table: William Delaney, Miss Minnie Murphy, Miss Maggie Shannon, Miss Fannie Delaney. Welcome table: J. Ryan, Miss Agnes Gormley, Charles McCarthy. City of Lowell table: John Manchester, Miss Lizzie Butler, J. E. Donnelly, Miss Minnie Courtney.

Independence table: James Roach, Miss Maggie Nevins, Miss Sadie Valley, Miss Maggie Murphy. United Friends table: Richard J. Flynn, Patrick J. Daley, James J. McCafferty, Miss Nellie Rodery, Miss Sadie Mack.

Society table: James E. Kelley, Miss Annie Mahan, Frank O'Neill, James Liston, Miss Mary Nolan. Officers' table: Joseph Gormley, Miss Nellie Gormley, Miss Rose McCarron, Miss Mary Rodmond, John Mahan. Temperance table: Miss Annie Welch, Frank Clark, Miss Katie Conley, John McLaughlin, Miss Ida Kelly, John McGuinness.

Young Ladies' table: James E. Grimes, Miss Gussie Healey, Miss Mary Waterston, Miss Lizzie Grimes, Miss Alice Grimes. Candy table: Miss Mary Quigley, Belle Fee, Lottie Fee, Maggie Pevey, Anne Miskella, Sarah Keenan and Mary Conway.

James McCarron won the gentleman's watch for selling 520 tickets and Miss Nellie Cuff won the lady's watch selling 145.

They certainly knew how to run bazaars in those days. James F. Miskella was a friend and worker for the Burkes then and for some years past he has been one of its most active officers.

MOSLEMS IN THE RANKS

"ALLAH IL ALLAH!" CHANTS WOUNDED MOSLEM ON BRITISH HOSPITAL SHIP

WOUNDED SEPOY TURNS TO MECCA AS HE PRAYS

"Allah il Allah!" intones the devout Moslem three times a day—at home, on the battlefield or wherever else he may be. The allies have Moslems in their ranks, although one of the powers against which they are fighting is Turkey, a Mohammedan country. The follower of Mohammed in the picture was wounded at the Dardanelles and taken aboard a hospital ship for treatment. When the ship for treatment arrived he spread his prayer rug, doffed his shoes that they should not defile the holy carpet, turned toward Mecca and began his prayers.

RUSSIAN OFFICERS SENTENCED. PETROGRAD, Oct. —Russia's way with the inefficient is illustrated in the report of the court-martial which has just sentenced the captain and lieutenant-commander of the Russian cruiser Jemchug, which was destroyed by the Emden at Penang a year ago. Both officers were accused of negligence.

The court found both officers guilty, and taking into consideration their hitherto unblemished record and their brave service during the Russo-Japanese war, passed the following sentence:

"Both officers to lose all civil rights, to be dismissed from the imperial service, and deprived of all decorations. Captain Baron Tcherkassoff to lose his rank of baron and be sent to jail for three and a half years; Lieutenant-Commander Kudina to be sent to jail for a year and a half."

TOLL OF YOUNG OFFICERS HEAVY. LONDON, Oct. —The toll of young officers is especially heavy just now, 182 officers killed in action, 102 were under 30 years of age and of these 80 were under 25 years. There were 5 which is at last in action, are in great part laid out of the upper schools and colleges. Recent casualty lists and 15 aged 21 years. They included

BIG PIER DESTROYED

600,000 BLAZE AT SEATTLE BELIEVED TO BE WORK OF GERMAN

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 29.—Police and fire department officials conducted a thorough investigation today into the origin of the $500,000 fire which last night destroyed a pier used by the Blue Funnel line of British steamers for shipments of provisions and supplies for England, Russia and Japan.

The fact that the fire started in a pile of rattle stored with other highly inflammable merchandise in the same manner as two small blazes last Tuesday caused officials to believe that the fire probably was set by German who objected to the shipment of munitions of war for the Russian armies.

HOW TO HEAL SKIN-DISEASES

A Baltimore doctor suggests this simple, but reliable and inexpensive, home treatment for people suffering with eczema, ringworm, rashes and similar itching, burning skin troubles.

At any reliable druggist's get a jar of Resinol ointment and a cake of Resinol soap. These are not at all expensive. With the Resinol soap and warm water bathe the affected parts thoroughly, until they are free from crusts and the skin is softened. Dry very gently, spread on a thin layer of the Resinol ointment, and cover with a light bandage—if necessary to protect the clothing. This should be done twice a day. Usually the distressing itching and burning stop with the first treatment, and the skin soon becomes clear and healthy again. Sample free. Dept. 5-R, Resinol, Baltimore, Md.

THE SUPERIOR COURT

JURY DISAGREED IN CASE OF RAILROAD SUED FOR DEATH OF YOUNG WOMAN

The jury in the case of Mary Conry of North Somerville, administratrix, vs. the Boston & Maine railroad, which retired late yesterday afternoon, remained in session until midnight and this morning at the opening of the civil session of the superior court, a disagreement was reported.

This was an action of tort brought against the railroad company to recover the sum of $10,000 for the death of a young woman, who it is claimed was killed by an express train at North Somerville on June 1, 1913.

At the opening of the session this morning, Justice Keating presiding, the case of Filippo Grasso vs. Pasquale Bentele, an action of tort in the sum of $1,000, went to trial. Both parties are from Newton and the services of Vincent Mayetta as Italian interpreter were retained.

The plaintiff in his declaration says that the defendant maliciously contrived to injure him by bringing an action of tort by trustee process, and before the court made out that Filomena Grasso had property which he did not intend to apply to the claim.

The plaintiff also claims that the defendant said he, Grasso, intended to leave the state, so that execution if obtained, could not be served upon him. The plaintiff says he was subsequently arrested and later discharged, and that the said arrest was brought about by the defendant, to harass, vex and annoy the plaintiff, and to oblige him to pay a sum of money to the defendant. The plaintiff also claims that through the malicious efforts of the defendant, he was arrested on Aug. 25, 1913, and on May 25, 1914. John Louis Sheridan appears for the plaintiff and George H. Mellen for the defendant.

In the course of the day several witnesses were heard and this afternoon the court adjourned until Wednesday morning.

CRIMINAL SESSION SUP. COURT

The criminal session of the superior court which had been sitting in this city since Monday, adjourned late yesterday afternoon and will not be resumed again until next Wednesday. The court will again sit in Lowell, the first case on the list is a murder trial.

Your Choice for Saturday Special

When you buy a suit or overcoat in my store, you can bet all you own—money, marbles or chalk—that regardless of the low price you pay the garment you buy has quality.

When I offer to make you a suit or overcoat for $10.00 in this special sale don't let me insult your intelligence. I am making you an offer over my signature—a business contract in which I agree to give you something that you select.

If the price is lower than you think it ought to be, what do you care, if you don't see how I can possibly give what I claim to give, what do you care as long as I give it?

I am giving it am I not? I have been doing it for going on eight years, haven't I? When the year is all done, you know I make money. You know if I do this volume of say sixty to eighty thousand dollars cash business, some of this money will stick to my fingers. You buy them and don't let the prices frighten you.

AMBASSADOR TO MEXICO

ELISEO ARREDONDO
HENRY P. FLETCHER

Venustiano Carranza, now being formally recognized as the chief executive of the republic of Mexico by the governments of the United States, Brazil, Chile, Argentina, Bolivia, Uruguay, Guatemala, Colombia, and Nicaragua, each of the governments sent a letter to Eliseo Arredondo, personal representative in Washington of Carranza. It is expected that Arredondo will become Mexican ambassador to the United States. Henry Prather Fletcher, at present American ambassador to Chile, practically has been decided upon as the next ambassador to Mexico. Although a republican in politics, he was elevated from the rank of minister to ambassador by President Wilson after a long and successful record in the diplomatic service.

A HALLOWEEN PARTY

PRETTY AND ENJOYABLE EVENT AT RICHARDSON HOTEL DINING ROOM, LAST EVENING

The cosy dining room of the Richardson hotel was packed last evening on the occasion of the annual Halloween party, the first of a series of winter events given at the hotel. Every seat in the dining room had been previously engaged and late applicants were disappointed. The room was strikingly decorated. It was partially hidden from the street by a lattice-work partition in warm colors extending to the ceiling. Within the room suspended from the ceiling and along the wainscoting were illuminated hob-goblins and harvest moons, made from pumpkins, in infinite variety while products of the harvest and autumn leaves were gracefully and abundantly in evidence throughout the interior. A very attractive menu was provided to which the guests did full justice while during and after its discussion an up-to-the-minute cabaret show was given by the Honey Boy trio, Messrs. Ed. Handley, James J. Lyons and Walter Clough, assisted by Miss Rose McDonough, whose contributions to the entertainment were a decided hit. Lederman's orchestra furnished music. Jas. E. Donnelly, who was among the guests, in response to a general demand sang a number of his famous Scotch songs. The good time continued until midnight. Manager Fred Folsom looked after the comfort of the guests, while the elaborate menu was the conception of Steward Hadley.

CAUSED BY BOMBARDMENT OF LILLE—HEAVY TAX ON BELGIAN CITIES

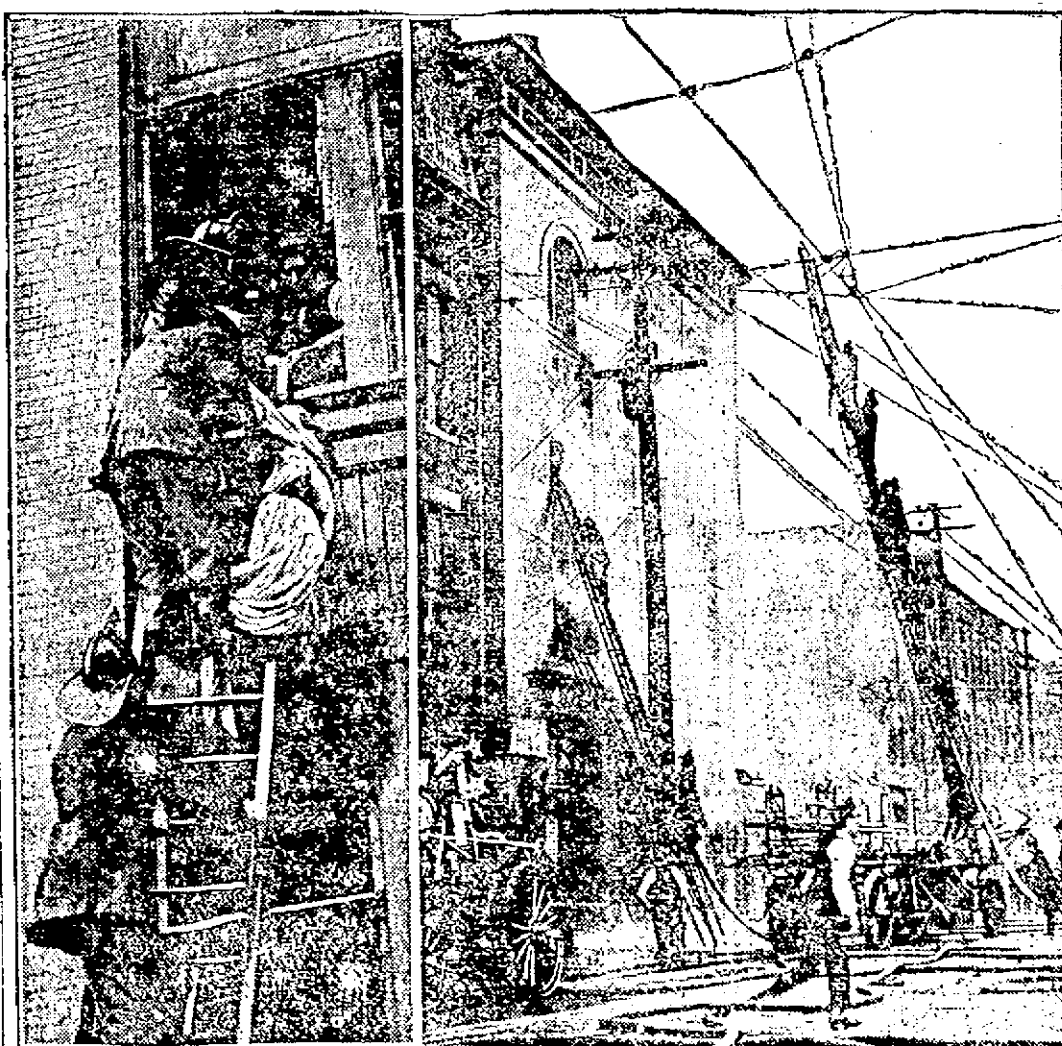

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 29, via London, 10.20 a. m.—The damage caused by the bombardment of Lille is estimated, the Telegraaf says, at 1,800,000,000 francs ($360,000,000). War taxes imposed by the Germans upon the French manufacturing cities of Lille, Roubaix and Tourcoing, according to the same authority already reach several million francs. Meat is no longer obtainable in those towns.

TRAPPED IN FACTORY, THIRTEEN DIE WHEN PITTSBURGH BUILDING BURNS

TAKING OUT BODIES AT PITTSBURGH DISASTER—FIGHTING THE FIRE

Thirteen persons were killed and eight injured by a fire in a four story building, the two upper floors of which were occupied by a paper box company, in Pittsburgh. Of the dead, all were young women employed by the company except one. Many of the bodies were so burned as to make identification difficult. Mayor Joseph G. Armstrong ordered that the police, city council and the coroner make a thorough investigation of the fire. The flames started in a pile of straw in the rear of the feed store of James Brown & Co. on the first floor of the building. William C. Kimbel, general manager of the box factory, at once went to the third and fourth floors and warned the girls employed there to leave the building quietly. The flames gained headway so rapidly, however, that escape by means of stairways and fire escapes was soon cut off. Some of the girls attempted to go to the dressing room for their hats and there, huddled on the floor, firemen found a majority of the bodies.

THE FRENCH MAID SAYS:

A DAINTY LINGERIE ACCESSORY

"Whatever are you doing, Marie?" asked puzzled Marjorie, as she came in to the French maid who was sewing on some dainty lingerie. "I am fixing some of Madame's corset covers so as to make them even more dainty than they are now, and over so much more comfortable," replied Marie. "Everybody," she continued, "who wears transparent corset covers, knows the bother caused by the apparent gauze undervest to make it look well. Some tuck the shoulder pieces down into the corset, which makes the vest wrinkle and causes much discomfort. Some wear the new corset which only comes to the waist. "As the lines of a lovely shoulder gleaming through filmy lace should be unmarred by even a ribbon or beading, I have invented a remedy and there may be both comfort and beauty if this plan is followed. Buy a quarter of a yard of Italian silk such as undervests are made of, or cut a quarter of a yard from an old worn undervest. Line your corset cover with this, basting the edges of the corset cover and silk gauze together at the top, so as not to show above the lace or embroidery, or at the waist line. "Then, in place of the ribbon or beading shoulder straps, which make the corset cover fit badly, sew in strips of double flesh colored chiffon, sloping them off on each side where they are sewed to the corset cover. This gives firmer support to the corset cover than a piece of ribbon and is also invisible. Match your skin exactly. "There are pink, white and ivory tints of flesh color to suit all. Whip together the shoulder pieces with No. 200 sewing cotton, as silk will show."

UNITED STATES AS PRIZE

PARTITION OF UNITED STATES AS PRIZE FOR SETTLEMENT OF THE WAR

PARIS, Oct. (Correspondence of the Associated Press).—The subjoined curious communication written on thick official looking folio paper without any indication of its origin has been delivered by messenger at the office of the Agence Havas, the principal news agency in France:

"The United States as the Prize for Settlement of the Present European Conflict"

It is stated on high authority that suggestions have been made in the diplomatic circles of European chancelleries declaring that the easiest solution and the one most acceptable to all the warring nations would be the partition among them of the United States of America. The United States of America is a most inviting prize as compensation for the sacrifices rendered by these nations, and an arrangement on the basis of the respective relations of the different nations is surprisingly practicable.

"So far from being a visionary scheme for a solution of this great world conflict, the fact is only too apparent that only a small part of the effort expended in the sanguinary struggle, now raging, would have sufficed to satisfy all nations in their respective ambitions.

"A noted diplomat declared his surprise, that this idea of the partition of the United States had not emerged sooner, because the land is so largely made up of the constituency of all the warring nations.

"The tentative plan to satisfy thus the national ambitions of the European countries at war, instead of prolonging

"Great Britain is to occupy New England, Maryland, Virginia, North and South Carolina, Georgia and Florida.

"France is to get the French parts of eastern Canada and the states of Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Arkansas, Tennessee and Kentucky.

"Germany is to occupy the states of New York, Philadelphia, Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Illinois, Missouri, Iowa, Wisconsin and Minnesota.

"Japan is to take the Pacific coast; the state of Oregon, Upper and Lower California.

"Mexico is to be compensated for Lower California by ceding to it Arizona, New Mexico and part of Texas.

"Russia will receive Alaska.

"The Panama canal will be declared free, whilst the western states, North and South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, Washington, Montana, Wyoming, Idaho, Utah and Colorado will be consolidated into an imperial crown-land of the German empire.

"Though these 'satisfactions' are to be acquired in a concerted campaign, each of the several nations is to effect the occupation of its own allotted territory.

"Thus, it is claimed, would best meet the rights and interests of the different nations of old Europe, as it would safeguard their nationals under their respective flags.

"Whatever he said about this bold solution, it should be appreciated that in many ways it is more feasible than the three successive partitions of Poland, which nevertheless are historical facts.

"Truth is sometimes stranger than fiction. This alleged tentative understanding of the powers at war may be relegated to imaginative fiction, but it is surely not stranger than the sober truth, and it might easily take its form."

ELECTION NEXT TUESDAY

Eight States Will Select Officers
Nov. 2—Four to Elect Governors—Important Amendments

Eight states, New York, Massachusetts, Maryland, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Kentucky, Ohio and Mississippi, will hold elections on Tuesday, Nov. 2. In four of these states, Massachusetts, Maryland, Kentucky and Mississippi, governors are to be elected; in six states, New York, Massachusetts, Maryland, New Jersey, Kentucky and Mississippi, the state legislatures, in whole or in part, are to be elected, and in five states, New York, Massachusetts, Maryland, Pennsylvania and Ohio, important constitutional issues are to be decided.

With a few local exceptions, in fact, these constitutional questions will be the dominant issues on election day, including as they do such fundamental matters as woman suffrage, municipal home rule, prohibition, state income taxes, referendum plans, and some lesser reforms.

The woman suffrage question will come up for decision in New York, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts, which states will furnish, in point of population, the greatest test of the suffrage issue has ever had in the United States. New Jersey, the first state in the east to vote on equal suffrage, defeated the proposition at a special election given over exclusively to the suffrage question on Oct. 19. While it has been held by some political observers that the result of the test in New Jersey would be reliably indicative of what might be expected in the three bigger neighboring states, the suffrage leaders have not been discouraged by the big majority with which the issue was defeated in New Jersey, and look forward to the bigger test with confidence.

The importance of this test is indicated by the fact that, in point of population, the states of New York, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts, which will vote on suffrage Nov. 23, include over 20,000,000 people—a fifth of the population of the entire United States—and these 20,000,000 are practically double the population of the states in which equal suffrage has as yet been fully achieved.

New York State

In New York state, in addition to the suffrage issue, a dominant feature of the election will be the question of adopting a new state constitution as revised by a recent state constitutional convention, presided over by Elihu Root. The new constitution, at the request of the suffrage leaders, has not been made to include the suffrage amendment, hence the constitution and the suffrage issue will be voted upon separately, neither question having anything to do directly with the fate of the other.

The features of the revised constitution are measures designed to give the cities of the state greater latitude in the management of municipal affairs and coincidentally to relieve the legislature of a vast amount of local matters; to make the governor a more responsible individual by making the numerous executive arms of the administration more directly responsible to him; to reform the judiciary so as to eliminate some of the red tape that is declared to handicap the prompt execution of the laws; and among other provisions the short ballot and the budget system. Two important articles, relating to taxation and reapportionment, will be submitted to the voters, separate from the general constitution question. Two other separate amendments would provide for a $27,000,000 bond issue to complete the Barge canal, and to permit the legislature to alter the rate of interest on certain state debts already incurred. Although the republicans were in a majority in the convention, they are not a unit in supporting the new constitution nor are the democrats standing solidly against it.

In personnel, the New York election calls for the choice of a full assembly of 150 members, 11 supreme court justices and three congressmen, as well as county and city officials in some sections of the state.

Congressional successors are to be chosen to Joseph A. Goulden, democrat, of the 23rd district, and Edwin A. Merritt, Jr., and Sereeno E. Payne, who died while serving in the last congress. The candidates are: William S. Bennett, republican, and Elsworth J. Hoody, democrat, both of New York, in the 23rd district; Bertrand H. Snell, of Potsdam, republican, William L. Allen of Malone, democrat, and Howard D. Hadley of Plattsburgh, progressive, in the 31st district; and Norman S. Gould of Seneca Falls, republican-progressive, and Louis J. Licht of Geneva, democrat, in the 36th.

Massachusetts

Massachusetts, in addition to the suffrage amendment, will vote on the proposition of giving the legislature authority to impose a tax on incomes, and similar authority for the taking over of land in country districts for the purpose of establishing homesteads for those who may wish to escape from the more congested quarters of the cities.

The successor to Gov. David I. Walsh, democrat, is to be elected, and the candidates, including Governor Walsh, are: Nelson B. Clark, progressive; Samuel W. McCall, republican; William Shaw, prohibition; Walter S. Hutchins, socialist; and Peter O'Rourke, socialist-labor.

Lieutenant governor and various other state officials, together with 10 senators and 249 members of the state house of representatives are also to be elected.

Pennsylvania

Pennsylvania will have comparatively little of general interest to its election outside of the vote on the suffrage question. No state officers are to be elected with the exception of three candidates to fill vacancies on the superior court bench. In general, the only thing other than the suffrage issue to attract the voters to the polls will be county and municipal elections, although one congressman is to be elected to fill a vacancy in the 24th district.

In Philadelphia the republican organization has conducted a vigorous campaign to regain control of the city administration, which was wrested from it four years ago when the reform elements united with the democratic party and elected Rudolph Blankenburg, a life-long reformer in politics, as mayor. The republican candidate for the mayoralty this fall is Thomas B. Smith, former postmaster of Philadelphia. His chief opponent is George D. Porter, a reformer, who has been director of the department of public safety in the Blankenburg administration. He resigned to make the canvass for the mayoralty under the banner of the recently formed Franklin party. The democratic party is running its candidates on a straight party ticket.

Maryland will elect a governor, comptroller of the state treasury, attorney general, a full house of delegates and half of the state senate. In addition four constitutional amendments will be voted upon, and local minor officers will be chosen in the counties and Baltimore city. Candidates to succeed Gov. Goldsborough, republican, are: Ovington E. Weller, republican; Emerson C. Harrington, democrat; and George R. Gorsuch, prohibitionist.

Ohio

There will be general interest in the election in Ohio for the reason that state-wide prohibition of the liquor traffic is an issue again this year, as it was last year in the form of a proposed constitutional amendment which would forbid the sale or manufacture for sale of any alcoholic beverages. The "wet" have countered this proposal with petitions under the initiative and referendum law by which the people will also vote on another provision which would prevent the submission of any constitutional amendment more than twice in six years. Ohio is the only state in the Union which will vote this fall upon the liquor issue. In addition to the broader question of prohibition the so-called liquor license decentralization law, passed by the recent legislature, will be subjected to referendum. The issue concerns largely the method of selection of license commissioners.

The Sprague congressional redistricting bill, passed by the recent legislature, will also be under fire by referendum, which was petitioned by the democratic state organization. The redistricting law as drawn would, it is declared, result in normal years in the election of sixteen republican congressmen and possibly six democratic congressmen. The democrats claim that the law which they passed when in power divided the districts about evenly between the two parties, but the republicans, but the latter claim to have regained many of those who had left the ranks.

Four years ago, when Governor McGraw, democrat, was elected, his majority over his republican opponent was approximately 50,000.

Former Congressman A. O. Stanley of Henderson, recently won the democratic gubernatorial nomination in a contested contest by the largest plurality ever accorded a candidate in Kentucky. The nomination declared in favor of state-wide prohibition. Mr. Stanley favored continuing in effect the county law of local option. This stand later was incorporated in the democratic party platform. The platform also favored strict enforcement of the people's constitutional amendment that would do away with the prison contract system, and permitting the working of convicts on the county roads.

Edwin P. Morrow of Somerset, is the republican nominee. Fred J. Bradley, a Louisville man, heads the progressive ticket.

The election in Mississippi will be merely a ratification of the nominations made by the democratic voters at the state primaries held last August. Inasmuch as no other party has candidates in the field. A full set of state, county and district officers will be formally elected, as well as members of both branches of the legislature. No congressmen will be elected this year.

The present lieutenant-governor, Theodore G. Bilbo, will become governor, succeeding Earl Brewer, and Leo M. Russell will be the lieutenant-governor. Other candidates for state offices include Secretary of State Joseph W. Powers; attorney general, Ross A. Collins; treasurer, Dr. J. P. Taylor; superintendent of education, W. H. Smith.

New Jersey

at the special election October 19, New Jersey has left little of general interest for the election of November 2. Voting on this day will be confined to the election of six members of the state senate and a full membership of 60 in the house. The campaign has been very quiet, no state-wide issues being involved. In some legislative districts, local option has been an issue.

The elections in the eight states that have been mentioned in the foregoing comprises all of the state elections that will be held in the United States this fall, and as will be noted, the voting is confined entirely to states east of the Mississippi river.

GOT OFF TRAIN AT THE DEPOT ON THEIR WAY TO THE NORTH YESTERDAY

There was considerable excitement at the Middlesex street station late yesterday afternoon when a group of about 30 Arabs, including three women, dressed in their native attire descended from a New York train and waited on the platform for the arrival of a train to take them to their destination, somewhere up north. While the immigrants were at the station a large crowd gathered and viewed them with interest. They were dressed in large white turbans with loose robes and carried but very little baggage. Some of the men carried canes, or walking sticks. The members of the party remained together during their half hour stay in this city and did not seem bothered at the amazing glances of the interested throng.

Day of Mourning

Arrangements have been made for masses to be celebrated at St. John's church tomorrow morning at 10.30 and 11.30 o'clock. Ten coffins will be taken to the church for the first service and 11 for the other. The proprietors of all stores and factories have been requested to close their establishments so that the entire town may turn the day into one of mourning.

BUILDING COMPLIED WITH LAW

PEABODY, Oct. 29.—In the cavity within the blackened brick shell of what yesterday morning was St. John's parochial school, men searched today for evidence as to the cause of the fire which cost the lives of 21 girls yesterday. Every corner of the ruins also was looked over carefully and whether all the bodies had been recovered. Early today five bodies remained unidentified at the rooms of an undertaker and five little girls had been reported by their families as missing. The undertaker expressed his opinion that the charred condition of these bodies probably would make positive identification impossible.

Fire Started in Storeroom

The only fact that could be substantiated in the day in this connection was that the flames originated in a small storeroom in the basement. The door of this room was locked. Chief Neal himself broke it open just after the fire had been subdued. That he could see in it was a part of one barrel. It was particularly toward this room that he directed his efforts today. With the inspectors he made a minute examination of the debris on the floor in the hope of learning what had been kept in the room.

Plan Public Funeral

Several of the parents of the fire victims attended mass at St. John's Roman Catholic church today. Prayers for the dead were recited. After the mass plans for a public funeral for the little ones were discussed and the arrangements were placed in the hands of Rev. Nicholas J. Murphy, pastor of the church. Meanwhile relatives of the missing children revisited the undertaking rooms and tried, by means of trinkets found with the bodies, to make further identifications.

Building Complied With Law

Acting Chief Neal, who concluded his investigations today announced that no one had been found criminally responsible for the fire. He said that while the building was badly constructed, it complied with the requirements of the law. In the opinion of the state authorities the fire started in a small closet containing school supplies, a small box of sweepings and the gas meter. One of the many theories advanced as to the origin of the fire is that the box of sweepings contained a few match-heads which may have been dropped on the floor by boys.

Exits Were Adequate

"The law requires," said Chief Neal, "that the state and local building inspectors shall consult and determine the proper means of egress from all buildings and if they are not sufficient, to order fire escapes installed on the outside of the building." The St. John's parochial school building was carefully examined and by computing the width of the exits, it was found that they were sufficient to take care of the 650 children. Within the past few days the entire school in a regular fire drill was emptied in 30 seconds.

Poisonous Smoke from Walls

"The real fault in the building was the fact that all the stairs led toward the center of the building and not toward the exits," Chief Neal added. "The walls were all sheathed and coated with stucco and the smoke from the burning wood and oil is very poisonous. It is our opinion that this loss of life as many of the children must have met death by suffocation. To have remodelled the building which was old, would have entailed heavy expenses."

"I am convinced," Chief Neal declared, "that the inspectors did their duty. The investigation, so far as the state is concerned is over."

Many letters and telegrams of condolence have been received by Father Murphy and the selection of Father Murphy have offered the use of the town hall for school purposes.

Fr. Murphy Heart-Broken

"My heart is broken over the loss of the children," Fr. Murphy said today. "The bricks and mortar can be replaced, but the loss of so many little lives is irreparable. We did all we could and I don't understand how the fire spread so quickly. We had the children sufficiently trained in fire drills. The exits were large and in a recent drill all the children were out of the building in a minute and a half."

Twelve little coffins arrived at an undertaker's rooms this morning and as fast as the charred bodies had been placed in them they were taken to the homes of the victims.

Heroic Nun Rescues Child

When the excitement was at its height and the flames were belching from the front door the hundreds of spectators were elated to see a nun struggling through the fire with a prostrate girl in her arms. The nun's garments were ablaze as were those of the girl she carried. Undaunted of her own danger she bravely attempted to beat out the fire that enveloped her charge.

Rescues Little Lads

Timothy Mahoney, a chauffeur, was first attracted to the fire by seeing a boy climb from a second story window and slide down the water spout. He thought at first the boy was merely a mischievous lad but a second later saw volumes of smoke pour from the window. He ran to the school and climbed up the spout which he had seen the boy descend and rescued two lads who had been unable to find their way through the crush in the front hall.

Makes Sign of Cross, Jumps

John Haggerty, 10, of Lynnfield street, was trapped on the second floor by the flames. When he saw his escape cut off he ran to a window and stood upon the sill. After a moment's hesitation he called to those below to catch him. He made the sign of the cross and jumped. He landed in an improvised net made from an overcoat held by several men, and was unhurt.

Girl Saves Schoolmate's Life

Mary Litney, 14, was on the third floor when the fire on the second floor of stairs drove her back into the schoolroom. With her was Margaret Flynn, who was suffering from inhaling smoke. Mary wrapped a coat about the head of the Flynn girl and then led her down the stairs to the second floor, where she took her to a window and induced the frightened girl to jump. She followed a few seconds later. Neither was seriously hurt.

PAY AS YOU GO

Token Money System

Teaches Prisoners Responsibility

There was one negro at Sing Sing who was filled with special sorrow. With the exception of one white man everyone else was filled with a grand new joy. For it was pay day at the prison and $3,000 worth of prison money went into circulation. But the negro expressed himself in the following sorrowful strain to Deputy Warden Elhu Church: "Boss, if you hadn't taken that money away, Ah'd own all do money in dis prison befo' night. Eawd Ah wish Ah could git inter a H' crap game with dese white boys, Ah'd take all dis money."

The prison words gave Mr. Church a text to point out the significance of the money system that was put into effect at Sing Sing, for upon him fell the duty of explaining it in the absence of Warden Osborne. Instead of the negro's words proving that money is the root of all evil, and would be an evil at Sing Sing, Mr. Church showed how Mr. Osborne believes it will be the most potent factor in his reform in inculcating a sense of social morality into the inmates.

"It is to my mind the most interesting sociological experiment going on in the world," Mr. Church said. "With these 1500 men penned within four walls, the connection between cause and effect comes home to them in a way it couldn't in the great outside world."

"These men are paid $1 a day in token money. They are charged for their room, and for other privileges. The men who are provident can get themselves the better rooms, plenty of tobacco, certain extras in food, go to the movies, and so on.

"But take the man who should gamble with the dinky and lose all his money. He would be broke. He wouldn't have money for extras, but, worse, he wouldn't have money to pay for his room. The prison community must support him, and that means there would have to be taxation."

"And here you have the lesson for the whole prison community, they will find that men who don't work and don't earn any token money and who gamble their token money away, are bad for the community, because it means taxation for the rest. If everyone works, uses his money to good purposes, there will be no public charges and no taxation."

"You see the cause and effect are so obvious in the token money community that the men can't help seeing the connection."—New York Times.

COUGHED CONTINUALLY

Day and Night—Man Says Nothing Helped But Vinol.

That statement does not surprise us. We have told the people of Lowell many times during the last ten years that Vinol is the greatest remedy for chronic coughs and colds that we ever sold. Mr. Dunning says:

"I took a heavy cold which settled into a chronic cough. It seemed as though I coughed continually day and night, so I could not sleep. I was all run-down and so weak I could hardly keep about. I tried different cough medicines but seemed to get worse instead of better. I went to the drug store and got a bottle of Vinol. Before it was half gone I was better and its continued use cured my cough, built me up and I am feeling fine." Benj. Dunning, 208 Tenth Ave., Scranton, Pa.

Vinol is not a palliative like cough syrup, but it is a constitutional remedy for coughs, colds and bronchitis which removes the cause and stops the cough, and the recovery of Mr. Dunning was due to the healing medicinal extractives of fresh cods' livers without oil, aided by the strengthening, revitalizing effect of tonic iron and beef peptone which are contained in Vinol.

HELD A BANQUET

Association at American House

"Fins, Fur, Feathers and Fun," the motto of the Lowell Fish and Game association, was lived up to in great style last night, the occasion being the first banquet of the organization, which was held at the New American hotel with over 100 members of the organization in attendance. In the menu were included fish and fowl, while during the post-prandial exercises which followed the dinner, those present were supplied with fun galore. Of course, the chief topic of discussion was fishing and hunting, and for the benefit of those who were not present, it is fair to say that the evening was not of the ordinary kind, for they were real "honest to goodness" stories.

During the speeches the state fish and game commission came in for discussion, the speakers criticizing the state board for failing to have the fishway resealed at Pawtucket falls.

The members of the association and others gathered for the banquet, which opened at 6.30 o'clock and lasted one hour. An informal reception was held. President Simon B. Harris and Secretary Willis S. Holt were on deck, and they made everybody feel at home. At 7.45 o'clock, to the strains of sweet music rendered by Emil Birn on the piano and Emil Borjes on the violin, the assembly marched to the banquet hall, headed by President Harris and the invited guests, and after comfortably seating themselves around the festive board, all partook of a dinner fit for kings.

The banquet hall was appropriately decorated for the occasion with large American flags, while here and there on the walls were hung fishing and hunting paraphernalia. The chandeliers were decked with foliage and the room presented a very pleasing appearance.

The decorations were by Decorator C. P. Young and Harry Gonzales, first vice president of the association.

At the close of the dinner cigars were lighted, and President Simon B. Harris made an address of welcome. He thanked the invited guests for being present in such large numbers, and said he was pleased to state he had no letter of regret to read from anyone. For all had responded cheerfully to the invitation to attend the first jollification given by the association.

Mr. Harris said the organization is to be congratulated for the success obtained during the two years and a half of its existence, and he was proud to say that the membership is composed of men of the highest character and sportsmen of the highest type. The presiding officer, in a brief way, the work of the organization and took occasion to thank William G. Turcell for his suggestion to conduct an outing next year and also for the offer of the free use of a camp on the shores of Long pond.

The Secretary's Report

Willis S. Holt, secretary of the association, made a very interesting report, dealing with the restocking of fish and game by the association since its inception in May, 1912. Mr. Holt is father of the association as well as secretary, and he has been an active member and efficient worker since the beginning. He said that the report in regard to the planting of fish in the rivers, brooks and ponds is one that the association may be excused for feeling proud of, as it was not equalled, so far as he could find, by any similar association in the United States.

Mr. Holt first told of the birds that had been received for liberation, including Mallard ducks and pheasants. The number of birds received was very small indeed as compared with the great number of birds planted. Mr. Holt named all of the birds and gave in which the fish have been distributed, and the summary was as follows: Whole number of brook trout distributed, 222,559; whole number of small-mouth black bass, 10,000; yellow perch, 20,000; pike perch, 370,000; hornpouts, 300, all adults; white perch, 5,361,150.

Mr. Holt said that the officers have done their best to get more birds and that they have the promise of more from the state commission. The birds to arrive after Nov. 12. The report also states that ten pairs of snow-shoe rabbits had been ordered from Maine for March delivery.

Hon. John J. Hogan of this city was then introduced as the toastmaster of the evening, and before he spoke Congressman John Jacob Rogers entered the hall and was given a rousing reception with three cheers and a tiger to boot.

Mr. Hogan, after a talk about the fishway that does not exist, introduced the speaker of the evening, Hon. Samuel P. Hadley.

Justice Hadley's Remarks

In his opening remarks Judge Hadley, who was given a warm welcome, complimented the association for its success, and the promise of the banquet for having provided their fellow-members with food which they have heretofore been deprived of by the failure of the state fish and game commission to restore the fishway. The speaker then referred to the old fishway before the Pawtucket dam was erected, and said in those days large quantities of salmon and shad went up the stream from the sea as far as New Hampshire to spawn, with the result that there was an abundance of salmon and shad in the Merrimack river.

"In those days," said Judge Hadley, "the salmon in the Merrimack was so numerous that we boys used to spear them in the evening under the glare of torchlights. It was often that mother would say, 'Sam, go to your Uncle Varum and see if he has a salmon or a shad to spare,' and each time I would return with more fish than we could eat. In those days two cents would buy a very large shad."

"Speaking about salmon, I remember that my Uncle Varum caught an extra large one and he made up his mind to dispose of it in Boston. He went to the Hub and in exchange for his salmon he returned with a baby negro, who grew to be an old man, and his remains are now in the Varum cemetery. It was a common occurrence to see large wagons loaded with salmon and shad at the Pawtucket falls, the fish being sold for about one cent and a half each."

The speaker then turned his attention to game, and said that although he went out several times with an old-fashioned gun, he never in his life killed an animal. He told of a woodchuck he caught when he was a boy and said he kept the animal for a long time. He said he used to feed his "pet" with clover, and the woodchuck grew to be a very large fellow and his delight was to go into the music room and listen to the piano. "Much to my sorrow," he continued, "my pet was killed by the dog of a member of this association, Mr. Bowers." Judge Hadley closed by saying the state fish and game commission was doing an injustice to the residents of Lowell by not restoring the fishway.

At the close of Judge Hadley's remarks, James E. Donnelly delighted the large attendance with a couple of Scottish songs. Other numbers on the program included addresses by Congressman Rogers, Mayor Murphy, Frank J. Beal, fish and game commissioner of New Hampshire; Waldo F. Hubbard, superintendent of the U. S. fish hatchery at Nashua, N. H.; George L. Huntoon, Esq., Charles L. Marren and Supt. Redmond Welch, and musical numbers by William C. Purcell, Emil Birn and Emil Borjes.

But Maklakov and Tcheglovitov, the two leading reactionary ministers, then governed the country, and Bourizev was arrested and exiled notwithstanding the promise of pardon. When the two reactionaries were forced to resign, Bourizev was promptly pardoned. Their dismissal, he says, marks the passing of the old regime.

The prorogation of the Duma was lamented by the revolutionists, who nevertheless hoped the sittings would soon be resumed.

"No one can doubt that at the present hour the Duma and country are closely united," he added. "Our salvation depends on the Duma."

Speaking of his second exile in Siberia, Bourizev said the transportation system had changed for the worse. Thirty years ago the political prisoners were kept separated from the others, while lately he had been handcuffed and put in the company of common malefactors and on arriving at the convict settlement he was never allowed out of the sight of his guards.

"We live an intense political life," he concluded, "and I do not doubt that Russia stands at last on the way to real social progress."

WHAT HORTENSE TOLD ME

Some beauty don'ts by Hortense: Don't wear thin shoes and gossamer stockings in cold weather or you will have that pinched, chilled look that is so unbecoming. Don't economize in shoe leather. It is economy which will likely cost you dear. Don't give up taking exercise even if the weather is bad. A brisk walk on a cold day is a splendid complexion beautifier.

hot and stuffy. Always leave the window slightly open at the top.

Hortense tells me that an excellent lotion for preserving the color of the hair is made from camomile flowers. An ounce of these should be placed in a bowl, and about a pint of boiling water over them. Cover the bowl and allow to stand for a couple of hours, then strain carefully and use occasionally, dabbing it into the roots of the hair.

The more fair hair is brushed the better it looks. Brushing gives a gloss which eventually becomes permanent; and so is far better than what brilliantine could impart, also it frees the scalp from dust and makes the hair grow. The brushes must be kept scrupulously clean, should be washed every morning and then left to dry ready for the night brushing.

There is one thing the business girl does, sooner or later and it is about the worst thing she could do. She goes without her lunches, sometimes because she thinks she has to, or sometimes to pay for some foolish piece of flattery which she doesn't like after she gets it. If she takes her lunch she often omits breakfast.

This is very poor economy and poor philosophy, thinks Hortense. There is no wisdom in working all day on an empty stomach and taking a chance on catching the first contagious disease that comes your way, as well as spoiling your chances of being beautiful. If you do not conserve your strength to combat germs they will find easy lodgment in a weakened body.

And you can't expect to do your work as well as you would if you have a clear brain and a hale, hearty feeling. You may not feel the effects of going without your meals all at once, but it is bound to harm your health and appearance in the end.

For that tired face that many women have, Hortense says a nice long walk every day with deep breaths of clear crisp air will do much. Then, too, you should retire at a certain hour each night so that you may have at least eight hours' sleep. Then, if you wish to use creams, here is a recipe for one which she thinks you will find beneficial as a massage to work out the tired lines.

Mutton tallow one pound, spirits of camphor one dram, liniment of benzoin two drams, glycerine five ounces, powdered alum half a dram, best Russian Isinglass one dram, orange flower water two ounces.

After you have tried out the tallow in a small stew pan you will have a cup of fat. Add to this the alum and glycerine. Dissolve the Isinglass in the orange flower water and add to the glycerine, alum and tallow. Lastly add the other ingredients and beat the compound.

Hortense says that too often does the girl who has natural beauty in her youth, squander it prodigally, keeping late hours, over-exercising and eating irregularly food, rich but not particularly nourishing. Health and strength are props on which beauty depends for support, and when inroads are constantly made on these, it quickly fades. To continue in the possession of health and strength no new laws are needed, but the old rule of plenty of sleep, nourishing food eaten regularly and much exercise, must be observed.

Sufficient sleep is more conducive to good looks than any artificial means yet discovered by the beauty doctors. If you would keep your eyes bright and your face unlined, obey the eight hour law of sleep.

Two things, done every day, will keep the hair attractive, says Hortense. These things are the massage of the scalp and the brushing of the hair. The former loosens the scalp and promotes the circulation of the blood through the scalp. The brushing frees the hair from dust, also stimulates the circulation of blood in the scalp and regulates the flow of the natural oil, which gives hair its gloss and brilliancy. If your hair is inclined to be dry, a few drops of castor oil should be applied to the scalp once or twice a week.

If your neck looks yellow and the skin is rough, don't despair. First of all cleanse the neck with warm, soapy water. Rinse with clean warm water and, after drying the skin, massage cocoa butter or olive oil into it. The juice of a lemon or diluted peroxide applied to the skin will bleach it.

IN MILADY'S BOUDOIR

YOUR NECK TELLS YOUR AGE.

There is nothing about a woman's appearance that tells her age so surely as her neck, and when it is beautiful it is one of her most seductive charms. Why is it that so many women who take the greatest care of their complexion and their appearance generally, will not look beneath the chin for faults to correct?

Your neck is scrawny, cocoa butter is efficacious in filling out the hollows. Rub it all off with a clean cloth when you have finished the massage and apply a little pure powder to keep from soiling the neckbands of your waists. In drying and rubbing the neck always rub from the top down. If your neck is brown or discolored there are a number of good remedies that may be used to bleach it. There is nothing better, however, than lemon juice and water. One woman I know who has a lovely neck, always keeps a half lemon on her wash stand. Just before she dries her neck every morning, she merely rubs a little lemon juice on it.

Tight collars are responsible for many unsightly necks. When you consider how close the connection is between the brain and the rest of the body, it surely does not seem a wise policy to place any restriction about the neck which might interfere with the circulation of the blood to the brain, or tend to check proper breathing. It is so delightful to feel that the neck is free and to feel the fresh air upon it.

PROHIBITION MOVEMENT

LEADING ISSUE IN PRESENT CAMPAIGN IN NORWAY—SINCE BEGINNING OF THE WAR

CHRISTIANIA, Norway, Oct. 29.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—The prohibition movement which, since the beginning of the war, has been gaining momentum in all the Scandinavian countries, has become in Norway a leading issue in the present political campaign. Otnar Knudsen, the prime minister, stated in a recent speech that country-wide prohibition would be an achievement of the near future. But except among socialist and radical circles which have strongly espoused the prohibition cause, it is thought that the economic and international complications resulting from such a reform will make it impracticable—or at least inadvisable.

The wine-producing European countries do not look favorably upon the curtailment of their liquor exports to Norway, and it is felt here that in the case of prohibition reforms, they will undertake reprisals which will seriously injure the commercial and financial standing of the country. In 1909, when the legislature passed a bill restricting the import of French wines, Norwegian bonds were refused a rating on the Paris exchange, and the bill was repealed. The French declaration, made at this time, to the effect that France would assume the liberty of making such an answer to any Norwegian legislation detrimental to France's wine trade, is still in force. France, Spain and Portugal, according to a tariff declaration of 1910, will double the duty on articles imported from countries which throw difficulties in the way of the wine trader. The Norwegian exports to these countries are several million dollars in excess of the imports, and any interference with these exports would work a serious commercial injury to Norway. Norway, at present, enjoys the "most favored nation" clause in her commercial treaties with France. If France feels that her wine exports to Norway are being restricted, she may, according to the tariff declaration already mentioned, "take any steps the circumstances dictate," including the raising of harbor dues for Norwegian ships in French harbors, which will make it difficult for Norway to compete with other nations. France at present takes half of all the wood pulp and cellulose produced in Norway and Portugal and Spain each take 30 per cent. of Norway's split coal.

Those opposed to prohibition use these arguments to show that a small country like Norway, which is in so many ways dependent on other countries, cannot, without injuring profitable trade and disturbing her financial standing, adopt as strict a degree of prohibition, as has been urged. All parties, however, are agreed that there should be a rigid control of the sale of alcoholic beverages and that their consumption should be replaced by light wines and beer.

It is also argued that Norway's long coast-line and thousands of protected fjords would make it impossible to prevent wholesale smuggling. It is also common in Norway to make wine—some of it containing a high per cent. of alcohol—out of blue-berries, currants and apples, which can be sold by grocers without special license. Critics of the prohibition program state that it would be difficult to devise and enforce a law to prevent people from distilling berry wines and stronger alcoholic drinks in their own kitchens for home use.

WALSH ON FARE RAISES

Governor Doubts Justice of Changes — Promises Inquiry Before Request is Allowed

BOSTON, Oct. 29.—Gov. Walsh continued yesterday his campaign for a re-election. In the day-time he took a trip through the southeastern part of the state, speaking in Quincy, Weymouth Landing, South Weymouth, No. Abington, Abington, Brockton, Bridgewater, Middleboro, Plymouth and Kingston, and in the evening he addressed remarkably large rallies in Lynn, Medford, two halls in Somerville and three halls in Cambridge.

It was a highly successful day in every particular from the standpoint of the governor. His daytime audiences were larger than any other candidate has had this year in the same places, and the evening meetings surpassed in attendance and enthusiasm any similar gatherings in Massachusetts in years.

Trolley Fare Increase
His speeches for the most part covered issues which he has previously discussed, but at the Lynn meeting he read a carefully-prepared statement in regard to the higher fares which the street railway companies of the state would charge their patrons.

The governor said in effect that if he would call on the legislature to make a full investigation of all the circumstances affecting the case and would do all he could to prevent these increases in fares if it was shown that the companies which would put them in force had been overcapitalized or imprudently managed. This declaration roused the greatest enthusiasm among his Lynn auditors.

Mrs. Barry With Party
The governor was due in Quincy square, where he had his first appointment yesterday morning, at 9 o'clock, but the late hour of his rally Wednesday evening kept him in Worcester over night and made him late in starting on yesterday's schedule. Consequently, instead of being in Quincy at 9 o'clock he arrived there at 10:45.

In spite of the long delay about 200 people were waiting for him. They had been held by ex-Lieut. Gov. Barry and ex-Representative W. L. V. Newton of Boston, who acted as advance couriers for the governor.

Mrs. Barry accompanied her husband on the trip and distributed Wilson and Walsh buttons to the women who gathered to listen to the speaking. When the governor had gone a little farther Congressman Olney joined the party and spoke in several places. The governor talked for 15 minutes in Quincy and then went on to Weymouth Landing. He found 60 or 70 people there, although he was almost two hours behind his schedule; among them was ex-Representative Whelan, who served with the governor when the latter was in the legislature. The governor's address at Weymouth Landing lasted only about eight minutes.

His next stopping place was Columbia square, South Weymouth. A large company of school children was waiting there for him, and he told them amusing stories of his experiences before he took up more serious matters for their elders. Gordon Willis, who keeps a shop in the square, was another former associate in the legislature who sought out and spoke to the governor.

Makes Up Lost Time
More than 200 people were at North Abington when the governor arrived there at 11:45. He was introduced by Arthur H. Reed, the local member of the democratic state committee. The governor spoke for about 15 minutes and then hurried on to Abington, where he had another large crowd of school children in addition to the adult listeners.

By this time the governor through the process of cutting off his addresses, had made up his schedule and he arrived at Brockton promptly at the time set—12:30. He spoke there for half an hour to an audience of 500 people, the largest of the day.

His next appointment was at Bridgewater at 1:45, and he arrived there on time, expecting to speak briefly, but he found his hearers so interested and so inquiring that he talked for 40 minutes. He stepped out of his automobile and went inside the little enclosed green where he spoke to the 200 or more who had assembled.

It was one of the most effective meetings of the trip. Two or three times he started for his car, but another in the crowd drew him back. Consequently he was late when he left for Middleboro.

Introduced by Progressive
He had hardly gone inside the limits of that town when he drew up by the roadside for a few minutes to talk to the children in the little Purchase school; they, with their teacher, Mrs. Wood, the wife of the democratic candidate for the legislature from that district, had waited a long time to see the governor, and he was too obliging to pass by without a word.

He was more than half an hour late at Middleboro square, but at least 250 people were there. The governor was introduced by James A. Thomas, formerly a republican and now a progressive. Mr. Thomas declared that the governor came up to his standards of a progressive. The address in Middleboro took 35 minutes.

It was a long ride to Plymouth, the next stopping-place and the governor arrived there at 4:10, almost an hour late. He had a large audience and he spoke for 25 minutes. Then he hurried on to Kingston, where about 50 people were waiting in front of G. A. T. hall. He had intended to go to Duxbury also, but by this time it was dark and he had to rush back to Boston for his evening engagements. So Duxbury was cut out of the schedule.

Criticisms of McCall
At all the daylight meetings the governor spoke of the "invisible government," taxation, the milk legislation, industrial insurance and the other topics which he has considered earlier in the campaign. He made his appeal yesterday not to democrats alone, but to all others who believe in the things he has accomplished or tried to bring about.

He sharply criticized the republican legislature for defeating so much progressive legislation which he had recommended, and he again called on Mr. McCall to make his position known on some of the state issues instead of talking about the tariff, the European war, the troubles in Mexico, and other matters in which the governor of Massachusetts had no more concern than any other citizen.

Gov. Walsh had barely time to eat a hurried dinner in Boston before he went to Lynn, where he spoke in Odd Fellows hall. It was crowded to the doors. Rep. Donahue, the democratic candidate for attorney general, was speaking when the governor entered the hall at 5:10, but Mr. Donahue soon gave way to the governor, who spoke for an hour.

Proposed Fare Increase
It was a most enthusiastic and responsive audience, and the governor rose to the occasion. Touching the proposed increase in street railway fares, he said:

"The democratic platform declares for the enactment of legislation preventing any increase in common carrier freight rates or passenger fares unless companies seeking such increases have been honestly capitalized, and honestly and economically managed, and with this declaration I am in full accord. There should be definite legislation upon the statute books fixing the basis upon which rates and fares should be determined."

"This action of the democratic convention also defines our attitude toward the pending petitions for an increase of fares fixed by street railway companies. These proposed increases would affect over 1,000,000 of our people, many thousands of them working men and women to whom their daily car fare is an important item of expense."

"The people have a right to demand that the state, through its public service commission, should spare neither time nor expense in the examination of the financial condition of the companies; their capitalization and expenditures, to determine the need of an increase in fares. Capital honestly invested in public utility corporations must be protected, but the regulating authority must be vigilant as well to protect the public interest."

Robbing Peter to Pay Paul
"I am convinced that justice demands that Lynn, Lowell, Lawrence, Brockton, Haverhill and Fall River and other cities and towns where the companies may now be receiving adequate returns upon the capital invested should not be saddled with increased fares to make up for the losses upon 'thin' lines, many of them built by promoters for speculation when stock watering was rampant. Justice demands that if any increase is found necessary it should be borne only when and where necessity imposes it."

The schedules of fares filed have been suspended for the full period of six months allowed by the statute for investigation. It may be that this period will be insufficient, and I give assurance to the people of the state that if re-elected governor I shall call upon the incoming legislature, if necessary, to extend the time for investigation and to provide funds if needed to make this inquiry as complete as the protection of the million of persons affected in justice requires."

PROTEST HIGHER AUTO TAX
Counsel for Owners and Dealers Appearing at State House Hint at Test of Constitutionality

BOSTON, Oct. 29.—An increase in the automobile registration tax was strongly opposed by representatives of many automobile owners yesterday morning at the hearing before the special taxation commission in the state house, and it was even hinted that the constitutionality of the law might be tested in court if larger fees than those now in vogue were exacted.

A tentative draft of a bill embodying many disputed points was before

Simple Remedy Promotes Health by Overcoming Tendency to Constipation.

Advancing years impair the action of the vital organs. Old age should be the period of greatest happiness, but good health is necessary. Constipation should not be tolerated—it is often the direct cause of ill health. Headache, belching, biliousness, bloatedness, drowsiness after eating and other symptoms of constipation can be readily relieved by the use of a simple laxative compound sold in drug stores under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Mr. J. H. Bristol, 1412 Geddes Ave., Ann Arbor, Mich., who is 53 years old, says: "Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the best remedy I ever used for constipation and I always have a bottle of it in the house to use when I feel the need of it; it never disappoints."

formation regarding the whole subject of automobile taxation.

John D. Sullivan, representing the Boston Automobile Dealers' association and the Boston Commercial Automobile association, insisted that the present tax on automobiles is sufficient and opposed any increase in the fee on motor trucks. He called attention to the fact that everyone in the state derives benefit from auto trucks, which are coming to be one of the greatest factors in distribution.

Mr. Sullivan expressed the opinion that a real attempt should be made to revise the entire system to the end that the state may get more revenue and the automobile owners not be required to pay so heavy an assessment as they now have to do. Chairman Tufts also declared that a full and free revision is the only way to deal with the question.

James T. Sullivan, representing the Bay State Automobile association, contended that the present law should be left as it is, for the automobile industry is a tremendous asset to the state. He opposed the levying of increased taxes on the automobile itself and an increased fee on the registration of chauffeurs. Frank B. Holmes, president of the Kissel Kar company, also opposed any increase in registration.

NOTES IN WAR GEOGRAPHY

BERLIN, Oct. 29.—The school authorities in Bavaria have published notes on war geography for the children attending the public schools. The following information is given regarding Russia:

The Russian territory already occupied by the Germans is four times as extensive as the kingdom of Bavaria, but is only one-seventh-fifth of the entire Russian empire. But the greater part of Russia is thinly populated, and the most populous districts are already in German possession. Russia now has only 145 millions, whereas the central monarchies rule over 155 millions.

At the beginning of the war, Russia had fifty million more inhabitants than Germany and Austro-Hungary combined; namely, 170 millions against 120 millions. After a year of warfare, this position had been reversed: Russia now has only 145 millions, whereas the central monarchies rule over 155 millions.

TAXATION REFORMS

There is no political question more timely at the present time than the question of reform in taxation methods, and there is no question that more intimately concerns the average citizen. For years, every candidate for governor has been telling the people that through evasion of the law and the inadequacy of the present systems of assessing and collecting taxes, millions of dollars are lost to the state annually and it is well understood that those who evade paying their just share of the taxes are those who are best able to pay. Because of this evasion of tax-paying, cities and towns lose millions in revenue, and those who do pay the taxes have to pay far more than their just proportionate share. The democratic platform is pledged to reform in taxation methods and Governor Walsh has made the fight peculiarly his own. If he is successful in his struggle for reform, the state will have far greater revenue, all taxes will be collected as they ought to be, and the distribution of the tax burden will be far more equitable.

During his term of office Governor Walsh recommended that all owners of stocks and bonds be ordered to make compulsory returns of their holdings so as to prevent tax dodging; he also recommended that the tax commissioner of the state be given power to revise and collect local assessments so as to prevent collusion between assessors and rich and influential people and also to see that the laws are equally enforced everywhere.

Governor Walsh also recommended a redistribution of corporation taxes which are now collected by the state and distributed to various municipalities in accordance with the ownership of the stocks in such corporations by the residents of the various communities. Usually, the owners of stocks in so-called mill cities and other manufacturing cities live somewhere else, so that when the taxes are redistributed to the communities where the owners live, the rich cities and towns get the money that should go to less fortunate communities. The governor recommended that these corporation taxes be paid to the cities and towns where the money of the corporations is earned and where they are located rather than to the towns where the stockholders happen to reside. These reforms were rejected by the republican legislature.

In explaining his system of tax reform to the citizens of New Bedford a few days ago, Governor Walsh said that had it been adopted it would have increased New Bedford's revenue in 1914 by $547,000, "which is $50,000 more than the whole amount spent on New Bedford's schools in 1913 and almost double the cost of the city streets." Governor Walsh then continued—and his words are equally applicable to Lowell:

"If then, your present appropriations for municipal objects are large enough, the adoption of my plan would enable the tax rate of New Bedford to be lowered nearly $5 in a thousand instead of being raised more than $1 as it will be raised if the incoming legislature is controlled by the same influences which have ruled its action in regard to the taxation in previous years."

By Governor Walsh's change of distribution of taxes by the state, Lowell would get hundreds of thousands of dollars assessed upon Lowell stock but going to communities where the stockholders live. It is only just that the taxes revert to the municipalities in which the industries are located and their money earned and Lowell should support a governor who in turn supports a reform that would mean so much to Lowell.

SEN. GORE ANSWERS McCALL

Senator Gore, the blind senator from Oklahoma, not only made a strong personal impression at the machine shop yesterday noon but he made one of the most convincing appeals for Governor Walsh heard during the campaign. With facts and figures at his finger tips he refuted the tariff arguments of Mr. McCall and advanced proofs of returning prosperity to offset the dismal picture painted by those who want to scare the voters of Massachusetts into voting for the republican candidate.

Senator Gore is surprisingly eloquent and he has the saving sense of humor which sprinkles his speeches with anecdotes and pointed illustrations. An instance of this was given in his pretended ignorance of our state affairs. So ignorant was he in fact as he explained laughingly, that until he came here and heard the claims of Mr. McCall, he did not know that our chief executive could raise taxes without legislative consent. As the distinguished speaker inferred, the state constitution has wisely provided that no governor can mismanage state funds as all financial functions are in control of the legislature. The republican candidate claims that there was state extravagance; if so, let him put the blame where it belongs—on a republican legislature.

Senator Gore also condemned the partisan appeal of Mr. McCall for the defeat of Governor Walsh as a rebuke to President Wilson. As one who has been on the ground and who has been in close touch with the administration through most trying times, he asked for the "overwhelming re-election" of our present governor as an endorsement of the government at Washington. He did not ask this without giving his reasons, and instead of the vague and unfair generalities of Mr. McCall he reviewed the great work of the administration and showed where it deserves the support of patriotic citizens. He also proved by statistics that the rush of prosperity has come as a crushing blow to republican claims, and reminded his audience of the last great panic which was in the republican days of 1907.

The most convincing part of Senator Gore's remarks dealt with the tariff which, he said, has had nothing to do with the partial disorganization of our national affairs. He proved from government reports that the nation had prospered even beyond the prognostications of democrats until the outbreak of the war and he showed by a comparison of statistics with those of the republics of South America that the nations there have been affected by the war in an equal or even greater degree than we have been. After showing the falling off in revenue in Argentina, Brazil, Chile and so on he asked: "Was that due too to the Lindbergh tariff bill or was it due to the European war?" He wound up his tariff discussion by declaring that our national prosperity is not at all so dependent on the tariff as republicans profess to believe.

By a lucid review of the great national measures of the administration, the statesman from Oklahoma showed that the democratic party has striven to benefit the great masses in this country. He defended the Clayton act, the federal currency act and other progressive measures and as the mill bells rang out he gave this parting message to Lowell: "Vote for peace, vote for neutrality, vote for prosperity—vote for Governor Walsh and President Wilson."

RECORD OF ACHIEVEMENT

The statement has been made by Congressman Gulliver that Governor Walsh in one year has accomplished more far-reaching reforms for the people as a whole than did the four most popular governors of the last 30 years—Russell, Greenhalge, Wolcott and Guild—all men of illustrious memory. Yet what Governor Walsh has achieved in this line has been trifling compared to what it would have been if his main recommendations had not been blocked by a republican legislature.

Here are a few of the facts that back up the claim of Congressman Gulliver:

In one year he has increased the benefits to injured workmen $890,815.00.

In one year he has increased the amount paid to widows and children of employees killed at work $423,093.00.

He has vetoed a milk bill which would have raised the milk industry of the state.

He obtained $2,500,000.00 for good country roads.

He has inaugurated a system of free educational correspondence schools for ambitious working people who cannot attend school or pay for a private education.

He has established the best health department in this country to safeguard the health of the people.

He has removed from the election laws the requirement for a party enrollment which had previously nullified the secrecy of Australian ballot.

He has secured the extension of savings bank life insurance which permits you to have your life insured for much less than similar insurance would cost on any private enterprise.

He has persistently advocated a reform of the tax system which will materially lessen the burden of every wage-earner and home-owner, and put an end to tax-dodging.

He has placed water companies and hydro-electric companies for the first time under public regulation and supervision.

He has broadened and extended the powers of the state in the supervision and regulation of all gas and electric light companies.

In the last hours of the legislature the railroads tried to slip through a bill which was intended to make Massachusetts endorse the so-called "unearned increment" theory on which the railroads want to base an increase of freight rates and carfares. This theory, if accepted, would take more than seven hundred million dollars a year out of the pockets of the American people.

But Governor Walsh stopped the scheme by a veto and compelled the republican organization to cut it out of the railroad bill.

He is opposed to any increase in fares on street or steam railroads unless it clearly appears that the corporations have been honestly capitalized and efficiently managed.

THE PEABODY DISASTER

The horrible school fire in Peabody in which over a score of children perished has shocked the people of the entire state.

The origin of the fire seems to be unexplained, nor can anybody so far as the account goes explain how it was that the flames spread so rapidly throughout the building after the school was opened in the morning. It is said the boiler did not explode, as at first supposed; yet it seems that nothing short of an explosion of some kind could have sent the flames so promptly all over the three-story building.

But whatever the cause may have been, there are certain lessons to be learned from this fire that may help prevent such catastrophes in the future.

Fire drills are very good in their way, but the perfection with which they are carried out when there is no fire gives teachers a delusive sense of security, as they feel that when the building can be cleared in two minutes or thereabouts it is almost impossible that the pupils could be hemmed in by fire. The absurdity of that theory was shown in the Peabody fire. It was shown too, that if there is a fire it is not safe to trust children to make their way out. They should always be led by a teacher, who might prevent overcrowding and panic in the face of danger.

In the Peabody fire, it seems that the fire must have been burning up through the partitions long before the school opened and when once the doors let all the flames burst forth on all the floors and stairways about the same time so that the exits were suddenly cut off. Then the rush was for the windows, for unfortunately, there were no fire escapes on the building.

Perhaps it takes a Titanic disaster to convince ship owners that life boats sufficient to save the crew and passengers are an imperative necessity and it may take a Salem or a Peabody fire to convince some people that it is necessary to keep a well equipped fire department and to provide such fire escapes as may offer protection to the occupants of school and other buildings until the firemen arrive. Had there been a fire escape on the third-story of the Peabody school there would have been no loss of life. As the building stood there was not proper provision for the safety of its 600 children in case of fire. Who was to blame for this?

It is pertinent to ask whether such a catastrophe is possible here in Lowell. The state inspectors, the local fire authorities, and all others interested should take steps to see that in every school in our city, whether public or private, the most ample, scientific and complete protection shall be provided for the pupils.

WALSH WILL BE ELECTED

The prevailing opinion throughout the state is, that Gov. Walsh will be elected by a very substantial plurality. The people do not accept the absurd claims of Mr. McCall and his supporters when they say that but for the European war this country would be under a business depression today. Neither do they believe Mr. Coolidge when he says that Governor Walsh is responsible for increased expenditures in the state.

"Some years ago," said Mr. Coolidge, with a republican governor our state expenditures were thirteen millions. Now after two years of a democratic governor they are twenty millions. Therefore, the governor is responsible. Does Mr. Coolidge imagine that any intelligent citizen will swallow a fallacy of that kind in face of the fact that the republican legislature controls all expenditures?

Gov. Walsh has honored the state wherever he has represented her and he has worked incessantly for better government, purer politics and the uplift of the masses. He has accomplished much in spite of republican obstruction. The claim that he would be dominated by certain political factions has been completely refuted by his eminent freedom from all improper influences and his devotion to high ideals and the best interests of the state and nation.

His two years of eminently honest, progressive and patriotic service should bring him a re-election by a sweeping majority as against his principal opponent. The fact that the republicans cannot bring up a single well grounded charge against the governor or his administration is proof that it must have been eminently clean, efficient and successful. He is the first democratic candidate for many years who has completely silenced republican criticism.

WHO SENT THEM?

CHILDREN HATE PILLS, CALOMEL AND CASTOR OIL

If Cross, Feverish, Constipated, Give "California Syrup of Figs"

Look back at your childhood days. Remember the "dose" mother insisted on—castor oil, calomel, cathartics. How you hated them, how you fought against taking them.

With our children it's different. Mothers who cling to the old form of physic simply don't realize what they do. The children's revolt is well-founded. Their tender little "bodies" are injured by liver and bowels need cleansing, give only delicate "California Syrup of Figs." Its action is positive, but gentle. Millions of mothers keep this harmless "fruit laxative" handy; they know children love to take it; that it never fails to clean the liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach, and that a teaspoonful given today saves a sick child tomorrow.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on each bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. See that it is made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

when bomb throwers tell of being sent from Germany for lawless purposes, it is another matter. That a considerable conspiracy existed seems probable and there is reason to suspect that the activity of the conspirators was known to some branch of the home government. If such can be proved, the protest of our government will be prompt and unmistakable, for it ill behooves a nation which has complained so bitterly about our neutrality to encourage practices that bring the war into this country.

Black Foxes Hard to Raise
Cannibalistic tendencies developed in captivity by that valuable fur-bearer, the black fox, have proved a serious drawback to the fox-raising industry of Prince Edward Island, where 200 farmers are engaged in the business. Pups are frequently eaten by their parents, and there are also instances of females being killed and partially eaten by their mates.

"Give me a place in the heart of the world!"

Thus cried a wight I knew:
"One with Nature, her own dear child,
There would I live life through;
Swallowed up in her let me lie,
Close to her great heart, let me die."

So he fled to the hills of the great northwest,
Far from the haunts of men,
And I think he obtained his longed-for rest.

For he never was seen again;
But the indications were plain out there
He was eaten alive by a grizzly bear.

If you find that grizzly by searching

And roaming the mountains through,
And may pin a line on his shaggy hide
In regard the wight I knew;
And these be the lines that you grave for me—

Elizabeth's Fathers
In the primary history class the teacher used the word "forefathers," and proceeded to explain its meaning. "I haven't any four fathers," objected Elizabeth when the teacher had said that every little boy and every little girl had forefathers. "You certainly have," answered the teacher. "Every child in the world has forefathers." "I've only got two fathers," persisted Elizabeth: "my heavenly father and my unheavenly father."

Could Use the Vote

This is the age par excellence of the woman worker, and one of the most energetic and capable lady workers is Lady Frances Baifour, who is interesting herself keenly just now in the problem of woman's place in the nation after the war is over.

Lady Frances has for long been a staunch advocate of woman suffrage, although she admits that some women have a queer idea of politics. In proof of which she has told an amusing story.

While she was on a visit to Edinburgh, a Scotch minister told her that his mother, a very old lady indeed, had stated that she was strongly in favor of woman's enfranchisement. The minister thought her wonderfully advanced, considering the period when she was educated, and asked her why she thought that members of her own sex ought to have votes.

"Oh," replied the old lady, "and why shouldn't the poor women, too, have something to sell?"

MR. SHAW FLAYS M'CALL

Calls Him Liar and Coward—
Liquor Interests

WORCESTER, Oct. 29.—William Shaw, prohibition candidate for governor, in an open air rally yesterday on the Worcester common, publicly called Samuel W. McCall, the republican candidate, a coward and a liar. His remarks were in answer to Mr. McCall's speech in Waltham Wednesday night, in which Mr. McCall charged that Mr. Shaw is using the Christian Endeavor society for political purposes. He said in part:

"Until last night the republican candidate for governor has not been fit to discuss one single state issue in this campaign. He did devote last night and talk on a state issue. That issue was I, and Mr. McCall, in a speech in Waltham, said things which cause me to stand here today and repeat what I consider to be the most daringly audacious ever made on a candidate for public office."

"As a result of his attack last night, I want to say now that the gloves are off as far as McCall is concerned and from now on it will be a fight to a finish with bare knuckles. "I am a poor man and a man who did not receive the high education which Mr. McCall has. I was never taught to dissemble, nor was I taught to hide behind platitudes. As a result, when Mr. McCall refused to meet the liquor issue I simply said he was a coward."

"As a result of his attack on me last night I suppose I should say that he is mistaken and that he is a prevaricator, but I will not say that. I will say that he is a coward and a liar. And I add that on Tuesday next McCall will go down in defeat. He knows it and his actions last night were the actions of a demagogue seeking his last refuge trying to account for his defeat."

"I am not in this fight to defeat Sam McCall nor to elect David I. Walsh. The democratic party is openly allied with the liquor interests. The republican party is secretly allied with the liquor interests, and between the two I have more regard for the party openly allied with it."

Mr. Shaw also announced to the crowd of 300 who heard him that he has invited the editors of Boston papers and Chairman Thurston of the republican state committee to meet him in the Boston City club at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon, when he will produce evidence which he believes will show that prominent republicans have threatened to stop all contributions to a fund which he is raising to erect a home office building for the Christian Endeavor society.

BENTING CLUB DIRECTORS MET

The first meeting of the new board of directors of the Bunting club was held at the club house, last evening, with President James Smith in the chair, and all the members in attendance. The football game at Andover tomorrow was one of the principal topics of discussion.

The directors voted to start the winter entertainments with a concert, the first Sunday in December. Richard Galway was placed in charge of the program and he promised to furnish a big bill.

The pool and billiard committee will meet tomorrow and arrange for a pool and billiard tournament for valuable prizes.

OLIPHANT, ARMY HALFBACK, PLAYING A SENSATIONAL ALL AROUND GAME

OLIPHANT

Head Coach Daly is out with the statement that Oliphant, the Army's star halfback, is the greatest all around player and kicker of the year. This season his educated toe has been instrumental in winning several games for the West Pointers. Not alone has Oliphant done some splendid work with his toe, but his all around playing has been sensational. In game with Georgetown recently he was the whole show. In the second period of the recent game the Cadets scored their only touchdown, Oliphant doing most of the work in a pretty advance through tackle and around end which started at midfield and culminated in the score. Oliphant took it over and kicked the goal. In the third period he kicked a placement goal from the thirty-five yard line. Oliphant was a shining light on the Purdue university two seasons ago.

SUSPENDED, NOT DEAD

QUOTA SYSTEM FOR ENLISTMENT IS A HISTORIC METHOD OF RAISING TROOPS

LONDON, October.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press)—The quota system which Lord Kitchener is said to advocate as a compromise between the present compulsory enlistment system and conscription is a historic method of raising troops, for it existed in England from Saxon times down to the year 1532. It is now merely suspended, not dead.

By the quota system, Great Britain would be divided into military districts, each of which is required to send its quota of a required number of recruits. It is a form of conscription, but a democratic form that stood the test of eight centuries. Its special merits are its appeal to local patriotism and its civil control. Each locality has the power to enforce enlistment if other means fail, but a large number of additional voluntary recruits will be found just because the affair is managed by the civil authorities and the appeal is more personal and less emotional than the military recruiting with their bands and speech-making actors.

There are many statutes on the English books relating to the quota system, which can be enforced at any time by an order of the privy council with the approval of parliament. Some changes were made from the old methods in 1757 when the various counties were instructed to proportion their quota among the various parishes where the men, in case of necessity, were to be chosen by ballot. This law placed the age of service from 15 to 30 years, exempting all men with more than one child born in wedlock. Forces for the Napoleonic wars were thus raised. In 1822 the old militia passed from the control of the counties to the war office, and the system of district selection was allowed to lapse.

ISLE OF MAN HIT HARD

LONDON, Oct.—No part of the United Kingdom has been so hard hit by the war as the Isle of Man, which is now on the verge of bankruptcy because the Imperial treasury insists on the wiping out of the deficit of £120,000 before it will sanction the relief of distress. Where the money is to come from is a problem, as the proposed remedy of higher duties and taxes will fall short of requirements. The island, which swallowed its pride and annex itself to the neighboring country of Lancaster, but tradition and sentiment revolt at the idea. Although Man is only 32 by 12 miles, its political constitution is said to be the oldest in Europe. Its language, a Gaelic dialect, is peculiar to the island and home rule has been the privilege of the Manxman through the ages.

When the war came, the heavy tourist and holiday trade was cut off. The swift packet boats were taken over by the admiralty and the submarine menace made travel unpopular. Man then became a concentration camp of alien enemies, who now number 20,000 or less than three times its total native population. These camps helped to save the situation for the island farmers, although a poor substitute for the influx of tourists who used to come. It is now proposed that the government use the hotels and lodging houses, whose owners are in great distress, as hospitals for convalescent soldiers. One of the relief measures proposed by the Manx parliament which the Imperial treasury refuses to endorse, is a grant of £250,000 to distressed housekeepers.

TURKS TO CONFISCATE PROPERTY LONDON, Oct. 29, 9.28 a. m.—Reuters Athens correspondent learns from Serbian sources that the French operating in the Strumitsa region have occupied the heights at Valandovo, Rabraya and Tatar Lisofre. These heights dominate Strumitsa, which is not expected to hold out much longer against the French attack.

There is no recent news in Athens from the northern Serbian front. It is reported that Serbians are about to issue a decree for the confiscation of the property of belligerents, owing to a threat by the entente powers to confiscate German property in belligerent countries.

ASSISTED SOLDIERS TO ESCAPE LONDON, Oct. 29.—Prince Reginald de Grey authorizes the Daily Sketch to deny the German assertions of the existence of any organization to assist soldiers to escape from Belgium of which he and Miss Edith Cavell, as alleged, were the leaders. He says that so far from there being such an organization, some of the prisoners tried at Brussels did not even know the others. He himself did not counsel soldiers to escape, but when he found that they were determined to escape, he assisted them as did Miss Cavell, from humanitarian motives.

KING IS INJURED

British Ruler Thrown
From His Horse and
Severely Bruised

LONDON, Oct. 29, 2:35 p. m.—An accident to King George happened yesterday morning. He was thrown from his horse and severely bruised. The following official announcement was made: "While the king this morning (Thursday) was inspecting his army in the field his horse, excited by the cheers of the troops, reared up and fell. The king was thrown and severely and will be confined to bed for the present."

(Signed)
"Arthur Sloggett,
Bertrand Dawson,
Willmot Herringham,
Cuthbert Wallace."

A later bulletin under today's date says:
"The king has had a fair night, with some sleep. The temperature is now 99.2 and pulse 75. His majesty's general condition has improved and no complications have arisen."

"Anthony Hewley,
Bertrand Dawson."

It is understood that the accident to the king was not serious, although no details have been made public beyond those disclosed in the official announcement.

Announcement was made on Monday that King George was in France, having gone to visit the British army. On Tuesday the king, with the Prince of Wales, President Poincaré and the then French war minister, Alexandre Millerand, reviewed the British troops. He then called on Gen. Joffre and witnessed a review of French colonial troops.

LATE WAR NEWS

Fierce Attack on Austrians

The latest statement made by the Austro-Hungarian war office reports continuation of furious attacks on Austrian positions by the Italians. Several of these attacks already have failed. It is asserted.

Fall of Strumitza Imminent

The French operations in the southern sector of the Serbian front have been carried on so successfully that the fall of Strumitza, in Bulgaria, is imminent. Athens learns. Heights dominating the town have been occupied by the French.

French and Serbs on Offensive

Advances through Paris are to the effect that the French and Serbs are now on the offensive northward along the railroad to Nish and are advancing on Istip.

Vienna Reports Progress

In the north, although the Austro-German advance is declared to have been retarded by bad roads, progress all along the front is reported in the current statement from Vienna.

Fighting in France

On the front in France, Paris reports a continuation of the vigorous artillery combat in the Champagne, notably near Tahure and violent fighting with bombs and grenades to the north of the Aisne.

INVADERS HAVE ADVANTAGE OF FREE PASSAGE DOWN THE DANUBE

LONDON, Oct. 29, 12:15 p. m.—The first phase of the Austro-German-Bulgarian campaign in Serbia is completed. Not only have the invaders of Serbia secured the important objective of joining hands in the northern corner of the country but they have enhanced this military advantage by procuring free passage down the Danube.

A flotilla of steamers is said to be already waiting to transport war material and it is stated confidently by Austro-German and Bulgarian leaders. Serbia cannot interfere with these arrangements. Bulgaria's ammunition shortage should soon be relieved and her offensive power greatly strengthened.

Serbs in Danger

The progress of Bulgarian troops east and northeast of Nish both threatens the city and places the Serbian army in a position of increased danger. Moreover, like the union of Bulgarian and Teutonic armies further north the capture of Nish would have more than mere military or strategic advantages since it would make possible rapid establishment of railway communication through Belgrade, Nish and Sofia, among Austria, Germany and their allies.

Teutons Advance From North

From the north the Germans and Austrians are advancing over a wide front which runs slightly southeast from Valjevo and swings in a broad curve northeast almost to the Danube at Kladovo, where it joins the right wing of the Bulgarians.

Report Greece to Join Bulgaria

Rumor continues to ascribe to the Greek government intentions hostile to the entente powers even going so far as to say Greece has an understanding with Bulgaria and that the psychological moment will fall upon the allied troops which landed at Saloniki. No such designs are really credited to Greece in London but England and France continue to watch the political situation at Athens with unceasing anxiety.

Sir Edward Grey, the British foreign secretary, said today that Greece's espousal of the cause of the central powers was an impossibility and similar assurances came from authoritative Greek sources.

The lively activity which has marked the situation of the Greek front for some time is still unbroken. In the east, Field Marshal von Hindenburg's attack in the Riga district has entered upon no new phase.

FEATURES OF LAST NIGHT'S EUROPEAN WAR NEWS IN BRIEF FORM

France has landed 150,000 troops in the Balkan, according to German account.

Gen. Sir Bryan Mahon to command large British reinforcements going to Balkan region.

Berlin reports Anglo-French troops defeated with severe loss by Turks near Strumitza, Bulgaria.

Bulgarians capture Zajecar and Kulajevatz, breaking Serbian eastern line.

Allies again anxious over Greek attitude.

Germans take Rudka in the south and repel Russian assaults from the Pripiat to Dvinsk, says Berlin. New attack on Riga.

FORMER REP. NEWTON INJURED— WAS RIDING WITH MAJOR T. L. WALSH

BOSTON, Oct. 29.—William L. Newton of South Boston, a former member of the state legislature, was injured today in an automobile collision at Brighton and was taken to a hospital for medical attention. It was stated, however, that his injuries were not serious. Mr. Newton was riding with Maj. Thomas L. Walsh, a brother of Gov. Walsh when their car collided with an automobile driven by H. B. DADMUN, FORMER TUFTS STAR NOW WITH HARVARD ELEVEN Funny how a star at one place is only a rookie at the other. It's all in the different styles. Harry Dadmun, luminary at Tufts two years ago, when he put up a rattling fine game against Harvard, and now at Harvard, is said to look no better than one of the raw recruits in the crimson line. However, Harvard predicts that just as soon as he has unlearned his Tufts football and gets accustomed to Houghton's style he will again shine.

ON THE SERBIAN FRONT

ASPECT OF OPERATIONS CHANGING SINCE FRENCH SUCCESSES AT VELES AND STRUMITSA

PARIS, Oct. 29, 3:55 a. m.—The correspondent of the Havas News agency at Athens telegraphs under Thursday's date that the aspect of operations on the Serbian front is changing since the French successes at Veles and Strumitsa. The Bulgarians, he says, are on the defensive while the French and Serbians are able to take the offensive northward along the Nish railroad.

A big battle is expected in the neighborhood of Istip, toward which the Franco-Serbian army is marching. The Bulgarians are entrenching themselves on the heights around the town. According to despatches received by Athens newspapers, the Bulgarians operating in the valley of the lower Timok between Grahovo and Strumitsa have been cut off and annihilated. Advances from Sofia says that a meeting of military parties called to protest against the bombardment of Dedeagatch and Porto Lajos ended in disturbances during which subjects of the entente powers were severely handled.

Demonstration Against War
At Burgas and Stara Zagora there was a demonstration by Bulgarian women against the war, the women crying "Give us back our men. We want bread." Police who interfered were received with showers of stones and troops had to be summoned before order was restored. A despatch from Saloniki says that a Bulgarian column moving toward Katsinik and Mitrovaitsa is seeking to join hands with the Austrians who have crossed the Drina.

News from Constantinople, said to be authoritative, says that the anti-German movement is growing daily and that Ahmed Riza, leader of the Young Turk party, who wished to interpellate the government regarding Turkey's reasons for entering the war was not permitted to do so. The government has forbidden senators and deputies to discuss Turkish foreign policy.

Fresh Armenian massacres are reported in the region of Ourfa.

SHUBERT BEATS WOLFE

NEW BEDFORD "BEARCAT" ADDS ANOTHER VICTORY TO LIST—BABE CHRISTO LOST

Al Shubert of New Bedford again showed his supremacy over Kid Wolfe of Cleveland in a twelve round bout staged at the Unity club of Lawrence last night.

Shubert started his usual rushing tactics and forced the Cleveland boy to break ground time and again by his terrific body punching. Wolfe fought a defensive fight throughout and was content to try and tie up the New Bedford battler, but without avail as Shubert smashed both hands to the stomach in every clinch, with only an occasional return from Wolfe. Shubert had a lead in every round but two, one of which was even and the other won by Wolfe. The battle was not as fast as other scraps Shubert has participated in at Lawrence and this was attributed to the holding tactics of the "Kid" who would not open up to any noticeable degree. Shubert missed many punches, but he landed more frequently as the bout went on.

In the final round Al gave Wolfe a great wallop, backing him clear across the ring with the force of his wallops. Shubert shows the same fighting spirit that he has shown in the past and it will take a great boy to lower his colors in a ten or twelve round clash.

Babe Christo lost the verdict to Al Nelson of Manchester in the semi-final of eight rounds. It was a hard fight in which Nelson's weight told on the local boy, Nelson weighed at least 10 or 12 pounds over Christo. The Manchester scrapper also had more experience and this counted a whole lot. Both took some hard punishment. Nelson had the better of the argument in nearly every round. In the sixth and seventh Christo showed a flash of his former self and dealt out considerable punching but could not overcome the lead.

Gardner Brooks will meet Mickey Brown of Malden at Lawrence Nov. 13 and will leave on Monday for New York to get into shape for the encounter which he realizes will be a hard one. The bantamweight championship of New England is at stake for both boxers are to make 116 pounds ring-side. They will box 12 rounds to a decision.

Steven Kennedy was introduced and it was announced that he would meet Grover Hayes at the club next week. Kennedy never looked better in his life and he is down to weight. Steve was a crackerjack a few years ago and it is expected that he will again show his old form in the ring.

Tom Doyle of this city who showed considerable stuff in Lowell rings will clash at Lawrence next Thursday meeting Willie Greene of Boston. Doyle has been in training for the past week and is reported to be in prime shape for his coming fight.

WOLGAST AND STEWART DRAW
FORT WAYNE, Ind., Oct. 29.—Ad Wolgast, former lightweight champion, and Hal Stewart of Fort Wayne fought 10 rounds here last night. A draw resulted, in the opinion of newspapermen.

TWO EARTHQUAKE SHOCKS
ASHEVILLE, N. C., Oct. 29.—Two distinct earth shocks were felt here at 12:35 o'clock this morning.

SONORA BATTLE

Preparation Complete for Third Clash at Agua Prieta

DOUGLAS, Ariz., Oct. 28.—Preparations were completed today for the third battle at Agua Prieta, Sonora, since Madero opened the war in Mexico five years ago. In these battles shots fired on the Mexican side killed five men in Douglas and wounded twenty.

Five thousand American troops with sixteen 3-inch guns are mobilized here to see that the Mexicans shoot on only their side of the boundary. Carranza troops lie behind an elaborate system of earth works awaiting the approach of the Villa army.

The beginning of the battle depends upon the Villistas, and the outcome probably will determine whether Sonora shall come under sway of Villa or whether he will be driven as a fugitive across the American border.

At last reports Villa's forces were scattered from 15 to 25 miles south of Agua Prieta, in a region where little water is available, while Carranza troops under Gen. Dignus were reported to be working in behind them. The Carranza garrison at Agua Prieta numbers hardly more than 3700 effective men and the reinforcements that Gen. Calles expected to come from Piedras Negras, over American territory, with 16 cannon and 24 machine guns, cannot reach here for two or three days.

This was the word brought by Gen. Benjamin Hill of Carranza's army, who made it known that he intends to become one of the interested non-combatants on the American side of the boundary.

If Villa wins he probably will remain a more or less important factor in the Mexican situation at least in Sonora.

Villa is reliably reported to have 23 field guns, some as large as four inch pieces, though these are believed to be hardly more than 50 per cent. efficient. His army is estimated at from 6000 to 12,000 men. The Carranza equipment, without the 15 cannon comprising the delayed Piedras Negras contingent, consists of six 3-inch American made guns and 30 machine guns.

On the American side there are approximately 5000 United States soldiers with four batteries of artillery, or sixteen guns. Two batteries arrived early today from Nogales and approximately 1600 more men will arrive from Fort Bliss tomorrow or Sunday.

FOOTBALL GAME

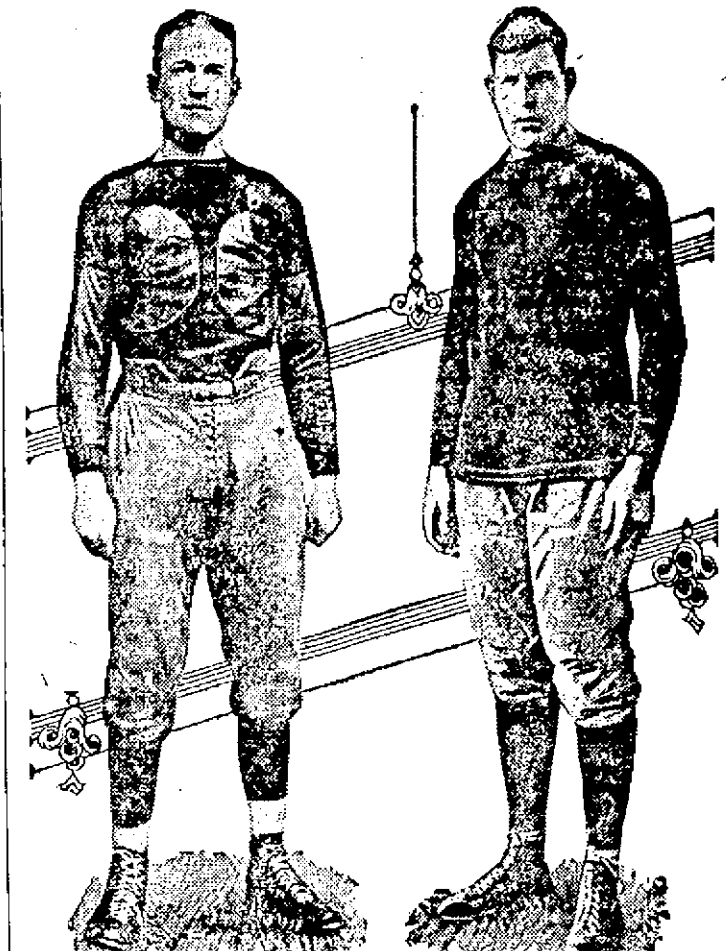

Lowell High Plays Dorchester Tomorrow—Roane Back in Lineup

The local high school eleven which has been rapidly rounding into form and which is now in condition to meet the best teams of the state, will line up against the Dorchester high school team in Dorchester tomorrow. It will be the first contest ever staged between these two schools and a great deal of interest is being centered in the outcome. Dorchester has one of the strongest teams around the Hub and has won nearly all its games.

Coach Conway who has been putting in considerable effort for the past few weeks strengthening the line, giving a pleasant surprise at the practice yesterday at Spaulding park, when he led McManmon and Capt. "Roundy" Roane on the field. McManmon's appearance on the field was a signal for a great outburst of applause. Capt. Roane went through his first practice after being out with a dislocated shoulder. He showed his great form and the practice went off with much more precision than when he was out of the game.

With these two additions, the Lowell defense will be listed up mate-

SPIRITED FIGHT ON FOR WESTERN FOOTBALL CONFERENCE TITLE

RUSSELL BUCK

The fight for the western conference football title is one of the most interesting held in years. No one eleven stands out. Illinois' narrow escape from defeat at the hands of Ohio state, the feature of a recent Saturday's football in this part of the country, indicated to critics that the Illinois are not invincible when they are weakened by the absence of some of their stars. Coach Zuppke will need his best men in the lineup he sends against Wisconsin, Chicago and Minnesota, now his strongest rivals for the conference title. The schedule for Oct. 23 brings a chance for direct comparisons among the conference teams. Purdue meets Chicago, and the outcome may show the relative strength of the maroons and the Badgers; Illinois meets Northwestern, Ohio state takes on Wisconsin and Minnesota plays Iowa. Captain Buck of Wisconsin has been playing a strong game at tackle and is almost assured of a place on the all conference eleven. Captain Russell of the Chicago eleven is about the best quarterback in the west this season. He has played brilliantly in a number of the maroons' games.

ally and the local squad should make a wonderful showing in the remaining games to be played. Capt. Roane, probably, will not play in the game tomorrow as his shoulder is still a little weak but he will play regularly after next week.

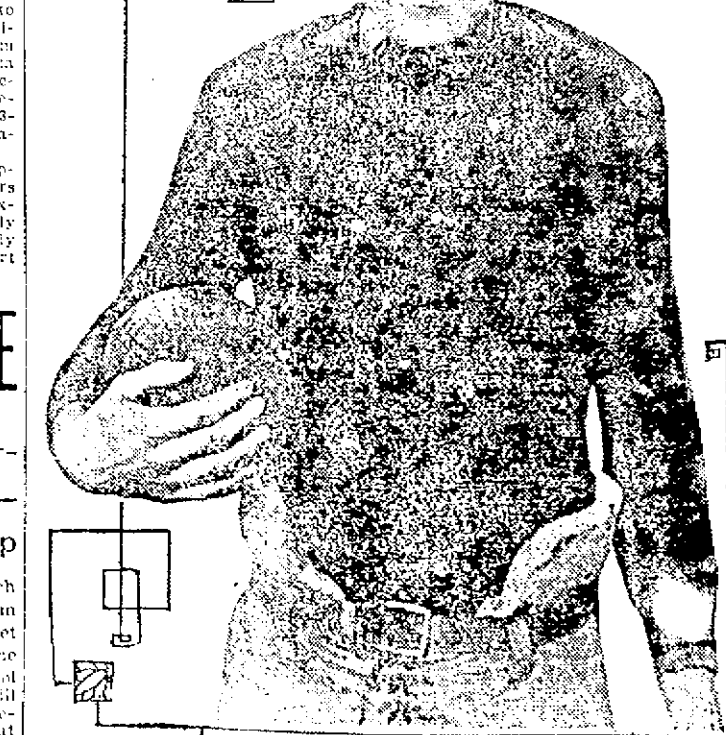

The local squad of regulars will leave the Middlesex st. depot tomorrow on the 12:15 o'clock train, and they will be accompanied by a picked group of freshmen students who have been given complimentary trip tickets for the contest, in recognition of their own work on the gridiron with the first year team. The freshmen guests are as follows: Mansur, Lingua, McAdams, Stevenson, Mahoney, Sullivan, Coughlin, Farrington, Bradley, Seal, Finnigan and Richards. In addition to these a large number of other students will make the trip.

Following the Dorchester game the local team's schedule will be brought to a close rapidly, with Lawrence, Haverhill and Lowell Textile as its coming opponents. Haverhill, at the present time, a formidable contender for the state championship plays here on Saturday, Nov. 13. Faculty Manager Dennett has arranged a number of games for the second team.

First Eleven in Eight Years

Holy Angels college, Buffalo, N. Y., is represented on the gridiron this season for the first time in eight years, and the team is making an excellent showing, having piled up a total of 167 points without allowing a score by any of its opponents. Several Lowell boys are playing

IMPROVEMENT IN PENN'S PLAY—CAPT. HARRIS IN EXCELLENT FORM

HARRIS OF PENN

Penn's football team, so often disappointing of late, lived up to reputation recently by holding the powerful Pittsburgh eleven, reputed to be the strongest in the conference of the east, to a score of 14 to 7. Beaten by Penn State and held to a tie by the comparatively weak Navy team, Penn was supposed to be in for an awful drubbing at the hands of Glenn Warner's new machine, but the old fighting spirit, that in years gone made the Pennsylvania warriors always to be feared, made its appearance in a most decided manner, and the Pittsburgh men had to battle for every inch gained. The reason for this pleasing change in style of play may be traced to the fact the Pennsylvania men were not worked to death in practice during the past week. Captain Harris, who was not in the battle against Pittsburgh, will be back in his regular place in Penn's remaining games.

with the team and they are doing stellar work. Hammersley, the former Ottawa university right end, and a brother of Rev. Fr. Hammersley, the former baseball star, is putting up the finest game of his career. Leo Allen, of Pleasant street, Belvidere, who caught for the Ponies before entering college, is showing great form, and his open field running and long spiral punts are a puzzle to the western New York teams. John Hamill, who resides in the Acre, has made a very valuable line-man, and his pleasing personality has aided him in attaining the management of the squad. O'Brien, another Lowell boy, is showing much cleverness in directing the team plays at quarterback, while Delly Barden, a former protege of the Lowell high school team, is holding his own at right tackle. Gilligan, a Malden lad, is captain and leftback of the team. The boys are now training hard for the big Thanksgiving day game against the Niagara University eleven.

Dartmouth Weak
The Dartmouth football team this year, which has been weak at the ends and quarterback, will be materially strengthened next year by the addition of several candidates who were ineligible to play this year, and the Green's 1915 squad should be a wonder. In addition to the new material, the squad will have the services of this year's men as Capt. McAuliffe will be the only man who started the Princeton game last Saturday to be graduated next June.

The senior class contributes an unusually small number of men to this year's eleven. Besides McAuliffe, only Pudirith and Colby are letter men, and Colby is not a regular and Pudirith is out with injuries. Practically the only seniors on the squad are Soutar, the Lynn end, and Tyler, halfback. Two of 1916's best football men, Mal Scovill and the Toller, both flunked out. How Scovill would have shone in that backfield this year! Cavanaugh may well smile when he thinks of next year with no such discouraging situation to face, as he found himself up against this fall when 15 "D" men had been graduated.

Cannell is, of course, the star of the freshmen team and nothing but injuries can keep him out of a varsity job next year. He is one of the star-quarterbacks Dartmouth has had for some time. Cogswell, at end, also seems sure of a regular berth next fall. He receives forward passes well, uses his head on the defense and is a tireless worker. He and the rest of the 1916 extremities of the line. Shelbourne and Edwards are two other good backs who will come in handy next season, while Cunningham at center, has demonstrated that he alone can put strength and fight into a warring line. Andover was helpless on line plunges in the game played with the freshmen last Saturday, and the coaches ascribe it chiefly to Cunningham.

The varsity team leaves Hanover today for Amherst, where the annual game will be played on Saturday.

Florida Now Becoming Mecca for Big Leaguers—Sporting News

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—Florida has become the Mecca for the training of major league baseball clubs. This fact was illustrated more forcibly than in the recent decision of the Boston National league management to train at Miami the next five years.

George Stallings, the Miracle Man of the Hub, a loyal bread Georgian to boot, was always a strong booster for the Gracker state. George was his hubby and Macon his religion. But the Braves have quit Macon and sought a clime further south, where the weather is hotter and more steady.

By certain. As George controls the craft of state of the Braves' hopes, it is reasonable to suppose that the prospects in the far South have beguiled his native state patriotism.

The New York Yankees have tried every nook and corner of the semitropical zone. They have trained from Savannah, Ga., to Houston, Tex., and north as far as Atlanta and Athens, Ga. But they never got far enough ahead after these exercises to win one of Dan Johnson's flags.

The New York Americans, under a new ownership last spring, trained at Savannah, Ga. They had nothing of which to complain. The weather was above the average of the very poor grade that prevailed all spring south of the Mason and Dixon line. Yet it is no certainty that the club will pay a return visit.

Savannah, unfortunately, owing to the shift of sentiment toward Florida, now occupies a rather isolated position. No other major league club trains in the immediate neighborhood. Therefore it is practically impossible to obtain really helpful practice games with rival major league clubs without the inconvenience and expense of traveling long distances. Long railway trips in the spring are deadly to the efficacious effects of training.

Therefore the Yankees are quite likely to switch the base of their early operations. Ocala, Fla., is anxious to entertain Donovan's legion of hopefuls. Ocala is located centrally in Florida—far removed from the uncertain sea breezes that play havoc to convalescent throwing arms. Ocala lies comparatively close to Daytona, Miami and Tampa. Brooklyn trains at Daytona, the Boston Braves at Miami and the Cubs at Tampa. Intra-league major league games are prohibited in the springtime. Wherefore the Yankees by moving to Ocala might find three strong National league opponents for exhibition purposes.

This switch would benefit both the National and American leagues. It would give the Braves a chance to test the waters of the new circuit an opportunity to arrange games with both the Yankees and the Athletics, who will be encamped again at Jacksonville, Fla. The owners of the New York Americans will investigate the presumed merits of Ocala as presented by the business men of the city anxious to attract major league attention.

The Federal League

In spite of the most pleasant assurances of faith in ultimate success in the Federal League, certain facts have filtered through that might cause a reasonable doubt as to the sincerity of such optimism.

Certainly at two different spots of the outlaw chain apparent financial weakness has cropped out. Conrad H. Madden, president of the Kansas City Independents, has just reported to his stockholders a deficit for the year of $38,322.13 in spite of the fact that the team was a prominent contender to the very last. William E. Robertson, president of the Buffalo Federals, has issued a warning to his fellow league-leagues that unless $100,000 can be raised before spring the Bison City enterprise must be suspended. Baltimore's stockholders are said to be crying for dividends. Pittsburgh did not break even. Harry Sinclair dropped a snarl fortune in Nevada last year. He is reported to be so wealthy that he can afford to disregard this drop from the bucket.

No baseball president in St. Louis made any money, least of all Phil Ball, the outlaw chief. Ball has soured on low prices. He declared he will resist against 10-cent admissions another year. All these signs and tokens of unrest among the independent promoters may point to a run to cover by the financial giants of the outlaws. They may buy into organized baseball if they are so minded and can do so without a warning of the obligations of comradeship to the fellows who went into the revolutionary faction on a shoestring.

Military Tournament

The military tournament which will be held at Madison Square Garden the week of November 14-20 is to cater as much to sporting instincts as to patriotism. This show will be featured throughout with athletic competitions and games among the various military organizations of this city and the United States. The show is behind the project to furnish the usually accepted features of sporting competition.

Roger Bresnahan wishes to trade Pitcher Dan Donohue and young infielder for Southpaw Slim Salce. The proposition from the Cub leader has been referred to Miller Huggins, pilot of the Cardinals.

Col. Ruppert, president of the Yankees, received little assistance from rival club owners in building up a team last year. Col. Ruppert and his partner, Capt. T. L. Huston, were lucky enough to get the most prized athletes in the draft. At least their colleagues are of the opinion that the lottery favored New York, for every one is trying to hoodwink New York out of his prospects. A dozen players have been suggested since the season closed. Connie Mack is out hook line and sinker for one of the several right-handed pitching recruits of Donovan's clan.

George T. Stallings, manager of the Braves, has been in town the last several days assisting Capt. T. L. Huston in perfecting the organization of the New York club, which has a large shooting tract near Brunswick, Ga., that is to be controlled by the prominent baseball men and sportsmen of this country. Stallings says he never can resign himself to the fate that cheated him out of Outfielders Hendricks and Miller, two outfielder candidates with the Yankees.

"Bud Sharpe is one of the best judges in baseball," said the Big Chief yesterday. "He was steered off these two players; assured by people supposed to know that they were already the property of American League clubs. Sharpe says that Miller is one of the most sensational fielders he has seen. That he can hit as well in fast company as he did in the Southern League he should prove a sensation. Of Hendricks he is a surefire hero worshipper. But not only predicts that Hendricks will make good, he stands ready to stake his reputation that this fellow will be one of the sensations of the American league before another two years."

Tom Cowler, the English heavyweight protégé of Jim Corbett, will engage Bartling Levinsky for the second round before the Olympic A. C. November 15.

Gumbart Smith intends to force Frank Moran into a match and is going about it in the right way. He will fight Joe Costello in St. Louis, November 9. At Joplin, Mo., six days later he is to engage Al Norton, the Native Son. Smith is to fight either Jack Dillon or Carl Morris at Kansas City on November 22.

IN BIG SOCCER GAME

BUNTINGS AND ANDOVERS GLASH FOR THIRD TIME AT ANDOVER TOMORROW

The Lowell soccer world is seething with excitement as to the result of the strenuous fight between the Buntings and Andovers for a place in the second round for the state cup. Having tied twice in the first round, the Buntings will play Andover. In the last game the enthusiasm of the local boys was evident, but they were somewhat scared by the forward work of the visitors which made it quite hard for Smith and Rushton. The Buntings have secured the services of McAllister, the star Manchester United forward who will play in Saturday's game. The golden rule of soccer is "shoot hard and often," and that's what they are going to do on Saturday.

Several Lawrence teams were after McAllister for he is a crack center forward distributing the ball with beautiful precision while he is also a first class shot. His coming will allow Greenhalgh to drop into his accustomed place at outside left. Jack Taylor has notified the manager that he will not be able to make the journey. His place will be taken by Cantham and with Wallace on one side of him and McAllister on the other there'll be a strong trio. The team and officials will leave Merrimack square on a special car at 1:10 p. m.

J. E. Schofield, president of the state association attended the game last Saturday and expressed displeasure at the work of the referee who gave some unfair decisions against the Buntings during the game. He stated that he would bring the matter up at the next state meeting.

The Buntings will line up as follows: J. Smith, H. Pienow, A. Smith, J. Lowe, W. Kelly (captain), W. Gifford, J. Wallace, A. Cantham, W. McAllister, W. Mitchell and J. Greenhalgh. Reserves: A. Cameron, J. Brian and J. Costello.

LAW'S TOE WORK NOW LEAVES THE TIGERS WITH BEST PUNTING TRIO

Buzz Law, who got into the milling in the last period of the Princeton-Dartmouth game Saturday, stayed long enough to do some excellent punting and scored Princeton's last three points by a pretty place kick from the forty yard mark. His return brought joy to the Tigers, as Princeton now has the best punting trio in the country. The other two who make up the party are Tibbels and Driggs. The former was the hero of the victory. He was responsible for fifteen points, which include two field goals. Driggs and Law also got a happy hand from the spectators for the remarkable work with their toes.

NEW ENGLAND LEAGUE

PLANS TO TAKE IN SPRINGFIELD, HARTFORD AND NEW HAVEN NEXT YEAR

BOSTON, Oct. 28.—The New England Baseball league last night appointed a committee to consider a merger with which the New England league would absorb the clubs of the Eastern association, which were formerly placed at Springfield, Hartford and New Haven, Conn. Discussion among the members of the league, according to President Timothy H. Murnane, favored retaining five of the clubs of the New England league as at present constituted. Which five clubs would be kept was not announced, but provision would be made, it is said, for compensation to the clubs that would lose franchises.

Clallan is not the only possible purchaser of a half interest in the local Sox. It is understood that John F. Fitzgerald, the genial ex-mayor, is also interested in the proposition. Fitzgerald missed a chance of becoming a baseball magnate years ago when the Taylors beat him to the purchase of the club.

Since then Fitzgerald has been one of the biggest boosters for the success of the club and has always maintained a steadfast interest in its progress. He is a very good friend of Law-

DR. ANNA HOWARD SHAW

She Pleaded for Woman Suffrage—An Eloquent Address and Strong Arguments

Hundreds of people gathered at Associate Hall last night to hear Dr. Anna Shaw, foremost orator of the woman suffrage movement in America, and her auditors were profoundly moved by her eloquent plea for "votes for women."

"It is the everlasting glory of women that they do not fight in battle, and some day it will be the glory of man that he does not fight. And I have faith that there is a still brighter day coming when it will be the glory of nations that they do not fight," said Dr. Shaw.

An automobile parade preceded the rally. The automobiles, containing the officers and some of the leading workers in the local suffrage league, formed in Andover and Needham streets and preceded by the Cadet band escorted Mrs. Shaw to the hall, passing through Church and Central streets, up Merrimack to the Associate building.

The hall was prettily decorated, the decorations being in charge of Misses Caroline and Dorothy Wright. Mrs. Charles D. Palmer, president of the Lowell Equal Suffrage League, presided, and seated on the platform were the executive officers of the league. Rev. Sarah A. Dixon, and the following men: Judge Charles S. Lilley, Michael A. Lee, Philip S. Marden, William N. Osgood and C. H. McIntire.

Dr. Shaw's Address
Mrs. Shaw's eloquence elicited the tribute of tears. Her address was not for the suffrage cause alone. She pleaded for every interest which will better the condition of women and children, basing her plea on suffrage, which she believes is the fundamental step for all reforms—social, economic and legal. Point by point she drove her arguments home, varying her address at times by applying the soothing oil of humor.

Answering the argument that women, if given the ballot, will not be able to join in warfare, she drew a vividly touching picture of the meaning of war to the women of Europe, bringing tears to the eyes of her audience. She said in part:

"Picture to yourself just one woman over in Europe, a woman whose heart has been in unison with her love, who has walked day by day face to face with an open grave; to have, at last, a little one laid in her arms, and her heart gives forth a cry of thanksgiving that only a mother can know. A woman is human. She has the same hopes, ambitions and desires that a man has, but with personal ambitions laid aside, a mother never lays aside her ambitions for her son. She forgets the nights of sleeplessness, the efforts and burdens of 21 or more years and is willing to make supreme self-sacrifice for her son. As she looks into his eyes she finds there the most wonderful thing God ever made, a strong-limbed, clean-hearted, clear-brained young man.

"But his country calls him and he goes forth into the horrors of war and within an hour he is just a bleeding, lifeless clod, among millions of others. Then, sitting by the hearthside, looking into the loneliness and darkness of the years to come, one woman knows what war means. Multitudes this one woman of Europe by hundreds and thousands and millions; then will you ask what women know of war?"

"We do not want the ballot to fight, but just to see if we cannot co-operate with the men to keep them from fighting. What a different world it would be today if those few men in Europe had just consented to come together and talk the matter over. Women would have talked the matter over until it was settled. It might be their opinion at the ballot box as to how that question shall be settled. The suffragists believe that every community has a right to settle every question in their own way. After we have got the kind of government we want, we ourselves will work out the kind of government we ought to have, but we will never have the kind of government we ought to have until we first have the kind of government we want. That is why a republic is a better form of government than any other. We will suffer terribly with growing pains, but it is better to suffer from growing pains and to grow, than to be a perpetual dwarf."

Appeal for Volunteers
After Mrs. Shaw had finished, Rev. Sarah A. Dixon said a few words, and Mrs. Palmer made an appeal to suffragists to volunteer their help at local headquarters, until after the election. The audience stood while the band played "The Star Spangled Banner."

Over 30 young women, wearing white dresses and yellow sashes, were the ushers. They were Misses Edith Baldwin, Helen Bellamy, Laura Bellamy, Ethel Claire, Mollie Brosnan, Ethel Chaffoux, Alice Cunningham, Rosalind Dunlavey, Ethel Enright, Agnes Fallon, Julia Fox, Loretta Hannan, Gertrude Harvey, Eva Henderson, Helen Hills, Meta Jefferson, Genevieve Lawrence, Virginia Legge, Henny Liley, Ellen Lynch, Helen Mansfield, Anna Masterson, Frances Masterson, Lorella McMahon, Florence Moulton, Josephine Murphy, Miriam Murphy, Helen Osgood, Mary Seery, Helen Webster and Elsie Wilmer.

GEN. PEARSON'S VIEWS

LECTURED ON WAR AND PREPAREDNESS BEFORE MEN'S CLUB OF ST. JOHN'S CHURCH

The speaker at the meeting of the Men's club of St. John's Episcopal church, last night, was General Gardner W. Pearson who spoke on preparedness in a military way. He said in part:

"We have a country of 100,000,000 population, but what is the character of this country? It isn't Anglo-Saxon as it was in the days of the Revolution and after. Why, we have 1,000,000 Lithuanians alone, in this country, and untold millions of Germans and French, to say nothing of other races, in Lowell alone we have 14,000 Greeks, and you can go on the streets of Lawrence and not hear the English language spoken at all. One hundred and twenty-five years ago there was a different moral fibre in this land from what there is today.

"We are apt to deceive ourselves with the idea that every native born American is a fighter and a rifle shot. Why, the rifle has given way to the golf stick and the baseball bat. When the mighty world series was on this fall there were also being held at the same time the national championship rifle matches in Florida. But who knew about them, or cared about them? One couldn't find any scores in the papers, unless he hunted hard.

"The present war is one of munitions, and the man who engages in making them is every whit as valuable as the man at the front. The country which can produce the greatest amount of ammunition is very likely to win this colossal struggle. But in 19 years war may be fought entirely in the air, and, instead of 100 air ships in the air at one time, there may be a hundred thousand of them. This war has proved that cavalry is utterly useless. The scouting is being done by aeroplanes entirely, and there is no chance at all for tanking movements by cavalry, because one flank ends at the Swiss frontier and the other on the North sea.

"The fortifications of Boston harbor are no better than if they were made of milk. Why? Because the guns there can shoot but six miles at the most, while 15-inch guns could stand off and out of the range and blow the Boston forts to pieces. And all of these points must bring to mind the fact that the great essential of war today is not courage. It is just as dangerous for a man to attempt to run away as it is for him to go forward. The one great essential is the man-killing machine, and to find men who know how to use it. Unfortunately this is so but we mustn't longer deceive ourselves about it."

JUVENILE DELINQUENT LAW

A hearing to discuss the incorporation of amendments into the present law governing delinquency was held at the state house, Wednesday, and the speakers included Lowell residents.

Among the speakers was Miss Nelson of Somerville who stated with emphasis that the toe of a hob nailed boot was about as good a corrective for a boy as he knew of. Miss Ida M. Howe of Lowell was in sympathy with him, although she did not want to see boys incarcerated, but only made to show respect for authority.

Others who were present were: Mrs. Lily Clark, also representing the Daughters of the American Revolution; Hugh J. Molloy, superintendent of schools; Miss Emily Skilton, of the Florence Crittenton Rescue League; Mrs. C. F. Cohn, Mrs. C. M. Williams and Charles F. Richardson, agent of the Lowell Humane society.

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

The regular meeting of Washington commandery, Golden Cross, was held last evening with a large attendance. Grand Trustee Hector Turnbull was present as an official visitor. The commandery is preparing for the celebration of its anniversary on Dec. 9, when several of the grand officers will be present.

CAPTURED AT SEA

Report That Interned Germans Were Taken by British Warship

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—The six warrant officers of the interned German raider Kronprinz Wilhelm, who escaped from Norfolk, Va., Oct. 10, in the yacht Eclipse, were captured at sea by a British warship, according to information in a letter received here yesterday.

The letter was sent to William Wolff, a New York manufacturer, by his mother-in-law, who was a passenger on the steamer Hermodian, which left New York for Hamilton last Wednesday.

According to the letter, the Hermodian was stopped a short distance from its destination by a British cruiser, which engaged the passenger vessel in wireless conversation.

The substance of the talk, as told by the wireless operator of the Ber-mudian, was that the cruiser, the identity of which is not given, had overtaken the missing German at sea, made prisoners of the Germans and sunk the yacht. The letter gives no other details.

Reports have been current in ship-ship circles here for several days that the yacht had been captured by a British cruiser, believed to be the Melbourne.

MINE COAL IN GREENLAND

COPENHAGEN, Oct.—The Danish government is taking steps to mine coal in Greenland more intensively. This is due to the fact that it is difficult now to buy English coal in Denmark. The coal famine, in fact, is so serious here that the government is planning to relieve the situation in part by cutting wood from the government forests. Steps are also being taken to increase the production of peat.

Coal has heretofore been mined in Greenland only in an experimental way, but the deposits there, in the opinion of experts, are very extensive. The heating qualities of Greenland coal, however, are not regarded as equal to the English variety.

The government is also taking new interest in the copper mines of this far northern colony, thinking the mines are capable of more extensive development which would be profitable at the present time.

SERBIANS IN RETREAT

FAY GOT FINANCIAL AID FROM GERMANY

Federal Officials in Possession of Information—No Further Arrests for Present

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Secret service men assigned to the cases of Robert Fay, the confessed bomb plotter and four others charged with conspiracy in planning to disable ships laden with war munitions for the allies, worked on a report today that the bombs used by Fay were similar to those which had caused fires on certain trans-Atlantic ships last summer.

As late as last month small fires were reported on ships loaded with sugar. In one instance a sugar ship on its arrival at an European port reported that two bombs, discovered on board while the vessel was at sea had failed to explode.

Two circumstances drew the attention of secret service men to the Fay case. One was that the fires on the ships were caused by chlorate of potash, the same material which Fay was used in preparing bombs to attach to ships' rudders and propellers. The other was that several of the ships on which fires were discovered had sailed from piers in the Hudson river, not far from the boat house at Weehawken, N. J., where Fay, with Walter L. Scholz, his brother-in-law, kept a motor boat and explosives. The details obtained of the fires on the sugar ships are being compared by assistants of United States District Attorney Marshall, with the disclosures made in Fay's confession to determine what connection, if any, the present alleged conspiracy had with the attempt to destroy sugar ships.

All From Germany
Federal officials made it known today that the government was in possession of information that Fay received financial aid from Germany, but it was stated that no connection had been traced to any official in Europe. Fay already had confessed that he had been supplied with funds before coming to America.

Mr. Marshall reiterated a previous statement that the government contemplated no further arrests at present although he was convinced that the five men already arrested were not all those implicated.

TEUTONS AND BULGARS CONTINUE ADVANCE

Greece Denies Report of Intention "To Menace Security of Allies at Saloniki"
Italians—British Casualties 493,294

The Serbians have been driven over the border eastward from Visegrad, in Bosnia, and other advances have been scored by the Teutons and Bulgarian forces engaged in the Serbian invasion. Berlin announces today. The Bulgarians are pursuing the retreating Serbians along the eastern front, the statement declares.

The German war office reports conditions unchanged in the east, no further progress of the attacks on Dvinsk or Riga being recorded.

Greece Makes Denial

Categorical denial is given by the Greek legation in London, under instructions from Premier Zaimis, to reports that have been circulated with relation to the attitude of Greece toward the entente powers, such as that regarding an alleged intention by Greece, "to menace the security of the allied troops at Saloniki." The purpose of such reports was to sow dissension between Greece and the allies, the statement declares.

King George Injured
King George of England met with an accident yesterday, being thrown from his horse while "inspecting his army in the field," the fall bruising the king severely. It is said, unofficially, that the injury to the king was not serious. The official statement says he will be confined to his bed for the present.

The last report on King George's whereabouts placed him in France, on Tuesday last, where, with the French president and other officials he reviewed troops of the British and French armies.

British Casualties
The total British casualties up to October 9, it is announced today, have been 493,294.

FORMING NEW CABINET

BRAND AT WORK—COLLECTIVE RESIGNATION OF VIVIANI MINIS-TRY PRESENTED

PARIS, Oct. 29, 1.15 p. m.—President Poincaré today received the formal collective resignation of the entire Viviani ministry, giving official form to the decision of the cabinet yesterday to retire. The president requested Aristide Briand to form a new cabinet.

At a meeting held in the foreign office this morning under the presidency of M. Viviani the decision was reached to submit the resignations collectively. M. Briand immediately took up the work of forming a new ministry, which already was well advanced in anticipation of President Poincaré's formal request.

One of M. Briand's first conferences brought together former Premiers Emile Combes, Leon Bourgeois and Jules Maitre; Denis Cochin, Alexandre Ribot, Marcel Sembat and Jules Guesde, members of the cabinet and Etienne Clementel, and Prof. Paul Painlevé, all of whom were expected to figure in the personnel of the new ministry, together with other prominent leaders who did not attend the conference.

M. Briand conferred later with Jules Cambon, who was ambassador to Germany at the outbreak of the war and who is expected to take an important part in the Briand ministry as general secretary of the foreign office. In this capacity he is to give special attention to diplomatic questions arising from the war.

M. Briand requested his colleagues to confer again with him in the afternoon when it was expected a definite conclusion would be reached concerning distribution of the various portfolios.

M. Viviani's letter of resignation reviews the difficulties which he has encountered since an important group in parliament insisted upon secret sessions of the chamber of deputies, which he disapproved. The letter also points out that more than 150 members of the chamber declined to vote on his recent request for a vote of confidence.

Under the circumstances, M. Viviani said he and his colleagues were united in the belief that there should be constructed a cabinet which would secure unanimity and consolidate all elements around the government.

"I think that another person could better accomplish this purpose of unification," M. Viviani concluded, "and for that reason I submit my resignation and that of all my colleagues."

CANDIDATE SHAW HERE

TALKED TO LARGE CROWD AT GATE OF MERRIMACK MILLS
THIS NOON

William Shaw of Boston, prohibitionist candidate for governor, spoke to a large gathering of mill operatives at the gate of the Merrimack mill in Dutton street this noon. Mr. Shaw advocated his candidacy and spoke on the advantages of prohibition.

Ninety-five per cent. of the railroads will not employ men who drink while the U. S. Steel company will not promote them. Henry Ford will not share his profits with them and the newspapers throughout the country are now urging that no automobile license be granted to a man who takes a glass of liquor. He emphasized the fact that five years hence the son of a working man will not be able to get a job if he drinks.

Mr. Shaw stated that the physicians have taken liquor out of the medicine list and they have it now listed as a drug and after Jan. 1 it will be sold in drug stores only when a prescription is presented. He argued that most of the poverty and crime for which pauper and correctional institutions are maintained are due to drink.

$71,000 VOTED FOR DUMMER ST. EXTENSION

Hearing on Proposition Nov. 9
—Amendment to Traffic Rules
—Hearing on Increase of Fares

An order to borrow $71,000 for the extension of Dummer street and seizure of land in connection therewith was taken up at a meeting of the municipal council this forenoon and was sent to the city clerk's office to remain ten days as required by law. It was suggested that the emergency clause might be attached in order to speed the matter along, but Commissioner Duncan said he didn't think it was necessary. "We have waited 30 or 40 years for this extension," he said, "and I guess we can wait another week." The matter was assigned for a hearing Nov. 9 at 11 a. m. The order contemplates the acquisition of all the land between the First Congregational church and Maiden lane. It will also include Maiden lane and if the proposition goes through a 12-foot sidewalk will take the place of the lane. The plans also call for a 16-foot park extending the full length of the property to be acquired and there was some discussion today as to

AGAINST CONTINENTAL ARMY
WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—Secretary Garrison today encountered some opposition to the proposal for a continental army as a part of the administration's national defense plans from members of the executive committee of the National Guard association and of the National militia board, an advisory body composed of militia officers.

After a conference called by Secretary Garrison and which lasted several hours, it was indicated that no agreement had been reached. The board and the committee will hold regular sessions here for a week.

PEABODY, Oct. 29.—The bodies of 21 of the 21 girl pupils of St. John's parochial school, who lost their lives yesterday in a fire which swept through the building before they had a chance to escape, were claimed by their parents today. Five bodies remained over night in an undertaking establishment while relatives endeavored to identify them. Four of these were identified and at noon there remained the charred form of a little girl, burned beyond possible hope of recognition.

When the four had been taken away Mrs. John Ahearn, mother of Agnes Ahearn, eight years old, who was unaccounted for, went to the improvised morgue and finally accepted the body as that of her child. It was placed in a coffin and sent to her home.

DENIES PEACE PARLEYS

NO EXCHANGE OF VIEWS BY BERLIN AND LONDON, SAYS LLOYD GEORGE

LONDON, Oct. 29.—An emphatic denial that Great Britain was engaged in any peace negotiations, direct or indirect, was made by David Lloyd George, the minister of munitions, in reply to a question in the house of commons yesterday.

Mr. Lloyd George spoke for Premier Asquith, when the question of which Anson Bryce had given notice came up. The query was as to whether unofficial exchanges of views had been carried on between Berlin and London with the possible object of the conclusion of an early peace, and whether inquiries of similar nature had been made by official representatives of any neutral power.

"Certainly not," was the reply of the minister of munitions.

"The words of the prime minister still hold good," he added, referring not only to the question of peace negotiations, but to the query as to whether the premier still adhered to the declaration in his Guildhall speech that Great Britain would not shake her sword until "the freedom of Europe was secured."

Mr. Lloyd George continued: "We shall not think of entering any peace negotiations except in common with our allies in accordance with the agreement made in September, 1914."

The visit to The Hague of W. S. Soli, the German colonial secretary, is said by the Chronicle to be connected with a movement for ending a truce in Central Africa. The Netherlands minister to London, the Chronicle adds, recently went to The Hague and discussed the matter with the Dutch cabinet.

The Daily Chronicle says it remains to be seen whether Germany will be able to propose the basis for an armistice acceptable to Earl Kitchener.

In contrast with this report is the statement of Herr Soli in an interview with a representative of Az Est, a Hungarian newspaper of Budapest, who quotes him as saying:

"It is necessary for us not only to maintain our previous colonial possessions, but even to increase them, irrespective of the European issues and of the settlement in Europe after the war. Our only enemy from a colonial point of view is England. As soon as we restore our communications with the Straits and Constantinople, and drive the allied forces into the sea in Gallipoli, together with the Italians and any others attaching themselves to these, the events that will follow will develop like those in a well written play."

"On the day when the English army on the Nile, with the Australians, the Canadians and Indians, capitulate before the Turks, or when they have to re-embark at Alexandria, the world-power of England will sink into the deep, from Gibraltar to Singapore. What she will save out of this catastrophe will not be decided by England alone."

LORD MAYOR OF LONDON

CHARLES JOHNSON FIRST OF TWO WHO HAVE HELD OFFICE NOT TO ATTEND PUBLIC DINNER

LONDON, Oct. 29.—Sir Charles Johnson, who retires from office as Lord Mayor of London on November 1, is one of the 25 men who have held that office who can boast that he has not given or attended a single public dinner during the whole year of his incumbency. "That of course, is due to the war," he explains. "For the war has changed all our previous notions of what a London mayoralty means. We have been a serious people in the past year, with no time for ceremonies and no opportunity to do our business as usual. Those who know my horror of social-making will me with a smile that I could not have a more cheerful majority, even if I had selected my own year."

The lord mayor, while his chair was as high on point, he was unable to carry out his cherished plan to visit America during the term of office. "I have many friends in America," he said, "and I have crossed the Atlantic no fewer than 75 times. But for the war I should have been on my way to visit America while I was in office. In reply to a question as to what work he would have done if he had been in America, he said: "Without any doubt, I would have been the established body of the City of London. I have taken a deep interest in the national defense, and I have been a member of the War Council. I have been a member of the War Council, and I have been a member of the War Council."

and have the raising of the London means of knowledge or estimating the duration of the war, but I hope that my successor, Sir Charles Wakefield, will see its close, and that he will be able to associate himself with the peace-making and reconstruction of the world. With Lord I am remembered as the year of 1915, which was the year of the home office of the war."

The new lord mayor will take office at midday on November 1, when he makes the time-honored progress to the law courts to erect and receive the congratulations of the judges, the members of the cabinet, the members of the diplomatic corps, and a

A striking difference is noticed between the tone of the front pages of The Sun today, which are filled with news of bloody conflicts on foreign battle fields and those of quarter of a century ago which contained nothing more warlike than the accounts of the battles of the police and the Law and Order league with run and each other, over the enforcement or non-enforcement of the law in a no-license city, and the legislative conflict being waged in Ireland for home rule. But in one of the issues of the old Sun I found the following item:

"It is true," said a New York clergyman, "that Russia is banishing the Jews; that Turkey is persecuting the Armenians; that England is hard upon Irishmen and Hindus; that America bars her doors against the Celestials; that France is molesting the Algerians; and that thus it goes all around the world, in Europe, Asia, Africa and America, among Christians, Mohammedans, Buddhists and Pagans, who all keep hosts of man-killers ready to ravage or ruin."

Deaths in Well Known Family

Says The Sun of quarter of a century ago:

There was an anniversary high mass of requiem at St. Patrick's church, on Monday for the repose of the souls of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick's Cumiskey, and their daughter, Miss Minnie Cumiskey, Rev. Fr. Gleason officiated and hosted the members of the family a large number of friends were present. The three deaths were particularly sad, occurring within a year of each other with the exception of a few days, and the late Patrick Cumiskey, who was one of Lowell's most popular citizens at the time of his death, meeting his end in tragic manner. Mr. and Mrs. Cumiskey were noted for their charity and the poor of St. Patrick's parish lost two generous and steadfast friends in their deaths.

The Cutting Club

Quarter of a century ago the Times and Star ran a voting contest for the most popular policeman in Lowell, the winner to receive a complete uniform. More money was probably spent on that contest than would fit out the entire police department to uniforms today. The friends of the successful candidate organized a club, which they called "The Cutting Club," receiving its name from the fact that its members met around some festive board and cut coupons at a social session. The old Sun said of the contest, editorially: "It is rumored that the policeman who are buying the Times and Star by the thousand are getting square with the publishers by cutting out the votes and selling the papers to the newsboys at the rate of quarter of a cent each. The whole game is like an auction, with the stipulation that the highest bidder will be deemed the most popular man of his class in the city. The policeman who pays most for this fel-

YES—IT IS POSSIBLE TO STOP RHEUMATISM

Rheumatism is a tormenting and stubborn malady. In some cases it yields to treatment which is without avail in other cases.

The darting pains, lame muscles or stiffened joints only disappear by gradually expelling the uric acid, and so many thousands have been relieved by the blood-enriching oil-food in Scott's Emulsion that you should give it a faithful trial. Scott's Emulsion acts as a powerful blood-purifier by increasing the red corpuscles and it strengthens the organs to carry off the acids which cause the trouble.

Try Scott's Emulsion. It cannot harm. It has helped thousands and may be exactly what you need. No Alcohol.

lous popularity can have one or both of the uniforms to be given away."

A few years later the Times and Star ran a contest for the best looking man in Lowell, the winner to receive a tall hat. Mr. John McNeese was the surprised recipient of the honors, but has never been known to wear the lid except at an occasional funeral. Meanwhile, the same papers were in a contest of their own, with the other papers of the city, and the fittest survived.

Couldn't Stop Counting

The Sun of quarter of a century ago had the following:

"The Middlesex North District Medical society held its quarterly meeting at the American House, Wednesday, J. E. Conant & Co. sold a lot of surgical instruments and a medical library."

"This doesn't mean that the society was in hard luck and went under the hammer. Not at all. It simply means that Auctioneer Conant with surgical instruments and a medical library for sale wasn't wasting any energy trying to dispose of them at a horse sale, but simply awaited his opportunity, and went to it, in characteristic manner."

An Old Time Resident Dead

The old Sun contained the following account of the death of one of the early Catholic residents of the city:

"James J. McCafferty, an old and highly respected resident of Centralville, died at his home, off West Third street, Saturday morning at 8:30 o'clock of heart trouble. Mr. McCafferty was born in Lowell 53 years ago (1862) and had lived nearly all his life in Centralville. He was many years employed in the Lowell Carpet company's plant; the greater part of the time as an overseer. He leaves a widow and two sons. He was a brother of the late Judge Matthew J. McCafferty of Worcester, Mass."

State Board of Trade

That the Massachusetts state board of trade is about quarter of a century of age is evidenced by the following:

which appeared in The Sun at that time:

"A meeting for the formation of a state board of trade, as proposed by President Adams, of this city, will be held at the rooms of the Shoe and Leather association, Boston, Oct. 30, at 11 a. m."

The late Charles E. Adams succeeded in organizing the state board of trade, and was honored with the presidency of that organization. He took a lively interest in the affairs of the local board, and in the affairs of the city, generally, up to the time of his death, and in passing reorganized two local institutions in substantial manner in his will.

The Burkes' Bazaar

The bazaar held by the Burke Temperance Institute in Huntington hall, just quarter of a century ago was one of the big events of its time. It opened with a concert in Huntington hall on Sunday evening and ran all week with the crowds each evening. Among the local talent that appeared at the concert in addition to singers from Boston were Messrs. James A. Murphy and George B. Bates, the Arion quartet and Messrs. McDaniel and Durresne, of the American orchestra. On Monday evening the military companies of the city were present on Tuesday, the Foresters, on Wednesday, the Hibernians; on Thursday, the labor organizations, on Friday, the different temperance societies while the bazaar closed on Saturday night. Those who were on the different tables were as follows:

Young Men's table: William Delaney, Miss Minnie Murphy, Miss Maggie Shannon, Miss Fannie Delaney.

Women's table: J. Ryan, Miss Agnes Gormley, Charles McCarthy.

City of Lowell table: John Manchester, Miss Lizzie Butler, J. E. Donnelly, Miss Minnie Courtney.

Independence table: James Roach, Miss Maggie Nevins, Miss Sadie Valley, Miss Maggie Murphy.

United Friends table: Richard J. Flynn, Patrick J. Daley, James J. McCafferty, Miss Nellie Rodery, Miss Sadie Macell.

Society table: James E. Kelley, Miss Annie Mahan, Frank O'Neil, James Liston, Miss Mary Nolan.

Officers table: Joseph Gormley, Miss Nellie Gormley, Miss Rose McCarron, Miss Mary Redmond, John Mahar.

Temperance table: Miss Annie Welch, Frank Clark, Miss Katie Conley, John McCaughlin, Miss Ida Kelly, John McQuinn.

Young Ladies' table: James E. Grimes, Miss Gussie Henley, Miss Mary Waterman, Miss Lizzie Grimes, Miss Alice Grimes.

Candy table: Miss Mary Quigley, Belle Fox, Lottie Fox, Maggie Pevey, Annie Miskella, Sarah Keenan and Mary Conway.

James McCarron won the gentleman's watch for selling 520 tickets and Miss Nellie Cuff won the lady's watch selling 412.

They certainly knew how to run a bazaar in those days.

TOLL OF YOUNG OFFICERS HEAVY

LONDON, Oct. —The toll of young officers is especially heavy just now, as the subalterns of Kitchener's army, which is at last in action, are in great part lost out of the upper schools and colleges. Recent casualty lists show, to take one example, that out of 132 officers killed in action, 102 were under 30 years of age and of these 80 were under 26 years. There were 5 aged 18 years, 10 aged 19, 13 aged 20 and 15 aged 21 years. They included the sons of lawyers, clergymen, military officers, doctors and members of parliament. Thirty-one of the lost were only sons.

WOUNDED SEPOY, TURNS TO MECCA AS HE PRAYS

"Allah il Allah!" intones the devout Moslem three times a day at home, on the battlefield or wherever else he may be. The allies have Moslems in their ranks, although one of the powers against which they are fighting is Turkey, a Mohammedan country. The follower of Mohammed in the picture was wounded at the Dardanelles and taken aboard a hospital ship for treatment. When the ship for devotion arrived he straight his prayer rug, doffed his shoes and turned toward Mecca and began his prayers.

RUSSIAN OFFICERS SENTENCED
PETROGRAD, Oct. —Russia's war with the incident is illustrated in the report of the court-martial which has just sentenced the captain and lieutenant-commander of the Russian cruiser Jemchug, which was destroyed by the English at Port Arthur a year ago. Both officers were charged of negligence.

The court found both officers guilty, and "taking into consideration the brilliant and unblemished record and their brave service during the Russo-Japanese war," passed the following sentence:

"Both officers to lose all civil rights, to be dismissed from the Imperial service, and deprived of all decorations." Captain-Ramon Tcherkessoff to lose his rank of captain and be sent to jail for three and a half years; Lieutenant-Commander Kozlov to be sent to jail for a year and a half.

BIG PIER DESTROYED

(SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 29.—Police and fire department officials conducted a thorough investigation today into the origin of the $500,000 fire which last night destroyed a pier used by the Blue Funnel line of British steamers for shipments of provisions and supplies for England, Russia and Japan.

The fact that the fire started in a pile of rattle stored with other highly inflammable merchandise in the same manner as two small blazes last Tuesday caused officials to believe that the fire probably was set by Germans who objected to the shipment of munitions of war for the Russian armies.

HOW TO HEAL SKIN-DISEASES

A Baltimore doctor suggests this simple, but reliable and inexpensive, home treatment for people suffering with eczema, ringworm, rashes and similar itching, burning skin troubles.

At any reliable drugist's get a jar of Resinol ointment. Apply it to the affected parts thoroughly, until they are free from crusts and the skin is softened. Dry very gently, spread on a thin layer of the Resinol ointment, and cover with a light bandage—if necessary to protect the clothing. This should be done twice a day. Usually the distressing itching and burning stop with the first treatment, and the skin soon becomes clear and healthy again. Sample free, Dept. S-R, Resinol, Baltimore, Md.

THE SUPERIOR COURT

JURY DISAGREED IN CASE OF RAILROAD SUE FOR DEATH OF YOUNG WOMAN

The jury in the case of Mary Conroy of North Somerville, administratrix, vs. the Boston & Maine railroad, which retired late yesterday afternoon, remained in session until midnight and this morning at the opening of the civil session of the superior court, a disagreement was reported.

This was an action of tort brought against the railroad company to recover the sum of $10,000 for the death of a young woman, who it is claimed was killed by an express train at North Somerville on June 4, 1914.

At the opening of the session this morning, Justice Keating presiding, the case of Phillip Grasso vs. Pasquale Benvenuto, an action of tort in the sum of $1,000, went to trial. Both parties are from Newton and the services of Vincent Marotta as Italian interpreter were retained.

The plaintiff in his declaration says that the defendant maliciously contrived to injure him by bringing an action of tort by trustee process, and before the court made with the defendant a deal whereby the defendant did not intend to apply to the claim. The plaintiff also claims that the defendant said he, Grasso, intended to leave the state, so that execution if obtained, could not be served upon him. The plaintiff says he was subsequently arrested and later discharged, and that the said arrest was brought about by the defendant to harass, vex and annoy the plaintiff and to oblige him to pay a sum of money to the defendant. The plaintiff also claims that through the malicious efforts of the defendant, he was arrested on Aug. 25, 1914, and on May 25, 1914. John Louis Sheehan appears for the plaintiff and George H. Mellen for the defendant.

In the course of the day several witnesses were heard and this afternoon the court adjourned until Wednesday morning.

CRIMINAL SESSION SUP. COURT
The criminal session of the superior court which had been sitting in this city since Monday, adjourned late yesterday afternoon and will not be resumed again until next Wednesday. The court will again sit in Lowell and the first case on the list is a murder trial.

Your choice of sixty-five suit and overcoat ends, no two patterns alike, from my regular $15 and $18 lines. I have taken all the short ends, I mean a suit or overcoat length. Your Choice for Saturday Special

When you buy a suit of clothes or overcoat in my store, you can bet all you own—money, marbles or chalk—that regardless of the low price you pay the garment you buy has quality.

When I offer to make you a suit or overcoat for $10.00 in this special sale don't let me insult your intelligence. I am making you an offer over my signature—a business contract in which I agree to give you something that you select.

If the price is lower than you think it ought to be, what do you care, if you don't see how I can possibly give what I claim to give, what do you care as long as I give it?

I am giving it am I not? I have been doing it for going on eight years, haven't I? When the year is all done, you know I make money. You know if I do this volume of say sixty to eighty thousand dollars cash business, some of this money will stick to my fingers. You buy them and don't let the prices frighten you.

AMBASSADOR TO MEXICO

ELISEO ARREDONDO
HENRY P. FLETCHER

Venustiano Carranza now being formally recognized as the chief executive of the republic of Mexico by the governments of the United States, Brazil, Chile, Argentina, Bolivia, Uruguay, Guatemala, Colombia and Nicaragua, each of the governments sent a letter to Eliseo Arredondo, personal representative in Washington of Carranza. It is expected that Arredondo will become Mexican ambassador to the United States. Henry Prather Fletcher, at present American ambassador to Chile, practically has been decided upon as the next ambassador to Mexico. Although a republican in politics, he was elevated from the rank of minister to ambassador by President Wilson after a long and successful record in the diplomatic service.

HALLOWEEN PARTY

PRETTY AND ENJOYABLE EVENT
AT RICHARDSON HOTEL DINING ROOM, LAST EVENING

The cozy dining room of the Richardson hotel was packed last evening on the occasion of the annual Halloween party, the first of a series of winter events given at the hotel. Every seat in the dining room had been previously engaged and late applicants were disappointed. The room was strikingly decorated. It was partially hidden from the street by a lattice-work partition in warm colors extending to the ceiling. Within the room suspended from the ceiling and along the walls were illuminated "bobbing and harvest" moons, made from pumpkins, in infinite variety while products of the harvest and autumn leaves were gracefully and abundantly in evidence throughout the interior. A very attractive menu was provided to which the guests did full justice while during and after its discussion an up-to-the-minute cabaret show was given by the Honey Boy trio, Messrs. Ed. Handley, James J. Lyons and Walter Clough, assisted by Miss Rose McDonough, whose contributions to the entertainment were a decided hit. Lederman's orchestra furnished music. Jas. E. Donnelly, who was among the guests, in response to a general demand sang a number of his famous Scotch songs. The good time continued until midnight. Manager Fred Tolson looked after the comfort of the guests, while the elaborate menu was the conception of Steward Hadley.

CAUSED BY BOMBARDMENT OF LILLE—HEAVY TAX ON BELGIAN CITIES

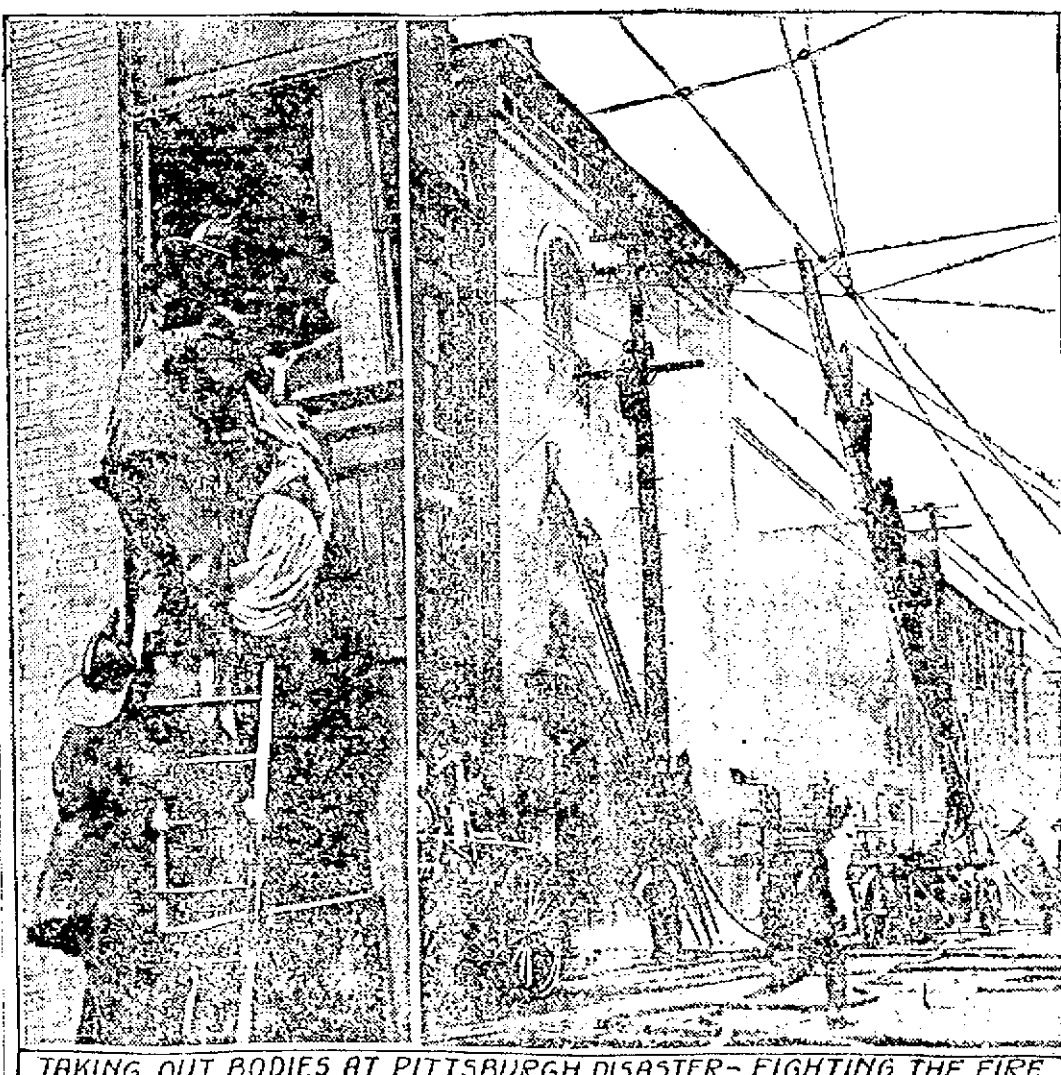

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 29, via London, 10:20 a. m.—The damage caused by the bombardment of Lille is estimated, the Telegram says, at 1,500,000,000 francs ($260,000,000). War taxes imposed by the Germans upon the French manufacturing cities of Lille, Roubaix and Tourcoing, according to the same authority already reach several million francs. Meat is no longer obtainable in those towns.

TRAPPED IN FACTORY, THIRTEEN DIE WHEN PITTSBURGH BUILDING BURNS

TAKING OUT BODIES AT PITTSBURGH DISASTER—FIGHTING THE FIRE

Thirteen persons were killed and eight injured by a fire in a four story building, the two upper floors of which were occupied by a paper box company, in Pittsburgh. Of the dead, all were young women employed by the company except one. Many of the bodies were so burned as to make identification difficult. Mayor Joseph G. Armstrong ordered that the police, city council and the coroner make a thorough investigation of the fire. The flames started in a pile of straw in the rear of the feed store of James Brown & Co. on the first floor of the building. William C. Kimbel, general manager of the box factory, at once went to the third and fourth floors and warned the girls employed there to leave the building quickly. The flames gained headway so rapidly, however, that escape by means of stairways and fire escapes was soon cut off. Some of the girls attempted to go to the dressing room for their hats and there, huddled on the floor, firemen found a majority of the bodies.

THE FRENCH MAID SAYS:

A DAINTY LINGERIE ACCESSORY

"Whatever are you doing, Marie?" if this plan is followed. Buy a quarter of a yard of Italian silk such as underwears are made of, or cut a quarter of a yard from an old worn under-vest. Line your corset cover with this, basting the edges of the corset cover and silk gauze together at the top, so as not to show above the lace or embroidery, or at the waist line. "Then, in place of the ribbon or beading shoulder straps, which make the corset cover fit badly, sew in strips of double flesh colored chifon, sloping then off on each side where they are which makes the vest wrinkle and gives causes much discomfort. Some wear the new corset which only comes to the waist. "As the lines of a lovely shoulder gleaming through filmy lace should be unmarred by even a ribbon or beading, I have invented a remedy and there may be both comfort and beauty

UNITED STATES AS PRIZE

PARTITION OF UNITED STATES AS PRIZE FOR SETTLEMENT OF THE WAR

PARIS, Oct. (Correspondence of the Associated Press).—The subjoined curious communication written on thick official looking folio paper without any indication of its origin has been delivered by messenger at the office of the Agence Havas, the principal news agency in France:

"The United States as the Prize for Settlement of the Present European Conflict."

"It is stated on high authority that suggestions have been made in the diplomatic circles of European chancelleries declaring that the earliest solution and the one most acceptable to all the warring nations would be the partition among them of the United States of America. The United States of America is a most tempting prize as compensation for the sacrifices rendered by those nations, and an arrangement on the basis of the respective positions of the different nations is surprisingly practicable.

"So far from being a visionary scheme for a solution of this great world conflict, the fact is only too apparent that only a small part of the effort expended in the sanguinary struggle, now raging, would have sufficed to satisfy all nations in their respective ambitions.

"A noted diplomat declared his surprise, that this idea of the partition of the United States had not emerged sooner, because the land is so largely made up of the constituency of all the warring nations.

the internecine struggle, is broadly outlined as follows:

"Great Britain is to occupy New England, Maryland, Virginia, North and South Carolina, Georgia and Florida.

"France is to get the French parts of eastern Canada and the states of Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Arkansas, Tennessee and Kentucky.

"Germany is to occupy the states of New York, Philadelphia, Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Illinois, Missouri, Iowa, Wisconsin and Minnesota.

"Japan is to take the Pacific coast, the states of Oregon, Upper and Lower California.

"Mexico is to be compensated for Lower California by ceding to it Arizona, New Mexico and part of Texas.

"Russia will receive Alaska.

"The Panama canal will be declared free, whilst the western states, North and South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, Washington, Montana, Wyoming, Idaho, Utah and Colorado will be consolidated into an imperial crown-land of the German empire.

"Though these 'satisfactions' are to be acquired in a concerted campaign, each of the several nations is to effect the occupation of its own allotted territory.

"Thus, it is claimed, would best be met the rights and interests of the different nations of old Europe, as it would safeguard their nationals under their respective flags.

"Whatever be said about this bold solution, it should be appreciated that in many ways it is more feasible than the three successive partitions of Poland, which nevertheless are historic facts.

"Truth is sometimes stranger than fiction. This alleged tentative understanding of the powers at war may be relegated to imaginative fiction, but it is surely not stranger than the sober truth, and it might easily take its countries at war, instead of prolonging the war."

ELECTION NEXT TUESDAY

Nov. 2—Four to Elect Governors—Important Amendments

Eight states, New York, Massachusetts, Maryland, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Kentucky, Ohio and Mississippi, will hold elections on Tuesday, Nov. 2. In four of these states, Massachusetts, Maryland, Kentucky and Mississippi, governors are to be elected; in six states, New York, Massachusetts, Maryland, New Jersey, Kentucky and Mississippi, the state legislatures, in whole or in part, are to be elected, and in five states, New York, Massachusetts, Maryland, Pennsylvania and Ohio, important constitutional issues are to be decided.

With a few local exceptions, in fact, these constitutional questions will be the dominant issues on election day, including as they do such fundamental matters as woman suffrage, municipal home rule, prohibition, state income taxes, referendum plans, and some lesser reforms.

The woman suffrage question will come up for decision in New York, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts, which states will furnish, in point of population, the greatest test the suffrage issue has ever had in the United States. New Jersey, the first state in the east to vote on equal suffrage, defeated the proposition at a special election given over exclusively to the suffrage question on Oct. 19. While it has been held by some political observers that the result of the test in New Jersey would be reliably indicative of what might be expected in the three bigger neighboring states, the suffrage leaders have not been discouraged by the big majority with which the issue was defeated in New Jersey, and look forward to the bigger test with confidence.

The importance of this test is indicated by the fact that, in point of population, the states of New York, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts, which will vote on suffrage Nov. 2, include over 20,000,000 people—a fifth of the population of the entire United States—and these 20,000,000 are practically double the population of the states in which equal suffrage has as yet been fully achieved.

New York State

In New York state, in addition to the suffrage issue, a dominant feature of the election will be the question of adopting a new state constitution as revised by a recent state constitutional convention, presided over by Elihu Root. The new constitution, at the request of the suffrage leaders, has not been made to include the suffrage amendment, hence the constitution and the suffrage issue will be voted upon separately, neither question having anything to do directly with the fate of the other.

The features of the revised constitution are measures designed to give the cities of the state greater latitude in the management of municipal affairs and coincidentally to relieve the legislature of a vast amount of local matters; to make the governor a more responsible individual by making the numerous executive arms of the administration more directly responsible to him; to reform the judiciary so as to eliminate some of the red tape that is declared to handicap the prompt execution of the laws; and among other provisions the short ballot and the judicial system. Two important articles, relating to taxation and reapportionment, will be submitted to the voters, separate from the general constitution question. Two other separate amendments would provide for a $27,000,000 bond issue to complete the Barge canal, and to permit the legislature to alter the rate of interest on certain state debts already incurred. Although the republicans were in a majority in the convention, they are not a unit in supporting the new constitution nor are the democrats standing solidly against it.

In personnel the New York election calls for the choice of a full assembly of 150 members, 11 supreme court justices and three congressmen, as well as county and city officials in some sections of the state.

Congressional successors are to be chosen to Joseph A. Goulden, democrat, of the 23d district, and Edwin A. Merrill, Jr., and Sereeno E. Payne, of the 31st and 35th, respectively, who died while serving in the last congress. The candidates are: William S. Bennett, republican, and Elsworth J. Healy, democrat, both of New York, in the 23d district; Bertrand H. Snell of Potsdam, republican, William L. Allen of Malone, democrat, and Howard D. Hadley of Plattsburg, progressive, in the 31st district; and Norman S. Gould of Seneca Falls, republican-progressive, and Louis J. Licht of Geneva, democrat, in the 35th.

Massachusetts

Massachusetts, in addition to the suffrage amendment, will vote on the proposition of giving the legislature authority to impose a tax on incomes, and similar authority for the taking over of land in country districts for the purpose of establishing homesteads for those who may wish to escape from the more congested quarters of the cities.

The successor to Gov. David I. Walsh, democrat, is to be elected, and the candidates, including Governor Walsh, are: Nelson B. Clark, progressive, Samuel W. McCall, republican; William Shaw, prohibition; Walter S. Hutchins, socialist, and Peter O'Rourke, socialist-labor. A lieutenant governor and various other state officials together with 40 senators and 240 members of the state house of representatives are also to be elected.

Pennsylvania

Pennsylvania will have comparatively little of general interest to its election outside of the vote on the suffrage question. No state officers are to be elected with the exception of three candidates to fill vacancies on the superior court bench. In general, the only thing other than the suffrage issue to attract the voters to the polls will be county and municipal elections, although one congressman is to be elected to fill a vacancy in the 24th district.

In Philadelphia the republican organization has conducted a vigorous campaign to regain control of the city administration, which was wrested from it four years ago when the reform elements united with the democratic party and elected Rudolph Blankenburg, a life-long reformer in politics, as mayor. The republican candidate for the mayor, this fall is Thomas B. Smith, former postmaster of Philadelphia. His chief opponent is George D. Porter, a reformer, who has been director of the department of public safety in the Blankenburg administration. He resigned to make the canvass for the mayoralty under the banner of the recently formed Franklin party. The democratic party is running its candidates on a straight party ticket.

Maryland

Maryland will elect a governor, comptroller of the state treasury, attorney general, a full house of delegates and half of the state senate. In addition four constitutional amendments will be voted upon, and local minor officers will be chosen in the counties and Baltimore city. Candidates to succeed Gov. Goldsborough, republican, are: Ovington E. Weiler, republican; Emerson C. Harrington, democrat, and George R. Gorsuch, prohibitionist.

The constitutional amendments are for the referendum, a new taxation scheme, home rule for cities, and parole in criminal cases. The referendum plan is practically the same as that followed in other states, except that the Maryland proposition includes a prohibition against the use of the referendum in any local option or license legislation. If the home rule amendment carries, the legislature will be relieved of a vast amount of purely local legislation, which would be vested in the city and county councils; while the taxation amendment provides for the classification of all kinds of property for the purpose of taxation.

Ohio

There will be general interest in the election in Ohio for the reason that state-wide prohibition of the liquor traffic is an issue again this year, as it was last year in the form of a proposed constitutional amendment which would forbid the sale or manufacture for sale of any alcoholic beverages. The "wets" have countered this proposal with petitions under the initiative and referendum law by which the people will also vote on another provision which would prevent the submission of any constitutional amendment more than twice in six years. Ohio is the only state in the Union which will vote this fall upon the liquor issue. In addition to the broader question of prohibition the so-called liquor license decentralization law, passed by the recent legislature, will be subjected to referendum. The issue concerns largely the method of selection of license commissioners.

The Sprague congressional redistricting bill, passed by the recent legislature, will also be under fire by referendum, which was petitioned by the democratic state organization. The redistricting law as drawn would, it is declared, result in normal years in the election of sixteen republican congressmen and possibly six democratic congressmen. The democrats claim that the law which they passed when in power divided the districts about evenly as between the two parties.

All cities in Ohio will select mayors and other municipal officers at the coming election, but no state officers are to be chosen this fall.

Kentucky

The Kentuckians will elect a governor for a four-year term, all other state officers, one-half of the state senate and an entire assembly. Democrats, republicans and prohibitionists have candidates for all the state offices, with republican and democratic contestants for every position on the ballot and the progressives are represented by candidates for nearly all the state offices and numerous seats in the general assembly. The socialist party has only a candidate for governor.

In the last presidential election the progressive party in Kentucky polled approximately 12 per cent votes, and the people a constitutional amendment that would divide the state into counties, contract with the railroad, and permitting the working of coals on the county roads.

Edwin D. Morrow, of Somerset, is the republican nominee; Fred A. Trexler, a Louisville man, heads the progressive,

Mississippi

The election in Mississippi will be merely a ratification of the nominations made by the democratic voters at the state primaries held last August, inasmuch as no other party has candidates in the field. A full set of state, county and district officers will be formally elected, as well as members of both branches of the legislature. No congressmen will be elected this year.

The present lieutenant-governor, Theodore G. Bilbo, will become governor, succeeding Earl Brewer, and Lee M. Russell will be the lieutenant-governor. Other candidates for state offices include Secretary of State Joseph W. Power, attorney-general Ross A. Collins, treasurer, Dr. J. P. Taylor, superintendent of education, W. H. Smith.

New Jersey

at the special election October 19, New Jersey has left little of general interest for the election of November 2. Voting on this day will be confined to the election of six members of the state senate and a full membership of the house. The campaign has been very quiet, no state-wide issues being involved. In some legislative districts, local option has been an issue.

The elections in the eight states that have been mentioned in the foregoing comprises all of the state elections that will be held in the United States this fall, and as will be noted, the voting is confined entirely to states east of the Mississippi river.

PELKEY IS KNOCKED OUT

TOOK THE MAT TWELVE TIMES IN BOUT WITH FRED FULTON OF OSHKOSH

OSHKOSH, Wis., Oct. 29.—Fred Fulton of Oshkosh knocked out Arthur Pelkey in the fifth round here last night. The bout had been fairly even up to the fifth round when Fulton sent two hard rights to Pelkey's jaw.

At the opening of the fifth round Pelkey ran into a hard right and went down for the count of nine. Another right to the jaw sent him down again. He arose only to get a slam in the stomach which doubled him up on the mat. His seconds advised him to quit, but he regained his feet only to be sent down again with another smash on the jaw.

Twelve times Fulton sent Pelkey to the mat before the round ended and the chairman of the boxing commission ordered the fight stopped.

INQUEST BEING HELD

Probe Into the Death of Chester Richardson on the Lawrence Road—Witnesses Heard

An inquest on the death of Chester Richardson, who was killed in the automobile accident on the Lawrence road, was held before Judge William Rogers in the Methuen police court this forenoon. The accident occurred when Alfred Fortin of Lewiston, Me., stepped off a Lowell car and was struck and seriously injured by an automobile owned by John F. Shackleton. After the machine had struck Fortin it swerved to one side and almost instantly killed Richardson, who was walking along the road. The witnesses included Motorman Samuel Dowling and Fred Hall.

Pretty, Wavy, Curling Hair Without Hot Iron

Let me tell you of a simple method which is a favorite of the belles of a certain exclusive social set. I'm sure you would like to know of it, because it will give your hair such a pretty curliness and lustre and permit you to do away with the ruinous waving iron forever.

Just get from any druggist a few ounces of ordinary liquid salerine, and at night apply a little with a clean tooth brush, drawing this down the full length of the hair. In the morning you will have a real surprise, the fascinating, fluffy, wavy effect will appear so natural, and there will be no greasy, gummy, streaky or other unpleasant trace of this harmless liquid. You will also find this a splendid dressing for the hair—Nona Morrow in the Club-Woman.

TRIBUTE TO MISS CAVELL

THROUG AT SERVICES IN LONDON RECALLED THE FUNERAL OF LORD ROBERTS

LONDON, Oct. 29, 11.30 a. m.—A service at St. Paul's cathedral today in memory of Miss Edith Cavell, the British nurse who was executed in Brussels was attended by a throng which recalled the funeral of Lord Roberts at the cathedral almost a year ago.

Before 8 o'clock a great crowd stood shivering in the first cold fog of the season awaiting the opening of the doors. Shortly after 10 o'clock signs bearing the words "Church Full" were hung at all the doors except the one reserved for ticket holders.

Conspicuous among the crowd which waited until the doors were opened were many wounded soldiers, attended by Red Cross nurses. The sombre clothing of the congregation which packed the great edifice was relieved here and there by spots of color of the uniforms of soldiers and sailors, military and naval dignitaries took their places. The only other seats reserved were for the lord mayor, the diplomatic corps of the entente allies of 600 of Miss Cavell's fellow nurses.

The service was begun with the "Dead March" played on the organ. Then came "Abide With Me" by the First Life Guards band. Except for the Lord's prayer and the reading of one lesson, the service was entirely musical, no sermon being delivered.

REAL WALKING CONTEST

CHESTER HARTIGAN IS ANXIOUS TO TEST ENDURANCE WITH MIKE WRENN

Chester Hartigan, the rising young athlete, is not at all discouraged by his failure to finish in the walk to Boston and on Sunday last, attributing his failure to a severe indisposition. So confident is he of his ability to outclass Michael Wrenn, winner of last Sunday's hike, that he has challenged the champion to a walk from Lowell to Worcester or from Lowell to Manchester, N. H., for any sum which Wrenn sees fit to risk.

In the event of Wrenn accepting Hartigan's challenge the public may look for a real walking exhibition in the near future.

UNDERWOOD AT CAPITAL

SENATOR-ELECT FROM ALABAMA ARRIVES FOR OPENING OF CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—Oscar W. Underwood, senator-elect from Alabama, who is here for the opening of congress, said today in discussing the question of national defense that he would wait until the army and navy experts themselves had reached their conclusions and presented them to congress before expressing his views on the subject.

The new senator declared that he favored a reasonable national defense, but said: "I am approaching the subject in such a way that I will be able to take the opinions of the experts largely into consideration in shaping a final opinion." He added that congress would now be in a better position in dealing with the subject to profit by lessons from the European war.

Mr. Underwood, who as chairman of the house ways and means committee, framed the tariff law which there is talk of revising to meet revenue requirements, declined to discuss the proposal. He said that it would be manifestly out of place for him to do so inasmuch as he was leader in the house when the law was enacted and is not now a member of that body.

Mr. Underwood will pay his respects to President Wilson in a few days and probably also will discuss the prospective legislative program.

CHILDREN'S PLAYHOUSE

On Saturday at the Children's Playhouse in Shattuck street the students of the high school who are now reading Schiller's great drama of "William Tell" will have the opportunity of seeing the play in production, and no one should miss it. Going to the site of the legend, the Lake of Lucerne in Switzerland, the story is geographically correct. It also follows the poem of Schiller, and uses these lines for its sub-plot. Now add to these two very distinguishing facts, the further feature that most of the views are either high up in the peaks of the Alps or else among the gabled architecture of the Swiss peasants, and the three features—geography, history and classical poetry—are brought home in an unconscious and beautiful manner.

It is the history of a national occurrence, a nation oppressed by a cruel tyrant smoldering with suppressed indignation under the cruel yoke, and finally stirred to righteous revolt and led by the redoubtable Tell they overthrow the oppressors.

SCENE FROM "THE SECRET SIN" FEATURING BLANCHE SWEET AT THE MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE TODAY AND TOMORROW

AMUSEMENT NOTES

H. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

They call it "stopping the show" at the H. F. Keith theatre, this week, when Albert Hawthorne and Jack Ingalls set to going right and proper with their monkey antics. The twain are original in everything they do, and they surely do a lot of funny things. Ingalls is well known here, the having demonstrated his work on previous occasions. Hawthorne's imitation of a German band is also a splendid bit of fun-making. The Midnight Rollers, who put on a modern, up-to-date musical comedy, have one of the best things shown here in a long time. Harry Stokio is the originator of this act, he having appeared in New York, Chicago and other cities. His co-partners have all had the same training, with the result that their audiences are seeing at the Keith theatre this week the real thing and not a feeble imitation. "Our Husband" a comedy, is very cleverly played by Bertha Creighton and her company. Miss Creighton is almost too well known to need further introduction to a Lowell public. She is a thoroughly well trained actress, who is equally apt in comedy or drama. Carl Rosini, a comedian with a bundle of new tricks, is sure to win approval for his tricks are most of them of his own conception. Beaman & Anderson are rather good in their calisthenics. Nothing just like their work was ever shown on a local stage before. Sylvester & Vance offer a comedy skit and Ruby Wallace is a singing comedienne. Good seats for all the remaining performances this week may be obtained in advance. Phone 23.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Blanche Sweet in the five act Paramount picture, "The Secret Sin," will again be the leading feature on the program at the Merrimack Square theatre for the latter part of this week. In this absorbing play which is a potent arraignment of the opium traffic, Miss Sweet plays a dual role, that of twin sisters, one of whom is a strong, self-possessed girl of high ideal; the other twin being a weak-willed slave of narcotics, who uses the use of opium. Her character portrayal in this play is nothing short of wonderful. Many scenes of Chinatown are shown, where Grace is almost killed by a band of robbers who attack her while she is in search of opium. The rest of the cast is also of best quality. The program for today is of the double feature variety, the other five act picture being "The Garden of Lies," featuring the brilliant star, Jan Cowl, who won undying fame in "Within the Law." "The Garden of Lies" is an entertaining play, as few plays are entertaining, and the acting of Miss Cowl is superb. The comedy shown with this bill is of a very humorous nature, while the Paramount travel pictures unfold some beautiful scenes and reveal some quaint customs of foreign lands.

ROYAL THEATRE

An exceptionally good program has been arranged for the patrons of the Royal Theatre for the latter part of the week and will consist of ten reels of first-run pictures in Lowell. "Nan of the Backwoods," a three-part feature, will be the best of the story. It tells of a young girl of the mountain district, her adventures and romances is cleverly told. The seventh episode in the series of the "Navy" was also seen at this theatre today and tomorrow. Do not miss this episode as it is most thrilling yet shown on our local stage. The story is the correct story of life in our navy and which bears the stamp of approval of the secretary of the navy. Captain George Easton, a Greek island in the world, will look after the comedy end of this bill and he will be seen here in two reels of his latest best picture, "The Sunday Scandal." "Scandal" is considered to be one of the greatest films ever produced, will be shown at the Royal Theatre.

OWL THEATRE

The management of the Owl Theatre wishes to announce that the trouble in regard to non-union musicians has been settled and that the orchestra will consist of union men. On today and tomorrow "The Price of Her Silence," a Mutual masterpiece in four acts with an all-star cast, headed by the brilliant Florence La Badie will be seen at the Owl. This is a very powerful picture, masterfully staged and acted in it the love of two sisters is feelingly portrayed.

"The Price of Her Silence" tells the story of a noble girl's sacrifice for her younger sister who was benevolent and who, suddenly widowed, endeavors to conceal the existence of her child, thinking that it will spoil her chances of ever marrying. The story is the younger one to acknowledge the child and exonerates her sister. In conjunction with this wonderful drama of passion and adventure, a three part Mutual feature, a Keystone comedy and others will be shown at the Owl theatre today and tomorrow.

THE NO-TREATING LAW

NEW ORDER GREATLY DECREASES DRINKING AMONG WOMEN IN LONDON

LONDON, October.—Correspondence of The Associated Press.—The no-treating law now enforced in the London district will from present indications greatly decrease drinking among women, for it is among the women of the lower classes that treating is the most prevalent. Even in the most poverty stricken slums of the East End, a woman who drinks by herself is considered mean, greedy and unsocial and she is accordingly ostracized. The only social life among these women is at the public houses. At all times of the day, they may be seen around the bars or in the streets in front with beer glasses in hand. Since the law prevents saloons entering the bars, the women with babies in their arms stand outside for their drinks. But often children tend to the babies while the mothers and grandmothers are inside.

The no-treating order went into effect in the West End and in the more respectable parts of London without protest. It was taken as a joke and the public houses were crowded with men buying their last treat, but in the East End, actual resentment was felt, chiefly among the women. They regarded it as a blow at their main source of amusement.

Settlement workers count on taking advantage of the new liquor regulations by starting more social halls. A number of these are in operation in the slums now, and their popularity is growing. They were especially designed for soldiers and their girls as a cheap place to spend an evening. The halls are provided with pianos and games, and tea and other soft drinks are sold at cost price. Heretofore, the saloons or "pubs" have been the only social meeting place for the people of the slums, who are glad to escape their own dismal tenements.

LATEST FASHIONS

PARIS, Oct. —(Correspondence of The Associated Press)—Full skirts have taken fashions back as far as 1850 and the military note has introduced leather into cloaks and mantles and fur into cloaks, jackets and skirts. The leather cloaks launched by some of the best authorized houses are very smart and light and are made in all colors. Every while ornamented with dark colored patent leather and with fur trimmings at collar and sleeves is very popular as well as dark blue. Cloaks buttoning to the chin and recalling the military style of the second empire are also to be worn this winter. They will be fur trimmed. Patriotic has inspired a new creation called the "Red cooper's" a fluffy full affair with the national colors represented in a wide belt at the waist. Silk has become fashionable by the force of circumstances; other French textiles are largely tied up by the war.

Drive Catarrh Germs From Nose and Throat

Only Way to Really End Catarrh is to Destroy the Germs Causing It. The germs of catarrh breed, thrive and multiply by the million far up in the air passages of the nose, throat and lungs of every catarrh victim. You cannot get rid of the disease until you get rid of the germs.

You can't kill germs with ointments or lotions or nasal purifiers.

There is also a safe, sensible and invariably reliable way to reach and destroy catarrh germs and thus stop catarrh forever. Breathe into your nostrils the germ-killing, germ-killing germ-killing air of Hyomeo which is made from the pure, healing oil of Eucalyptus combined with powerful medicinal ingredients which are sold in a standard preparation recognized by physicians and druggists everywhere. It is so well thought of here that many leading druggists in this vicinity sell it with an absolute guarantee of successful cure or money back. No catarrh sufferer therefore assumes any risk in giving it a trial. Fear this notice out of the paper now and show it to your druggist as you ask for Hyomeo. Be sure to ask him for the complete Hyomeo outfit which contains an including device which is very necessary to use to get the best results.

GOT OFF TRAIN AT THE DEPOT ON THEIR WAY TO THE NORTH YESTERDAY

There was considerable excitement at the Middlesex street station late yesterday afternoon when a group of about 30 Arabs, including three women, dressed in their native attire descended from a New York train and waited on the platform for the arrival of a train to take them to their destination, somewhere up north. While the immigrants were at the station a large crowd gathered and viewed them with interest. They were dressed in large white turbans with loose robes and carried but very little baggage. Some of the men carried canes, or walking sticks. The members of the party remained together during their half hour stay in this city and did not seem bothered at the amazing glances of the interested throng.

While investigation has not fully established the origin of the fire, acting Chief Neal of the state police, after an investigation today announced that he had found no one criminally responsible.

Day of Mourning
Arrangements have been made for masses to be celebrated at St. John's church tomorrow morning at 10:30 and 11:30 o'clock. Ten coffins will be taken to the church for the first service and 11 for the other. The proprietors of all stores and factories have been requested to close their establishments so that the entire town may turn the day into one of mourning.

BUILDING COMPLIED WITH LAW
PEABODY, Oct. 29.—In the cavity within the blackened brick shell of what yesterday morning was St. John's parochial school, then searched today for evidence as to the cause of the fire which cost the lives of 21 girls yesterday. Every corner of the ruins also was looked over carefully that it might be definitely determined whether all the bodies had been recovered. Early today five bodies remained unidentified at the rooms of an undertaker and five little girls had been reported by their families as missing. The undertaker expressed his opinion that the charred condition of these bodies probably would make positive identification impossible.

The search for possible additional bodies was renewed at dawn under the direction of Michael H. Grady, chief of police of the town. George C. Neal, acting chief of the state police, assisted by three inspectors, conducted the investigation of the circumstances surrounding the start of the fire.

Fire Started in Storeroom

The only fact that could be substantiated in the days in this connection was that the flames originated in a small storeroom in the basement. The door of this room was locked. Chief Neal himself broke it open just after the fire had been subdued. All that he could see in it was a part of one barrel. It was particularly toward this room that he directed his efforts today. With the assistance of the police, he made a minute examination of the debris on the floor in the hope of learning what had been kept in the room.

It is known that it was customary to place waste paper and other sweepings in wooden barrels in the storeroom. According to the sisters of the Order of Notre Dame, who were in charge of the school, nothing else was there. At one end of the room there was a gas jet.

Plan Public Funeral

Several of the parents of the fire victims attended mass at St. John's Roman Catholic church today. Prayers for the dead were said. After the examination of the debris on the floor the little ones were discussed and the arrangements were placed in the hands of Rev. Nicholas J. Murphy, pastor of the church. Meanwhile relatives of the missing children revisited the undertaking rooms and tried, by means of trinkets found with the bodies, to make further identifications.

Building Complied With Law

Acting Chief Neal, who concluded his investigations today announced that no one had been found criminally responsible for the fire. He said that while the building was badly constructed, it complied with the requirements of the law. In the opinion of the state authorities the fire started in a small closet containing school supplies, a small box of sweepings and the gas meter. One of the many theories advanced as to the origin of the fire is that the box of sweepings contained a few match-heads which may have been dropped on the floor by boys.

Exits Were Adequate

"The law requires," said Chief Neal, "that the state and local building inspectors shall consult and determine the proper means of egress from all buildings and if they are not sufficient, to order fire escapes installed on the outside of the building. The St. John's parochial school building was carefully examined and by computing the width of the exits, it was found that they were sufficient to take care of the crowd. With in the past few days the entire school in a regular fire drill was emptied in 53 seconds.

Poisonous Smoke from Walls

"The real fault in the building was the fact that all the stairs led toward the center of the building and not towards the exits," Chief Neal added. "The walls were all sheathed and coated with shellac and the smoke from the burning wood and oil is very poisonous. It is our opinion that this poisonous smoke was responsible for the loss of life, as many of the children must have met death by suffocation. To have remodelled the building which was old, would have cost heavy expenses.

"I am convinced," Chief Neal declared, "that the inspectors did their duty. The investigation, so far as the state is concerned is over."

Many letters and telegrams of condolence have been received by Father Murphy and all selection of people have offered use of the town hall for school purposes.

Fr. Murphy Heart-Broken

"My heart is broken over the loss of the children," Fr. Murphy said today. "The bricks and mortar can be replaced, but the loss of so many little lives is irreparable. We did all we could and I don't regret a thing. The fire spread so quickly. We had the children suffer in the fire drills. The exits were adequate. In a recent drill all the children were out of the building in 53 seconds and a half."

Twelve little bodies which are in the undertaker's rooms, he said, are as fast as the charred bodies placed in them they were on the floor of the victims.

Heroic Nun Rescues Child

When the explosion came at its height and the flames were building from the front door, the nuns of the convent were alerted. They saw a young girl in the fire with a prostrate girl in her arms. The nuns' garments were ablaze. The nuns of the convent saw the girl in the fire. She carried her own child in her arms. She was attempting to heat on the fire that enveloped her child.

She staggered through the door into the arms of willing rescuers and her

Wednesday night and the affair proved very enjoyable. Refreshments were served at intermission. The following members of the popular organization had the affair in charge: Richard Marshall, Albert Johnson, John Ward, Geo. Tighe and George Simpson.

A delightful Halloween party was held Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Frank P. Locke. The guests were attired in costumes representing characters of all kinds, and the house was appropriately decorated with Halloween novelties. Refreshments were served and a pleasing entertainment was presented.

A pleasant miscellaneous shower was tendered Miss Mary Jordan at the home of Miss Louise Leonard of 109 Ludlum street, last evening. Refreshments were served, and a musical program carried out as follows: Piano selections by Miss Minnie Tucker and Miss Margaret Whoolery; songs, Misses Ethel, Lily and Minnie Tucker, Miss Christine Jordan and Miss Ethel Tucker, and Miss Louise Leonard had charge of the affair.

HELD HALLOWEEN PARTY

Hilarious grinning faces carved from pumpkin shells, lighted candles, horrible witches astride the most astounding leopards conceivable and other Halloween conceits were the features of the Halloween party conducted last evening in the upper hall in Frances Clayton, Etta Melberson and Mae A. Bradley. There were about 35 couples in attendance. The weird lights and grotesque figures were also arranged in the dining hall in which the banquet was served.

After the appetizing menu had been discussed, Mr. James A. Noonan, the president officer, introduced Mr. John L. Sullivan as the toastmaster of the evening, and a very fine musical program followed, those taking part being John Hall, Miss Alice Bonin, Miss Mae A. Bradley, Miss Frances Clayton, Frank Bonaparte, Miss Evelyn Bonin, Miss Leah Benoit and Miss Jessie McLaughlin. Remarks were made by Miss Irene Dunfee, Jennie Leahy, Inez MacKenney, and Messrs. Frank Geoffrey, Philip Laporte and others.

CAPTAIN WEYAND OF ARMY ELEVEN PLAYING STRONG GAME AT TACKLE

WEYAND

Head Coach Daly of the Army eleven is confident he will have a powerful team to tackle the Navy boys at the Polo grounds, Nov. 27. Daly has made a number of changes in the lineup during the past few weeks and now believes he has a strong aggregation. Weyand intends to use Neyland at quarter in all the Army games. Captain Weyand has been playing a strong game at tackle, and many experts believe he will come pretty near being given a place on the All American eleven.

BOMBARDMENT OF VARNA

ROME, via Paris, Oct. 29, 2:45 a. m.—A despatch to the Giornale d'Italia from Constantinople describes the attack by the Russian fleet yesterday on the Black sea coast of Bulgaria. The Russian fleet, composed of battleships and torpedo boats, bombarded Varna and Burgas and the neighboring coasts. The torpedo boats, the despatch says, succeeded in warding off attacks of Austro-Bulgarian submarines. The damage caused by the bombardment is described as very serious. The Bulgarian artillery made a feeble reply. The report says some detachments among the Bulgarian troops in the coast forts gave cheers for Russia during the bombardment.

Token Money System
Teaches Prisoners Responsibility

There was one negro at Sing Sing who was filled with special sorrow. With the exception of one white man everyone else was filled with a grand new joy. For it was pay day at the prison and $3,000 worth of prison money went into circulation. But the negro expressed himself in the following sorrowful strain to Deputy Warden Elhu Church: "Boss, if you hadn't taken mah bones away, Ah'd own all do money in dis prison befo' night. Lawd Ah wish Ah could git inter a W' crap game with dese white boys, Ah'd take all dis money."

The phing words gave Mr. Church a text to point out the significance of the money system that was put into effect at Sing Sing, for upon him fell the duty of explaining it in the absence of Warden Osborne. Instead of the negro's words proving that money is the root of all evil, and would be an evil at Sing Sing, Mr. Church showed how Mr. Osborne believes it will be the most potent factor in his reforms in inculcating a sense of social morality into the inmates.

"It is to my mind the most interesting sociological experiment going on in the world," Mr. Church said. "With these 1500 men housed within four walls, the connection between cause and effect comes home to them in a way it couldn't in the great outside world."

"These men are paid $1 a day in token money. They are charged for their room, and for other privileges. The men who are prudent can get themselves the better rooms, plenty of tobacco, certain extras in food, go to the movies, and so on.

"But take the man who should gamble with the ducky and lose all his money. He would be broke. He wouldn't have money to pay for his room. He wouldn't have money to pay for his food. He would become a public charge. The prison community must support him, and that means there would have to be taxation.

"And here you have the lesson for the whole prison community, they find that men who don't work, but don't earn any token money and men who gamble their token money away, are bad for the community, because it means taxation for the rest. If everyone works, uses his money to good purposes, there will be no public charges and no taxation.

"You see, the cause and effect are so obvious in this little penned community that the men can't help seeing the connection.—New York Times.

FIVE PERSONS DROWNED

HEAVY DAMAGE BY FLOODS IN SOUTHERN FRANCE—TWO AUTOS
DASHED INTO RAVINE

PARIS, Oct. 29, 4 a. m.—Perpignan, a city of southern France, in the foothills of the eastern Pyrenees, reports that damage amounting to several million francs has been caused in that region by the overflow of the Basse river. At Rivesaltes, the home town of General Joffre, a railroad bridge was swept away and communication with Narbonne was cut.

A vast extent of country at Cornet-verol is under water 10 feet deep. Five persons were drowned by the capsizing of a boat in which they were seeking safety.

At Salles, between Perpignan and Narbonne, part of a road was washed away and two automobiles were dashed into a ravine. Only one of the occupants was saved.

Many business houses at Perpignan lost all their stocks. All available soldiers have set at work pumping water from the cellars.

RUMANIA MOBILIZES 450,000 MEN
PARIS, Oct. 29, 4:10 a. m.—The Salonki correspondent of the Paris Journal learns from a reliable source that Rumania has mobilized 450,000 men, of whom 200,000 are concentrated on the Bulgarian frontier, and the rest on the Hungarian frontier, where impregnable defenses have been constructed.

COUGHED CONTINUALLY

Day and Night—Man Says Nothing Helped But Vinol.

That statement does not surprise us. We have told the people of Lowell many times during the last ten years that Vinol is the greatest remedy for chronic coughs and colds that we ever sold. Mr. Dunning says:

"I took a heavy cold which settled into a chronic cough. It seemed as though I coughed continually day and night, so I could not sleep. I was all run-down and so weak I could hardly keep about. I tried different cough medicines but seemed to get worse instead of better. I went to the drug store and got a bottle of Vinol. Before it was half gone I was better and its continued use cured my cough, built me up and I am feeling fine." Benl Dunning, 505 North Ave., Boston, Pa.

Vinol is not a palliative like cough syrups, but it is a constitutional remedy for coughs, colds and bronchitis, which removes the cause and stops the cough, and the recovery of Mr. Dunning was due to the healing medicinal extractives of fresh cods' livers without oil, added by the strengthening, revitalizing effect of tonic iron and beef peptone which are contained in Vinol.

HELD A BANQUET

Association at American House

"Fins, Fur, Feathers and Fun," the motto of the Lowell Fish and Game Association, was the theme of the last night of the season being the first banquet of the organization, which was held at the New American hotel with over 100 members of the organization in attendance. In the menu were included fish and fowl, while during the post-prandial exercises which followed the dinner, those present were supplied with fun, games. Of course, the chief topic of discussion was fishing and hunting, and for the benefit of those who were not present it is fair to state that the fish stories that were told last evening were not of the ordinary kind, for they were real "honest to goodness" stories.

During the speeches the state fish and game commission came in for discussion, the speakers criticizing the state board for failing to have the fishway restored at Pawtucket falls.

The members of the association and others gathered in the reception hall of the hotel at 6:30 o'clock and for one hour an informal reception was held. President Simon B. Harris and Secretary Willis S. Holt were on deck, and they made everybody feel at home. At 7:45 o'clock, to the strains of sweet music rendered by Emil Biron at the piano and Emil Borkes on the violin, the assembly marched to the banquet hall, headed by President Harris and the invited guests, and after comfortably seating themselves around the festive board, all partook of a dinner fit for kings.

The banquet hall was appropriately decorated for the occasion with large American flags, white bunting and there on the walls were hung fishing and hunting paraphernalia. The chandeliers were decked with foliage and the room presented a very pleasing appearance.

The decorations were by Decorator C. E. Young and Harry Gonzales, first vice president of the association.

At the close of the dinner cigars were lighted, and President Simon B. Harris made an address of welcome. He thanked the invited guests for being present in such large numbers, and said he was pleased to state he had no letter of regret to read from anyone, for all had responded cheerfully to the invitation to attend the first jollification given by the association.

Mr. Harris said the organization is to be congratulated for the success obtained during the two years and a half of its existence, and he was proud to say that the membership is composed of men of the highest character and sportsmen of the highest type. The presiding officer reviewed in a brief way the work of the organization and took occasion to thank William G. Purcell for his suggestion to conduct an outing next year and also for the offer of the free use of a camp on the shores of Long pond.

The Secretary's Report
Willis S. Holt, secretary of the association, made a very interesting report, dealing with the restocking of fish and game by the association since its inception in May, 1913. Mr. Holt is father of the association as well as secretary, and he has been an active member and efficient worker since the beginning. He said that the report in regard to the planting of fish in the rivers, brooks and ponds is one that the association may be excused for feeling proud of, as it was not equalled, so far as he could find, by any similar association in the United States.

Mr. Holt first told of the birds that had been received for liberation, including Mallard ducks and pheasants. The number of birds received was very small indeed as compared with the great number of fish planted. Mr. Holt named all of the brooks and ponds in which the fish have been distributed, and the summary was as follows: Whole number of brook trout distributed, 223,650; whole number of small-mouth black bass, 10,000; yellow perch, 28,000; pike perch, 37,000; hornpouts, 300; all adults, white perch, 5,341,130.

Mr. Holt said that the officers have done their best to get more birds and that they have the promise of more from the state commission, the birds to arrive after Nov. 12. The report also states that ten pairs of snow-shoe rabbits had been ordered from Maine for March delivery.

Hon. John C. Hogan of this city was then introduced as the toastmaster of the evening, and before he spoke Congressman John Jacob Rogers entered the hall and was given a rousing reception with three cheers and a tiger to boot.

Mr. Hogan, after a talk about the fishway that does not exist, introduced the speaker of the evening, Hon. Samuel P. Hadley.

Judge Hadley's Remarks

In his opening remarks Judge Hadley, who was given a warm welcome, complimented the association for its success, and the promoters of the banquet for having provided their fellow-members with food which they have heretofore been deprived of by the failure of the state fish and game commission to restore the fishway. speaker then referred to the old fishway before the Pawtucket dam was erected, and said in those days large quantities of salmon and shad went up the stream from the sea as far as New Hampshire to spawn, with the result that there was an abundance of salmon and shad in the Merrimack river.

"In those days," said Judge Hadley, "the salmon in the Merrimack was so numerous that we boys used to spear them in the evening under the glare of torchlights. It was often that mother would say, 'Sam, go to your Uncle Varum and see if he has a salmon or a shad to spare,' and each time I would return with more fish than we could eat. In those days two cents would buy a very large shad."

"Speaking about salmon, I remember that my Uncle Varum caught an extra large one and he made up his mind to dispose of it in Boston. He went to the Hub and in exchange for his salmon he returned with a baby negro, who grew to be an old man, and his remains are now in the Varum cemetery. It was a common occurrence to see large wagons loaded with salmon and shad at the Pawtucket falls, the fish being sold for about one cent and a half each."

The speaker then turned his attention to game, and said that although he went out several times with an old-fashioned gun, he never in his life killed an animal. He told of a woodchuck he caught when he was a boy and said he kept the animal for a long time. He said he used to feed his "pet" with clover, and the woodchuck grew to be a very large fellow and its delight was to go into the music room and listen to the piano. "Much to my sorrow," he continued, "my pet was killed by the dog of a member of this association. Mr. Bowers." Judge Hadley closed by saying the state fish and game commission was doing an injustice to the residents of Lowell by not restoring the fishway.

At the close of Judge Hadley's remarks, James B. Danahy delighted the large attendance with a couple of Scottish songs. Other numbers on the program included addresses by Congressman Rogers, Mayor Murphy, Frank J. Beal, fish and game commissioner of New Hampshire; Waldo F. Hubbard, superintendent of the U. S. fish hatchery at Nashua, N. H.; George L. Hinton, Esq., Charles L. Marren and Capt. Redmond Welch, and musical numbers by William C. Purcell, Emil Biron and Emil Borkes.

RELEASE FROM SIBERIA

VLADIMIR BOURTZEV HOPES TO
CARRIED OUT

PETROGRAD, Oct. (Correspondence of the Associated Press)—Vladimir Bourtzev has celebrated his release from Siberia by an interview in the Bourse Gazette in which he expresses the highest hopes of seeing the revolutionary reforms he has so long advocated carried out in Russia at last.

Bourtzev was directing operations against the Russian secret police from Paris on the outbreak of war, when he took advantage of the proclamation of political amnesty to return home and offer his services to his country.

But Makiakov and Tcheglovitov, the two leading reactionary ministers, then governed the country, and Bourtzev was arrested and exiled notwithstanding the promise of pardon. When the two reactionaries were forced to resign, Bourtzev was promptly pardoned. Their dismissal, he says, marks the passing of the old regime.

The prorogation of the Duma was lamented by the revolutionist, who nevertheless hoped the sittings would soon be resumed.

"No one can doubt that at the present hour the Duma and country are closely united," he added. "Our salvation depends on the Duma."

Speaking of his second exile in Siberia, Bourtzev said the transportation system had changed for the worse. Thirty years ago the political prisoners were kept separated from the others, while lately he had been handcuffed and put in the company of common malefactors and on arriving at the convict settlement he was never allowed out of the sight of his guards.

"We live an intense political life," he concluded, "and I do not doubt that Russia stands at last on the way to real social progress."

BULGARIAN TROOPS ADVANCE
PARIS, Oct. 29, 4:05 a. m.—Bulgarian troops advancing from Egri Palanka have entered Prizrend, after occupying Uskup, according to the Athens correspondent of the Journal. It is believed that the Serbians now occupy a defensive position west of the Vardar river on a line passing by the summits of the Karadzita and Babuna ranges and that their bases are Monastir and Gjevel.

WHAT HORTENSE TOLD ME

Some beauty don'ts by Hortense: Don't wear thin shoes and gossamer stockings in cold weather or you will have that pinched, chilled look that is so unbecoming. Don't economize in shoe leather. It is economy which will likely cost you dear. Don't give up taking exercise even if the weather is bad. A brisk walk on a cold day is a splendid complexion beautifier.

Don't fail to dry your hands thoroughly after washing if you wish to prevent them from getting chapped. Don't forget to wear a veil if your skin is susceptible to cold winds. Don't wear heavy headgear. It is very bad for the hair. Don't let your rooms get hot and stuffy. Always leave the window slightly open at the top.

Hortense tells me that an excellent lotion for preserving the color of fair hair is made from camomile flowers. An ounce of these should be placed in a bowl, and about a pint of boiling water poured over them. Cover the bowl and allow to stand for a couple of hours, then strain carefully and use occasionally, dabbing it into the roots of the hair.

The more fair hair is brushed the better it looks. Brushing gives a gloss which eventually becomes permanent and so is far better than what brilliantine could impart, also it frees the scalp from dust and makes the hair grow. The brushes must be kept scrupulously clean, should be washed every morning and then left to dry ready for the night brushing.

There is one thing the business girl does, sooner or later and it is about the worst thing she could do. She goes without her lunches, sometimes because she thinks she has to, or sometimes to pay for some foolish piece of fancy which she doesn't like after she gets it. If she takes her lunch she often omits breakfast.

This is very poor economy and poorer philosophy, thinks Hortense. There is no wisdom in working all day on an empty stomach and taking a chance on catching the first contagious disease that comes your way, as well as spoiling your chances of being beautiful. If you do not conserve your strength to combat germs they will find easy lodgment in a weakened body.

And you can't expect to do your work as well as you would if you have a clear brain and a hale, hearty feeling. You may not feel the effects of going without your meals all at once, but it is bound to harm your health and appearance in the end.

For that tired face that many women have, Hortense says a nice long walk every day with deep breaths of clear crisp air, will do much. Then, too, you should retire at a certain hour each night so that you may have at least eight hours' sleep. Then, if you wish to see even more here is a recipe for one which she thinks you will find beneficial as a massage to work out the tired lines.

Mutton tallow one pound, spirits of camphor one dram, tincture of benzoin two drams, glycerine five ounces, powdered alum half a dram, best Russian isinglass one dram, orange flower water two ounces.

After you have tried out the tallow in a small stew pan you will have a cup of fat. Add to this the alum and glycerine. Dissolve the isinglass in the orange flower water and add to the glycerine, alum and tallow. Lastly add the other ingredients and beat the compound.

Hortense says that too often does the girl who has natural beauty in her youth, squander it prodigally. Keeping late hours, over-exercising and eating irregularly food, rich but not particularly nourishing. Health and strength are props on which beauty depends for support, and when inroads are constantly made on these, it quickly fades. To continue in the possession of health and strength no new laws are needed, but the old rule of plenty of sleep, nourishing food eaten regularly and much exercise, must be observed.

Sufficient sleep is more conducive to good looks than any artificial means yet discovered by the beauty doctors. If you would keep your eyes bright and your face unlined, obey the eight hour law of sleep.

Two things, done every day, will keep the hair attractive, says Hortense. These things are the massage of the scalp and the brushing of the hair. The former loosens the scalp and promotes the circulation of the blood through the scalp. The brushing frees the hair from dust, also stimulates the circulation of blood in the scalp and regulates the flow of the natural oil, which gives hair its gloss and brilliance. If your hair is inclined to dry, a few drops of castor oil should be applied to the scalp once or twice a week.

If your neck looks yellow and the skin is rough, don't despair. First of all cleanse the neck with warm, soapy water. Rub with clean warm water and, after drying the skin, massage with cocoa butter or olive oil into it. The juice of a lemon or diluted peroxide applied to the skin will bleach it.

PROHIBITION MOVEMENT

CHRISTIANIA, Norway, Oct. 29.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press).—The prohibition movement which, since the beginning of the war, has been gaining momentum in all the Scandinavian countries, has become in Norway a leading issue in the present political campaign. Gndar Knudsen, the prime minister, stated in a recent speech that country-wide prohibition would be an achievement of the near future. But except among the socialist and radical circles which have strongly espoused the prohibition cause, it is thought that the economic and international complications resulting from such a reform will make it impracticable—or at least inadvisable.

The wine-producing European countries do not look favorably upon the curtailment of their liquor exports to Norway, and it is felt here that in the case of prohibition reforms, they will undertake reprisals which will seriously injure the commercial and financial standing of the country. In 1909, when the legislature passed a bill restricting the import of French wines, Norwegian bonds were refused a rating on the Paris exchange, and the bill was repealed. The French declaration, made at this time, to the effect that France would assume the liberty of making such an answer to any Norwegian legislation detrimental to France's wine trade, is still in force. France, Spain and Portugal, according to a tariff declaration of 1910, will double the duty on articles imported from countries which throw difficulties in the way of the wine trade. The Norwegian exports to these countries are several million dollars in excess of the imports, and any interference with these exports would work a serious commercial injury to Norway. Norway, at present, enjoys the "most favored nation" clause in her commercial treaties with France. If France feels that her wine exports to Norway are being restricted, she may, according to the tariff declaration already mentioned, "take any steps the circumstances dictate," including the raising of harbor dues for Norwegian ships in French harbors, which will make it difficult for Norway to compete with other nations. France at present takes half of all the wool pulp and cellulose produced in Norway and Portugal and Spain each take 30 per cent. of Norway's split cod.

Those opposed to prohibition use these arguments to show that a small country like Norway, which is in so many ways dependent on other countries, cannot, without injuring profitable trade and disturbing her financial standing, adopt as strict a degree of prohibition as has been urged. At present, however, are agreed that there should be a rigid control of the sale of alcoholic beverages and that their consumption should be replaced by light wines and beer.

It is also argued that Norway's long coastline and thousands of protected fjords would make it impossible to prevent wholesale smuggling. It is also common in Norway to make wine—some of it containing a high per cent. of alcohol—out of blueberries, currants and apples, which can be sold by grocery without special license. Critics of the prohibition program state that it would be difficult to devise and enforce a law to prevent people from distilling berry wines and stronger alcohol drinks in their own kitchens for home use.

WOMEN'S CLUBS IN RUSSIA
PETROGRAD. One-step have been taken to form a federation of women's clubs in Russia under the leadership of the Women's Equal Rights association. In connection with Russian high schools have been somewhat checked in the past. Under the present administration of the department of education they are to be given free scope. Elections have been held to form in all the Petrograd gymnasiums or high schools for boys and girls.

IN MILADY'S BOUDOIR

YOUR NECK TELLS YOUR AGE

There is nothing about a woman's appearance that tells her age so surely as her neck, and when it is beautiful it is one of her most seductive charms. Why is it that so many women who take the greatest care of their complexion and their appearance generally, will not look beneath the chin for faults to correct?

* Your neck is scrawny, cocoa butter is efficacious in filling out the hollows. Rub it all off with a clean cloth when you have finished the massage and apply a little pure powder to keep from soiling the neckhands of your waists. In drying and rubbing the neck always rub from the top down. If your neck is brown or discolored there are a number of good remedies that may be used to bleach it. There is nothing better, however, than lemon juice and water. One woman I know who has a lovely neck, always keeps a half lemon on her wash stand. Just before she dries her neck every morning, she merely rubs a little lemon juice on it.

Tight collars are responsible for many unsightly necks. When you consider how close the connection is between the brain and the rest of the body, it surely does not seem a wise policy to place any restriction about the neck which might interfere with the circulation of the blood to the brain, or tend to check proper breathing. It is so delightful to feel that the neck is free and to feel the fresh air upon it.

WALSH ON FARE RAISES

Governor Doubts Justice of Changes — Promises Inquiry Before Request is Allowed

BOSTON, Oct. 29.—Gov. Walsh continued yesterday his campaign for a re-election. In the day-time he took a trip through the southeastern part of the state, speaking in Quincy, Weymouth Landing, South Weymouth, No. Abington, Abington, Brockton, Bridgewater, Middleboro, Plymouth and Kingston, and in the evening he addressed remarkably large rallies in Lynn, Medford, two halls in Somerville and three halls in Cambridge. It was a highly successful day in every particular from the standpoint of the governor. His daytime audiences were larger than any other candidate has had this year in the same places, and the evening meetings surpassed in attendance and enthusiasm any similar gatherings in Massachusetts in years.

Trolley Fare Increase

His speeches for the most part covered issues which he has previously discussed, but at the Lynn meeting he read a carefully-prepared statement in regard to the higher fares which the street railway companies of the state would charge their patrons. The governor said in effect that, if re-elected he would call on the legislature to make a full investigation of all the circumstances affecting the case and would do all he could to prevent these increases in fares if it was shown that the companies which would put them in force had been overcapitalized or imprudently managed. This declaration roused the greatest enthusiasm among his Lynn auditors.

Mrs. Barry With Party

The governor was due in Quincy square where he had his first appointment yesterday morning, at 9 o'clock, but the late hour of his rallies Wednesday evening kept him in Worcester over night and made him late in starting on yesterday's schedule. Consequently, instead of being in Quincy at 9 o'clock he arrived there at 10:15. In spite of the long delay about 200 people were waiting for him. They had been held by ex-Lieut. Gov. Barry and ex-Representative W. L. V. Newton of Boston, who acted as advance couriers for the governor.

Mrs. Barry accompanied her husband on the trip and distributed Wilson and Walsh buttons to the women who gathered to listen to the speaking. When the governor had gone a little farther Congressman Olney joined the party and spoke in several places.

The governor talked for 15 minutes in Quincy and then went on to Weymouth Landing. He found 50 or 75 people there, although he was almost two hours behind his schedule; among them was ex-Representative Whelan, who served with the governor when the latter was in the legislature. The governor's address at Weymouth Landing lasted only about eight minutes.

His next stopping place was Columbia square, South Weymouth. A large company of school children was waiting there for him, and he told them amusing stories of his experiences before he took up more serious matters for their elders. Gordon Willis, who keeps a shop in the square, was another former associate in the legislature who sought out and spoke to the governor.

Makes Up Lost Time

More than 200 people were at North Abington when the governor arrived there at 11:45. He was introduced by Arthur B. Reed, the local member of the democratic state committee. The governor spoke for about 15 minutes and then hurried on to Abington, where he had another large crowd of school children in addition to the adult listeners.

By this time the governor through the process of cutting off his addresses, had made up his schedule, and he arrived at Brockton promptly at the time set—12:30. He spoke there for half an hour to an audience of 500 people, the largest of the day.

His next appointment was at Bridgewater at 1:45, and he arrived there on time, expecting to speak briefly, but he found his hearers so interested and so interesting that he talked for 40 minutes. He stepped out of his automobile and went inside the little enclosed green where he spoke to the 200 or more who had assembled.

It was one of the most effective meetings of the trip. Two or three times he started for his car, but another question or suggestion from some one in the crowd drew him back. Consequently he was late when he left for Middleboro.

Introduced by Progressive

talk to the children in the little Purchase school; they, with their teacher, Mrs. Wood, the wife of the democratic candidate for the legislature from that district, had waited a long time to see the governor, and he was too obliging to pass by without a word.

He was more than half an hour late at Middleboro square, but at least 250 people were there. The governor was introduced by James A. Thomas, formerly a republican and now a progressive. Mr. Thomas declared that the governor came up to his standards as a progressive. The address in Middleboro took 35 minutes.

It was a long ride to Plymouth, the next stopping-place and the governor arrived there at 4:10, almost an hour late. He had a large audience and he spoke for 25 minutes. Then he hurried on to Kingston, where about 50 people were waiting in front of G.A.R. hall. He had intended to go to Duxbury also, but by this time it was dark and he had to rush back to Boston for his evening engagements. So Duxbury was cut out of the schedule.

Criticism of McCall

At all the daylight meetings the governor spoke of the "invisible government," taxation, the milk legislation, industrial insurance and the other topics which he has considered earlier in the campaign. He made his appeal yesterday not alone but to all others who believe in the things he has accomplished or tried to bring about.

He sharply criticized the republican legislature for defeating so much progressive legislation which he had recommended, and he again called on Mr. McCall to make his position known on some of the state issues instead of talking about the tariff, the European war, the troubles in Mexico, and other matters in which the governor of Massachusetts had no more concern than any other citizen.

Gov. Walsh had barely time to eat a hurried dinner in Boston before he went to Lynn, where he spoke in Old Fellows hall. It was crowded to the doors. Rep. Donahue, the democratic candidate for attorney general, was speaking when the governor entered the hall at 8:10, but Mr. Donahue soon gave way to the governor, who spoke for an hour.

Proposed Fare Increase

It was a most enthusiastic and responsive audience, and the governor spoke for the occasion. Touching the proposed increase in street railway fares, he said:

"The democratic platform declares for the enactment of legislation preventing any increase in common carrier freight rates or passenger fares unless companies seeking such increases have been honestly capitalized, and honestly and economically managed, and with this declaration I am in full accord. There should be definite legislation upon the statute books fixing the basis upon which rates and fares should be determined.

"This action of the democratic convention also defines our attitude toward the pending petitions for an increase of fares fixed by street railway companies. These proposed increases would affect over 1,000,000 of our people, many thousands of them working men and women to whom their daily car fare is an important item of expense.

"The people have a right to demand that the state, through its public service commission, should spare neither time nor expense in the examination of the financial condition of the companies, their capitalization and expenditures, to determine the need of an increase in fares. Capital honestly invested in public utility corporations must be protected, but the regulating authority must be vigilant as well to protect the public interest.

Robbing Peter to Pay Paul

"I am convinced that justice demands that Lynn, Lowell, Lawrence, Brockton, Haverhill and Fall River and other cities and towns where the companies may now be receiving adequate returns upon the capital invested should not be saddled with increased fares to make up for the losses upon 'thin' lines, many of them built by promoters for speculation when stock watering was rampant. Justice demands that if any increase is found necessary it should be borne only when and where necessity imposes it.

"The schedules of fares filed have been suspended for the full period of six months allowed by the statute for investigation. It may be that this period will be insufficient, and I give assurance to the people of the state that if re-elected governor I shall call upon the incoming legislature, if necessary, to extend the time for investigation and to provide funds if needed to make this inquiry as complete as the protection of the millions of persons affected in justice requires."

Counsel for Owners and Dealers Appearing at State House Hint at Test of Constitutionality

BOSTON, Oct. 29.—An increase in the automobile registration tax was strongly opposed by representatives of many automobile owners yesterday morning at the hearing before the special taxation commission in the state house, and it was even hinted that the constitutionality of the law might be tested in court if larger fees than those now in vogue were exacted.

HEALTHY OLD AGE BRINGS HAPPINESS

Simple Remedy Promotes Health by Overcoming Tendency to Constipation.

Advancing years impair the action of the vital organs. Old age should be the period of greatest happiness, but good health is necessary. Constipation should not be tolerated—it is often the direct cause of ill health. Headache, belching, bloating, drowsiness after eating and other symptoms of constipation can be readily relieved by the use of a simple laxative compound sold in drug stores under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Mr. J. H. Bristol, 1112 Geddes Ave., Ann Arbor, Mich., who is 83 years old, says "Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the best remedy I ever used for constipation and I always have a bottle of it in the house to use when I feel the need of it. It never disappoints."

formation regarding the whole subject of automobile taxation.

John D. Sullivan, representing the Boston Automobile Dealers' association and the Boston Commercial Automobile association, insisted that the present tax on automobiles is sufficient and opposed any increase in the fee on motor trucks. He called attention to the fact that everyone in the state derives benefit from auto trucks, which are coming to be one of the greatest factors in distribution.

Mr. Sullivan expressed the opinion that a real attempt should be made to revise the entire system to the end that the state may get more revenue and the automobile owners not be required to pay so heavy an assessment as they now have to do. Chairman Taffs also declared that a full and free revision is the only way to deal with the question.

James T. Sullivan, representing the Bay State Automobile association, contended that the present law should be left as it is, for the automobile industry is a tremendous asset to the state. He opposed the levying of increased taxes on the automobile itself and an increased fee on the registration of chauffeurs. Frank B. Holmes, president of the Kissel Kay company, also opposed any increase in registration.

NOTES IN WAR GEOGRAPHY
BERLIN, Oct. 29.—The school authorities in Bavaria have published notes on war geography for the children attending the public schools. The following information is given regarding Russia:

The Russian territory already occupied by the Germans is four times as extensive as the kingdom of Bavaria, but is only one-seventh of the entire Russian empire. But the greater part of Russia is thinly populated, and the most populous districts are already in German possession, so that Russia can now show only six-sevenths of her former population.

At the beginning of the war, Russia had fifty million more inhabitants than Germany and Austro-Hungary combined, namely, 170 millions against 120 millions. After a year of warfare, this position had been reversed; Russia now has only 145 millions, whereas the central monarchies rule over 155 millions.

The new territory occupied in east and west is as extensive as the entire kingdom of Prussia.

TAXATION REFORMS

There is no political question more timely at the present time than the question of reform in taxation methods, and there is no question that more intimately concerns the average citizen. For years, every candidate for governor has been telling the people that through evasion of the law and the inadequacy of the present systems of assessing and collecting taxes, millions of dollars are lost to the state annually and it is well understood that those who evade paying their just share of the taxes are those who are best able to pay. Because of this evasion of tax-paying, cities and towns lose millions in revenue, and those who do pay the taxes have to pay far more than their just proportionate share. The democratic platform is pledged to reform in taxation methods and Governor Walsh has made the fight peculiarly his own. If he is successful in his struggle for reform, the state will have far greater revenue, all taxes will be collected as they ought to be, and the distribution of the tax burden will be far more equitable.

During his term of office Governor Walsh recommended that all owners of stocks and bonds be ordered to make compulsory returns of their holdings so as to prevent tax dodging; he also recommended that the tax commissioner of the state be given power to revise and collect local assessments so as to prevent collusion between assessors and rich and influential people and also to see that the laws are equally enforced everywhere.

Governor Walsh also recommended a redistribution of corporation taxes which are now collected by the state and distributed to various municipalities in accordance with the ownership of the stocks in such corporations by the residents of the various communities. Usually, the owners of stocks in so-called mill cities and other manufacturing cities live somewhere else, so that when the taxes are redistributed to the communities where the owners live, the rich cities and towns get the money that should go to less fortunate communities. The governor recommended that these corporation taxes be paid to the cities and towns where the money of the corporations is earned and where they are located rather than to the towns where the stockholders happen to reside. These reforms were rejected by the republican legislature.

In explaining his system of tax reform to the citizens of New Bedford a few days ago, Governor Walsh said that had it been adopted it would have increased New Bedford's revenue in 1914 by $547,000, "which is $50,000 more than the whole amount spent on New Bedford's schools in 1913 and almost double the cost of the city streets." Governor Walsh then continued—and his words are equally applicable to Lowell:

"If then, your present appropriations for municipal objects are large enough, the adoption of my plan would enable the tax rate of New Bedford to be lowered nearly $5 in a thousand instead of being raised more than $1 as it will be raised if the incoming legislature is controlled by the same influences which have ruled its action in regard to the taxation in previous years."

By Governor Walsh's change of distribution of taxes by the state, Lowell would get hundreds of thousands of dollars assessed upon Lowell stock but going to communities where the stockholders live. It is only just that the taxes revert to the municipalities in which the industries are located and their money earned and Lowell should support a governor who in turn supports a reform that would mean so much to Lowell.

SEN. GORE ANSWERS McCALL

Senator Gore, the blind senator from Oklahoma, not only made a strong personal impression at the machine shop yesterday noon but he made one of the most convincing appeals for Governor Walsh heard during the campaign. With facts and figures at his finger tips he refuted the tariff arguments of Mr. McCall and advanced proofs of returning prosperity to offset the dismal picture painted by those who want to scare the voters of Massachusetts into voting for the republican candidate.

Senator Gore is surprisingly eloquent and he has the saving sense of humor which sprinkles his speeches with anecdotes and pointed illustrations. An instance of this was given in his pretended ignorance of our state affairs. So ignorant was he in fact as he explained laughingly, that until he came here and heard the claims of Mr. McCall, he did not know that our chief executive could raise taxes without legislative consent. As the distinguished speaker inferred, the state constitution has wisely provided that no governor can mismanage state funds as all financial functions are in control of the legislature. The republican candidate claims that there was state extravagance; if so, let him put the blame where it belongs—on a republican legislature.

Senator Gore also condemned the partisan appeal of Mr. McCall for the defeat of Governor Walsh as a rebuke to President Wilson. As one who has been on the ground and who has been in close touch with the administration through most trying times, he asked for the "overwhelming re-election" of our present governor as an endorsement of the government at Washington. He did not ask this without giving his reasons, and instead of the vague and unfair generalities of Mr. McCall he reviewed the great work of the administration and showed where it deserves the support of patriotic citizens. He also proved by statistics that the rush of prosperity has come as a crushing blow to republican claims, and reminded his audience of the last great panic which was in the republican days of 1907.

The most convincing part of Senator Gore's remarks dealt with the tariff which, he said, has had nothing to do with the partial disorganization of our national affairs. He proved from government reports that the nation had prospered even beyond the prognostications of democrats until the outbreak of the war and he showed by a comparison of statistics with those of the republics of South America that the nations there have been affected by the war in an equal or even greater degree than we have been. After showing the falling off in revenue in Argentina, Brazil, Chile and so on he asked: "Was that due too to the Underwood tariff bill, or was it due to the European war?" He wound up his tariff discussion by declaring that our national prosperity is not at all so dependent on the tariff as republicans profess to believe.

By a lucid review of the great national measures of the administration, the statesman from Oklahoma showed that the democratic party has striven to benefit the great masses in this country. He defended the Clayton act, the federal currency act and other progressive measures and as the mill bells rang out he gave this parting message to Lowell: "Vote for peace, vote for neutrality, vote for prosperity—vote for Governor Walsh and President Wilson."

RECORD OF ACHIEVEMENT

The statement has been made by Congressman Gallivan that Governor Walsh in one year has accomplished more far-reaching reforms for the people as a whole than did the four most popular governors of the last 30 years—Russell, Greenhalge, Wolcott and Guild—all men of illustrious memory. Yet what Governor Walsh has achieved in this line has been trifling compared to what it would have been if his main recommendations had not been blocked by a republican legislature.

Here are a few of the facts that back up the claim of Congressman Gallivan:

In one year he has increased the benefits to injured workmen $890,818.00.

In one year he has increased the amount paid to widows and children of employes killed at work $423,093.00.

He has vetoed a milk bill which would have ruined the milk industry of the state.

He obtained $2,500,000.00 for good country roads.

He has inaugurated a system of free educational correspondence schools for ambitious working people who cannot attend school or pay for a private education.

He has established the best health department in this country to safeguard the health of the people.

He has removed from the election laws the requirement for a party enrollment which had previously nullified the secrecy of Australian ballot.

He has secured the extension of savings bank life insurance which permits you to have your life insured for much less than similar insurance would cost on any private enterprise.

He has persistently advocated a reform of the tax system which will materially lessen the burden of every wage-earner and home-owner, and put an end to tax-dodging.

He has placed water companies and hydro-electric companies for the first time under public regulation and supervision.

He has broadened and extended the powers of the state in the supervision and regulation of all gas and electric light companies.

In the last hours of the legislature the railroads tried to slip through a bill which was intended to make Massachusetts endorse the so-called "unearned increment" theory on which the railroads want to base an increase of freight rates and carfares. This theory, if accepted, would take more than seven hundred million dollars a year out of the pockets of the American people.

But Governor Walsh stopped the scheme by a veto and compelled the republican organization to cut it out of the railroad bill.

He is opposed to any increase in fares on street or steam railroads unless it clearly appears that the corporations have been honestly capitalized and efficiently managed.

THE PEABODY DISASTER

The horrible school fire in Peabody in which over a score of children perished has shocked the people of the entire state.

The origin of the fire seems to be unexplained, nor can anybody so far as the account goes explain how it was that the flames spread so rapidly throughout the building after the school was opened in the morning. It is said the boiler did not explode, as at first supposed; yet it seems that nothing short of an explosion of some kind could have sent the flames so promptly all over the three-story building.

But whatever the cause may have been, there are certain lessons to be learned from this fire that may help prevent such catastrophes in the future.

Fire drills are very good in their way, but the perfection with which they are carried out when there is no fire gives teachers a delusive sense of security, as they feel that when the building can be cleared in two minutes or thereabouts it is almost impossible that the pupils could be hemmed in by fire. The absurdity of this theory was shown in the Peabody fire. It was shown too, that if there is a fire it is not safe to trust children to make their way out. They should always be led by a teacher, who might prevent overcrowding and panic in the face of danger.

In the Peabody fire, it seems that the fire must have been burning up through the partitions long before the school opened and when once the doors let in the air the flames burst forth on all the floors and stairways about the same time so that the exits were suddenly cut off. Then the rush was for the windows, for unfortunately, there were no fire escapes on the building.

Perhaps it takes a Titanic disaster to convince ship owners that life boats sufficient to save the crew and passengers are an imperative necessity and it may take a Salem or a Peabody fire to convince some people that it is necessary to keep a well equipped fire department and to provide such fire escapes as may offer protection to the occupants of school and other buildings until the firemen arrive. Had there been a fire escape on the third-story of the Peabody school there would have been no loss of life. As the building stood there was not proper provision for the safety of its 500 children in case of fire. Who was to blame for this?

It is pertinent to ask whether such a catastrophe is possible here in Lowell. The state inspectors, the local fire authorities, and all others interested should take steps to see that in every school in our city, whether public or private, the most ample, scientific and complete protection shall be provided for the pupils.

WALSH WILL BE ELECTED

The prevailing opinion throughout the state is, that Gov. Walsh will be elected by a very substantial plurality. The people do not accept the absurd claims of Mr. McCall and his supporters when they say that but for the European war this country would be under a business depression today. Neither do they believe Mr. Coolidge when he says that Governor Walsh is responsible for increased expenditures in the state.

"Some years ago," said Mr. Coolidge, with a republican governor our state expenditures were thirteen millions. Now after two years of a democratic governor they are twenty millions. Therefore, the governor is responsible. Does Mr. Coolidge imagine that any intelligent citizen will swallow a fallacy of that kind in face of the fact that the republican legislature controls all expenditures?

Gov. Walsh has honored the state wherever he has resided and he has worked incessantly for better government, purer politics and the uplift of the masses. He has accomplished much in spite of republican obstruction. The claim that he would be dominated by certain political factions has been completely refuted by his eminent freedom from all improper influences and his devotion to high ideals and the best interests of the state and nation.

His two years of eminently honest, progressive and patriotic service should bring him a re-election by a sweeping majority as against his principal opponent. The fact that the republicans cannot bring up a single well grounded charge against the governor or his administration is proof that it must have been eminently clean, efficient and successful. He is the first democratic candidate for many years who has completely silenced republican criticism.

CHILDREN HATE PILLS, CALOMEL AND CASTOR OIL

If Cross, Feverish, Constipated, Give, "California Syrup of Figs"

Look back at your childhood days. Remember the "dose" mother insisted on—castor oil, calomel, cathartics. How you hated them, how you fought against taking them.

With our children it's different. Mothers who cling to the old form of physic simply don't realize what they do. The children's revolt is well-founded. Their tender little "insides" are injured by them.

If your child's stomach, liver and bowels need cleansing, give only delicious "California Syrup of Figs." Its action is positive, but gentle. Millions of mothers keep this harmless "fruit laxative" handy; they know children love to take it; that it never fails to clean the liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach, and that a teaspoonful given today saves a sick child tomorrow.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on each bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. See that it is made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

When bomb throwers tell of being sent from Germany for lawless purposes, it is another matter. That a considerable conspiracy existed seems probable and there is reason to suspect that the activity of the conspirators was known to some branch of the home government. If such can be proved, the protest of our government will be prompt and unmistakable, for it ill behoves a nation which has complained so bitterly about our neutrality to encourage practices that bring the war into this country.

Black Foxes Hard to Halse

Cannibalistic tendencies developed in captivity by the valuable fur-bearing, the black fox, have proved a serious drawback to the fox-raising industry of Prince Edward Island, where 300 farmers are engaged in the business. Pups are frequently eaten by their parents, and there are also instances of females being killed and partially eaten by their mates.

Got His Wish

"Give me a place in the heart of the world!" Thus cried a night I knew: "There would I live life through; Swallowed up in her let me lie. Close to her great heart, let me die."

So he fled to the hills of the great northwest. Far from the haunts of men. And I think he obtained his longed-for rest. For he never was seen again; But the indications were plain out there. He was eaten alive by a grizzly bear.

If you find that grizzly by searching wide, And roaming the mountains through, And may pin a line on his shaggy hide In regard the night I knew: And these be the lines that you gave for me— "Here he lies where he wished to be." —Ted Robinson in the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

'I've only got two fathers,' persisted Elizabeth; 'my heavenly father and my unheavenly father.'"

Could Use the Vote

This is the age of excellence of the woman worker, and one of the most energetic and capable lady workers is Lady Frances Balfour, who is interesting herself keenly now in the problem of woman's place in the nation after the war is over.

Lady Frances has for long been a staunch advocate of woman suffrage, although she admits that some women have a queer idea of politics. In proof of which she has told an amusing story.

While she was on a visit to Edinburgh, a Scotch minister told her that his mother, a very old lady indeed, had stated that she was strongly in favor of women's enfranchisement. The minister thought her wonderfully advanced, considering the period when she was educated, and asked her why she thought that members of her own sex ought to have votes.

Who Suffered As Many Girls Do—Tells How She Found Relief.

Sterling, Conn.—"I am a girl of 22 years and I used to faint away every month and was very weak. I was also bothered a lot with female weakness. I read your little book, 'Wisdom for Women,' and I saw how others had been helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and decided to try it, and it has made me feel like a new girl and I am now relieved of all these troubles. I hope all young girls will get relief as I have. I never felt better in my life."—Mrs. JOHN TETREAU, Box 116, Sterling, Conn.

Massena, N. Y.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I highly recommend it. If anyone wants to write to me I will gladly tell her about my case. I was certainly in a bad condition as my blood was all turning to water. I had pimples on my face and a bad color, and for five years I had been troubled with suppression. The doctors called it 'Anemia and Exhaustion,' and said I was all run down, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound brought me out all right."—Miss LAVISA MYRES, Box 74, Massena, N. Y.

MR. SHAW FLAYS M'CALL

Liquor Interests

WORCESTER, Oct. 28.—William Shaw, prohibition candidate for governor, in an open air rally yesterday on the Worcester common, publicly called Samuel W. McCall, the republican candidate, a coward and a liar. His remarks were in answer to Mr. McCall's speech in Waltham Wednesday night, in which Mr. McCall charged that Mr. Shaw is using the Christian Endeavor society for political purposes. He said in part:

"Until last night the republican candidate for governor has not seen fit to discuss one single state issue in this campaign. He did devote last night and talk on a state issue. That issue was I, and Mr. McCall, in a speech in Waltham, said things which cause me to stand here today and resent what I consider to be the most dastardly attack ever made on a candidate for public office."

"As a result of his attack last night, I want to say now that the gloves are off as far as McCall is concerned and from now on it will be a fight to a finish with bare knuckles."

"I am a poor man and a man who did not receive the high education which Mr. McCall has. I was never taught to dissemble, nor was I taught to hide behind platitudes. As a result, when Mr. McCall refused to meet the liquor issue I simply said he was a coward."

"As a result of his attack on me last night I suppose I should say that he is mistaken and that he is a prevaricator, but I will not say that. I will say that he is a coward and a liar. And I add that on Tuesday next McCall will go down in defeat. He knows it, and his actions last night were the actions of a demagogue seeking his last refuge trying to account for his defeat."

"I am not in this fight to defeat Sam McCall nor to elect David I. Walsh. The democratic party is openly allied with the liquor interests. The republican party is secretly allied with the liquor interests, and between the two I have more regard for the party openly allied with it."

Mr. Shaw also announced to the crowd of 300 who heard him that he has invited the editors of Boston papers and Chairman Thurston of the republican state committee to meet him in the Boston City club at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon, when he will produce evidence which he believes will show that prominent republicans have threatened to stop all contributions to a fund which he is helping raise to erect a home office building for the Christian Endeavor society.

HUNTING CLUB DIRECTORS MET

The first meeting of the new board of directors of the Hunting club was held at the club house, last evening, with President James Smith in the chair, and all the members in attendance. The football game at Andover tomorrow was one of the principal topics of discussion.

The directors voted to start the winter entertainments with a concert, the first Sunday in December. Richard Galloway was placed in charge of the program and he promised to furnish a big bill.

The pool and billiard committee will meet tomorrow and arrange for a pool and billiard tournament for valuable prizes.

FOOD PRICES IN BERLIN

BERLIN, via London, Oct. 29, 10:37 a. m.—The federal council has issued an order empowering the imperial chancellor to fix the maximum prices for potatoes, fish and game. The chancellor immediately set the retail price of potatoes at 45 pfennigs ($1.09) a metric hundredweight. Producers are permitted to demand a maximum of 205 pfennigs.

OLIPHANT

Head Coach Daly is out with the statement that Oliphant, the Army's star halfback, is the greatest all around player and kicker of the year. This season his educated toe has been instrumental in winning several games for the West Pointers. Not alone has Oliphant done some splendid work with his toe, but his all around playing has been sensational. In game with Georgetown recently he was the whole show. In the second period of the recent game the Cadets scored their only touchdown, Oliphant doing most of the work in a pretty advance through tackle and around end which started at midfield and culminated in the score. Oliphant took it over, and kicked the goal. In the third period he kicked a placement goal from the thirty-five yard line. Oliphant was a shining light on the Purdue university two seasons ago.

SUSPENDED, NOT DEAD

LONDON, October.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press)—The quota system which Lord Kitchener is said to advocate as a compromise between the present voluntary enlistment system and conscription is a historic method of raising troops, for it existed in England from Saxon times down to the year 1532. It is now merely suspended, not dead.

By the quota system, Great Britain would be divided into military districts, each of which is required to send its quota of a required number of recruits. It is a form of conscription, but a democratic form that scold the test of eight centuries. Its special merits are its appeal to local patriotism and its civil control. Each locality has the power to enforce enlistment if other means fail, but a large number of additional voluntary recruits will be found just because the affair is managed by the civil authorities and the appeal is more personal and less emotional than by the military recruiting with their bands and speech-making actors.

There are many statutes on the English books relating to the quota system, which can be enforced at any time by an order of the privy council with the approval of parliament. Some changes were made from the old methods in 1757 when the various counties were instructed to proportion their quota among the various parishes, where the men, in case of necessity, were to be chosen by ballot. This law placed the age of service from 15 to 30 years, exempting all men with more than one child born in wedlock. Forces for Napoleon's wars were thus raised. In 1852 the old militia passed from the control of the counties to the war office, and the system of district selection was allowed to lapse.

ISLE OF MAN HIT HARD

LONDON, Oct.—No part of the United Kingdom has been so hard hit by the war as the Isle of Man, which is now on the verge of bankruptcy because the imperial treasury insists on the wiping out of the deficit of £220,000 before it will sanction the relief of distress. Where the money is to come from is a problem, as the proposed remedy of higher duties and taxes will fall short of requirements. The island might swallow its pride and annex itself to the neighboring county of Lancashire, but tradition and sentiment revolt at the idea. Although Man is only 22 by 12 miles, its political constitution is said to be the oldest in Europe. Its language, a Gaelic dialect, is peculiar to the island, and hence rule has been the privilege of the Manxman through the ages.

When the war came, the heavy tourist and holiday trade was cut off. The swift packet boats were taken over by the admiralty and the submarine menace made travel unpopular. Man then became a concentration camp of alien enemies, who now number 20,000 or less than three times its total native population. These camps helped to save the situation for the island farmers, although a poor substitute for the food of tourists who used to come. It is now proposed that the government use the hotels and lodging houses, whose owners are in great distress, as hospitals for convalescent soldiers. One of the relief measures proposed by the Manx parliament which the imperial treasury refuses to endorse, is a grant of £250,000 to distressed housekeepers.

TURKS TO CONFISCATE PROPERTY LONDON, Oct. 29, 9:25 a. m.—Reuter's Athens correspondent learns from Serbian sources that the French operating in the Strumitsa region have occupied the heights at Valandovo, Rabrava and Zadar Lissotse. These heights dominate Strumitsa, which is not expected to hold out much longer against the French attack.

There is no recent news in Athens from the northern Serbian front. It is reported that Turkey is about to issue a decree for the confiscation of the property of belligerents, owing to a threat by the entente powers to confiscate German property in belligerent countries.

ASSISTED SOLDIERS TO ESCAPE LONDON, Oct. 29.—Prince Reginald de Croy authorizes the Daily Sketch to deny the German assertions of the existence of any organization to assist soldiers to escape from Belgium of which he and Miss Edith Cavell, as alleged, were the leaders. He says that so far from there being such an organization, some of the prisoners tried at Brussels did not even know the others. He himself did not counsel soldiers to escape, but when he found that they were determined to escape, he assisted them as did Miss Cavell, from humanitarian motives.

KING IS INJURED

British Ruler Thrown
From His Horse and
Severely Bruised

LONDON, Oct. 29, 2:35 p. m.—An accident to King George happened yesterday morning. He was thrown from his horse and severely bruised.

The following official announcement was made: "While the king this morning (Thursday) was inspecting his army in the field his horse, excited by the cheers of the troops, reared up and fell. The king was bruised severely and will be confined to bed for the present."

(Signed)
Bertrand Dawson,
Wilmot Kerringham,
Cuthbert Wallace."

A later bulletin under today's date says:

"The king has had a fair night, with some sleep. The temperature is now 95.2 and pulse 75. His majesty's general condition has improved and no complications have arisen."

It is understood that the accident to the king was not serious, although no details have been made public beyond those disclosed in the official announcement.

Announcement was made on Monday that King George was in France, having gone to visit the British army. On Tuesday the king, with the Prince of Wales, President Poincaré and the then French war minister, Alexandre Millerand, reviewed the British troops. He then called on Gen. Joffre and witnessed a review of French colonial troops.

Advices through Paris are to the effect that the French and Serbs are now on the offensive northward along the railroad to Nish and are advancing on Istip.

Vienna Reports Progress
In the north, although the Austro-German advance is declared to have been retarded by bad roads, progress all along the front is reported in the current statement from Vienna.

Fighting in France
On the front in France, Paris reports a continuation of the vigorous artillery combat in the Champagne, notably near Tahure and violent fighting with bombs and grenades to the north of the Aisne.

INVADERS HAVE ADVANTAGE OF FREE PASSAGE DOWN THE DANUBE

LONDON, Oct. 29, 12:15 p. m.—The first phase of the Austro-German-Bulgarian campaign in Serbia is completed. Not only have the invaders of Serbia realized the important objective of joining hands in the north-eastern corner of the country but they have obtained this military advantage by procuring free passage down the Danube.

A flotilla of steamers is said to be already waiting to transport war material and it is stated coincidentally by Austro-German and Bulgarian leaders, Serbia cannot interfere with these arrangements. Bulgaria's ammunition shortage should soon be relieved and her offensive power greatly strengthened.

Serbs in Danger
The progress of Bulgarian troops east and northeast of Nish both threatens the city and places the Serbian army in a position of increased danger. Moreover, like the union of Bulgarian and Teutonic armies further north the capture of Nish would have more than mere military or strategic advantages since it would make possible rapid establishment of railway communication through Bulgaria, Nish and Sofia, among Austria, Germany and their allies.

Teutons Advance From North
From the north the Germans and Austrians are advancing over a wide front which runs from the southeast from Valjevo and swings in a broad curve northeast almost to the Danube at Kladovo, where it joins the right wing of the Bulgarians.

Report Greece to Join Bulgaria
Rumor continues to ascribe to the Greek government intentions hostile to the entente powers even going so far as to say Greece has an understanding with Bulgaria and at the psychological moment will fall upon the allied troops which landed at Saloniki. No such designs are really credited to Greece in London but England and France continue to watch the political situation at Athens with unconcealed anxiety.

Str. Edward Grey, the British foreign secretary, said today that Greece's espousal of the cause of the entente powers was an impossibility and similar assurances came from authoritative Greek sources.

The inactivity which has marked the situation on the western front for some time is still unbroken. In the east, Field Marshal von Hindenburg's attack in the Riga district has entered upon a new phase.

It was stated, however, that his injuries were not serious. Mr. Newton was riding with Maj. Thomas L. Walsh, a brother of Gov. Walsh when their car collided with an automobile driven by H. B. Ralston. Maj. Walsh escaped unhurt.

Florida Now Becoming Mecca for Big Leaguers —Sporting News

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—Florida has become the Mecca for the training of major league baseball clubs. This fact was illustrated never more forcibly than in the recent decision of the Boston National league management to train at Miami the next five years.

George Stallings, the Miracle Man of the Hub, a loyal bred Georgian to boot, was always a strong booster for the Cracker state. Georgia was his hobby and Macon his religion. But the Braves have quit Macon and sought a climate further south, where the weather is hotter and more steady. As George controls the craft of state of the Braves' hopes, it is reasonable to suppose that the prospects in the far South have begun his native state patriotism.

The New York Yankees have tried every nook and corner of the semitropical zone. They have trained from Savannah, Ga., to Houston, Tex., and north as far as Atlanta and Athens, Ga., but they never felt enough ahead after these exercises to win one of John Johnson's flags.

The New York Americans, under a new ownership last spring, trained at Savannah, Ga. They had nothing of which to complain. The weather was above the average of the very best grade that prevailed all spring south of the Mason and Dixon line. Yet it is no certainty that the club will pay a return visit.

Savannah, unfortunately, owing to the shift of sentiment toward Florida, now occupies a rather isolated position. No other major league club trains in the immediate neighborhood. Therefore it is practically impossible to obtain really helpful practice games with rival major league clubs without the inconvenience and expense of traveling long distances. Long railway jumps in the spring are deadly to the efficacies of training.

Therefore the Yankees are quite likely to switch the base of their early operations. Ocala, Fla., is anxious to entertain Donovan's legion of hopefuls. Ocala is located centrally in Florida, far removed from the uncertain sea breezes that play havoc to convalescent throwing arms. Ocala lies comparatively close to Daytona, Miami and Tampa. Brooklyn trains at Daytona, the Boston Braves at Miami and the Cubs at Tampa. Intra-league major league games are prohibited in the springtime. Wherefore the Yankees by moving to Ocala might find three strong National league opponents for exhibition purposes.

This switch would benefit both the National and American leagues. It would give the three clubs of the Tender circuit an opportunity to arrange games with both the Yankees and the Athletics, who will be encamped again at Jacksonville, Fla. The owners of the New York Americans will investigate the presumed location of Ocala as presented by the business men of the city anxious to attract major league attention.

The Federal League

In spite of the most pleasant assurances of the Federal League, the league in the Federal league's war against organized baseball, certain facts have filtered through that might cause a reasonable doubt as to the sincerity of such optimism.

Certainly at two different spots of the baseball continent, the Federal League has cropped out. Conrad H. Mann, president of the Kansas City Independents, has just reported to his stockholders a deficit for the year of $35,332.13 in spite of the fact that the team was a prominent contender in the National League. E. F. Johnson, president of the Buffalo Federals, issued a warning to his fellow club owners that unless $100,000 can be raised before the Bison City enterprise must be suspended. Baltimore's stockholders are said to be crying for dividends. Pittsburgh did not break even. The Baltimore club is a small fortune in Newark, but he is reputed to be so wealthy that he can afford to disregard this drop from the bucket.

No baseball president in St. Louis made any money, least of all Phil Ball, the baseball chief. Ball has soured on low prices. He declares he will revolt against 10 cent admissions another year. All these signs and tokens of unrest among the independent promoters may point to a run to cover by the financial giants of the outlaws. They may buy into organized baseball if they are so minded and care to renounce their oft-expressed obligations of comradeship to the fellows who went into the revolutionary faction on a shoestring.

Military Tournament

The military tournament which will be held at Madison Square Garden the week of November 14-20 is to cater as much to sporting instincts as to patriotism. This show will be featured throughout with athletic competitions and games among the various military organizations in this city and state. The Military Athletic league is behind the project to furnish the usually accepted features of sporting competition.

Roger Breenahan wishes to trade Pitcher Phil Douglas and a young insider for Southpaw Slim Salles. The proposition from the Cub leader has been referred to Miller Huggins, pilot of the Cardinals.

Col. Ruppert, president of the Yankees, received little assistance from rival club owners in building up a team last year. Col. Ruppert and his partner, Capt. T. L. Huston, were lucky enough to get the most prized athletes in the draft. At least their colleagues are of the opinion that the latter favored New York for every reason. Col. Ruppert is a New York out of its prospects. Half a dozen trades have been suggested since the season closed. Connie Mack is out of line and sinker for one of the best right-handed pitching recruits of Donovan's clan.

George T. Stallings, manager of the Braves, has been in town the last several days assisting Capt. T. L. Huston in perfecting the organization of the Dover Hall club, which has a large scouting tract near Brunswick, Ga. It is to be controlled by the prominent baseball men and sportsmen of this country. Stallings says he never can resign himself to the fate that created him out of Outfielders Hendryx and Miller, two outfielder candidates with the Yankees.

"Bud Sharpe is one of the best judges in baseball," said the Big Chief yesterday. "He was steered off these two players, assured by people supposed to know that they were already the property of American League clubs. Sharpe says that Miller is one of the most sensational fielders he has seen. If he can hit as well in last company as he did in the Southern league he should prove a sensation. Of Hendryx he is a surefire hero worshiper. But not only predicts that Tibbot will make good, he stands ready to stake his reputation that this fellow will be one of the sensations of the American league before another two years.

BUZZ LAW

Buzz Law, who got into the milling in the last period of the Princeton-Dartmouth game Saturday, stayed long enough to do some excellent punting and scored Princeton's last three points by a pretty place kick from the forty yard mark. His return brought joy to the Tigers, as Princeton now has the best punting trio in the country. The other two who make up the party are Tibbot and Driggs. The former was the hero of the victory. He was responsible for fifteen points, which include two field goals. Driggs and Law also got a happy hand from the spectators for the remarkable work with their toes.

Tom Cowler, the English heavyweight protégé of Jim Corbett, will engage Eddie Lewis in the tenth round winnow before the Olympic A. C. November 15.

Gunboat Smith intends to force Frank Moran into a match and is going about it in the right way. He will fight Joe Cox in St. Louis November 3 at Joplin, Mo., six days later he is to engage Al Norton, the Native Son. Smith is to fight either Jack Dillon or Carl Morris at Kansas City on November 22.

IN BIG SOCCER GAME

BUNTINGS AND ANDOVERS CLASH FOR THIRD TIME AT ANDOVER TOMORROW

The Lowell soccer world is seething with excitement as to the result of the strenuous fight between the Buntings and Andovers for a place in the second round for the state cup. Having fought in the first round, the third game is necessary and it will be played on Saturday at Andover. In the last game the enthusiasm of the local boys was evident, but they were somewhat scared by the forward work of the visitors which made it quite hard for Smith and Rushton. The Buntings have secured the services of McAllister, the star Manchester United forward, who will play in Saturday's game. The golden rule of soccer is "shoot hard and often," and that's what they are going to do on Saturday.

Several Lawrence teams were after McAllister for he is a crack center forward distributing the ball with beautiful precision while he is also a first class shot. His coming will allow Greenhalgh to drop into his accustomed place of outside left. Jack Taylor has notified the manager that he will not be able to make the journey. His place will be taken by Carathan and with Wallace on one side of him and McAllister on the other there'll be a strong trio. The team and officials will leave Merrimack Square on a special car at 1:10 p. m. J. E. Schofield, president of the state association attended the game last Saturday and expressed his pleasure at the work of the referee who gave some unfair decisions against the Buntings during the game. He stated that he would bring the matter up at the next state meeting.

The Buntings will line up as follows: J. Smith, H. Bishop, A. Smith, J. Lowe, W. Kelly, J. Gorman, W. Gifford, J. Walker, A. Carathan, W. McAllister, W. Mitchell and J. Greenhalgh. Reserves: A. Cameron, J. Brice and J. Costello.

Not the Only Possible Purchaser

Callahan is not the only possible purchaser of a half interest in the Sox. It is understood that John P. Fitzgerald, the genial ex-mayor, is also interested in the proposition. Fitzgerald missed a chance of becoming a baseball magnate years ago when the Taylors beat him to the purchase of the club.

Since then Fitzgerald has been one of the biggest routers for the success of the club and has always maintained a staunch interest in its progress. He is a very good friend of Law-

DR. ANNA HOWARD SHAW

She Pleaded for Woman Suffrage
—An Eloquent Address and Strong Arguments

Hundreds of people gathered at As-sociate hall last night to hear Dr. Anna Shaw, foremost orator of the woman suffrage movement in America, and her auditors were profoundly moved by her eloquent plea for "votes for women."

"It is the everlasting glory of women that they do not fight in battle, and some day it will be the glory of man that he does not fight. And I have faith that there is a still brighter day coming when it will be the glory of nations that they do not fight," said Dr. Shaw.

An automobile parade preceded the rally. The automobiles, containing the officers and some of the leading workers in the local suffrage league, formed in Andover and North streets and preceded by the Cadet band escorted Mrs. Shaw to the hall, passing through Church and Central streets, up Merrimack to the Associate building.

There was a pretty little scene when the time came for the opening of the meeting when the band, stationed in the balcony, played "America," and the audience, standing, waved small American flags provided them by ushers at the door.

The hall was prettily decorated, the decorations being in charge of Misses Caroline and Dorothy Wright. Mrs. Charles D. Palmer, president of the Lowell Equal Suffrage league, presided, and seated on the platform were the executive officers of the league, Rev. Sarah A. Dixon, and the following men: Judge Charles S. Lilley, Michael A. Lee, Philip S. Madden, William N. Osgood and C. H. McIntire.

Dr. Shaw's Address

Mrs. Shaw's eloquence elicited the tribute of tears. Her address was not for the suffrage cause alone. She pleaded for every future which will better the condition of women and children, basing her plea on suffrage, which she believes is the fundamental step for all reforms—social, economic and legal. Point by point she drove her arguments home, varying her address at times by applying the soothing oil of humor.

Answering the argument that women, if given the ballot, will not be able to join in warfare, she drew a vividly touching picture of the meaning of war to the women of Europe, bringing tears to the eyes of her audience. She said in part:

"Picture to yourself just one woman over in Europe, a woman whose heart has been in unison with her love, who has walked day by day face to face with an open grave, to have, at last, a little one laid in her arms and her heart gives forth a cry of thanksgiving that only a mother can know. A woman is human. She has the same hopes, ambitions and desires that a man has, but with personal ambitions laid aside, a mother never lays aside her ambitions for her son. She forgets the nights of sleeplessness, the efforts and burdens of 21 or more years and is willing to make supreme self-sacrifice for her son. As she looks into his eyes she finds there the most wonderful thing God ever made, a strong-limbed, clean-hearted, clear-brained young man.

"But his country calls him and he goes forth into the horrors of war and within an hour he is just a bleeding, lifeless clod among millions of others. Then, sitting by the hearthside, looking into the loneliness and darkness of the years to come, one woman knows what war means. Multiply this one woman of Europe by hundreds and thousands and millions; then will you ask what women know of war? We do not want the ballot to fight, but just to see if we cannot co-operate with the men to keep them from fighting. What a different world it would be today if those few men in Europe had just consented to come together and talk the matter over. Women would have talked the matter over until it was settled. It might be

What is a Republic?

"All we are asking is that men shall look the truth in the face, to believe the thing they believe. Do we believe that republican form of government is desirable? If we do, then let us live it. If we do not, then let us say so, honestly, like men, and say that we believe in an aristocracy. If we believe in a republic, then the time has come when we should be a republic. We think we are a republic, but we might think we were angels, and say we were angels, but unless we are angels, thinking it and saying it would not make it so. We never will become a republic until we are a republic.

What is a Republic? A form of government in which the laws are enacted by representatives elected by the people. When did the people of Massachusetts ever elect representatives? Never in the world! The whole of Massachusetts have elected representatives, and men are people—admirable people, so far as they go; but then, you see, they only go half way. There is still another half of the people, who never have elected their representatives. When one-half the people elect representatives to represent the whole of the people, it is not a republic but an aristocracy."

The Temperance Question

Taking up the temperance question, Mrs. Shaw said:

"There are good men who are going to vote against us for fear we will not vote for prohibition, and there are bad men who are going to vote against us because they are afraid we will vote for prohibition. Col. Irish said that the women voted down prohibition in England. He forgot that he was the leader of the anti-prohibition movement and attorney for the liquor dealers' association in the dry states," she said, the anti-s say that women will vote the state wet; and in wet states, they say that we will vote it dry. "Out in one of the western states, I was asked how the women would vote on the liquor question. I said that I did not know, that I would tell him after the anti-suffragist woman had been around."

Dr. Shaw repeated what she has said over and over again, that the woman suffrage association has never taken a stand on the temperance question or any other individual question whatsoever. "It does not ask for the ballot in order that women may vote with any political party or for any measure. All that they are asking is that when ever any question, whether it is a temperance question, a water supply question, a schoolhouse question or anything else that affects the interests of the community, that has to be settled at the ballot box, the women citizens as well as the men citizens shall express their opinion at the ballot box as to how that question shall be settled. The suffragists believe that every community has a right to settle every question in their own way. After we have got the kind of government we want, we ourselves will work out the kind of government we ought to have, but we will never have the kind of government we ought to have until we want. That is why a republic is a better form of government than any other. We will suffer terribly with growing pains, but it is better to suffer from growing pains and to grow, than to be a perpetual dwarf."

Appeal for Volunteers

After Mrs. Shaw had finished, Rev. Sarah A. Dixon said a few words, and Mrs. Palmer made an appeal to suffragists to volunteer their help at local headquarters, until after the election. The audience stood while the band played "The Star Spangled Banner."

Over 30 young women, wearing white dresses and yellow sashes, were the ushers. They were Misses Edith Dahlman, Helen Bellamy, Laura Bellamy, Ethel Chalmers, Nellie Brosnan, Ethel Chalmers, Alice Cunningham, Rosalie Dunlavy, Ethel Bright, Agnes Fallon, Julia Fox, Loretta Hannafin, Gertrude Harvey, Eva Henderson, Helen Hills, Meta Jefferson, Genevieve Lawrence, Virginia Legare, Kenney Lilley, Ellen Lynch, Helen Mansfield, Anna Masterman, Frances Masterman, Loretta McManmon, Florence Moulton, Josephine Murphy, Miriam Murphy, Helen Osgood, Mary Seery, Helen Webster and Edie Wilmore.

GEN. PEARSON'S VIEWS

The speaker at the meeting of the Men's club of St. John's Episcopal church, last night, was General Gardner W. Pearson who spoke on preparedness in a military way. He said in part:

"We have a country of 100,000,000 population, but what is the character of this country? It isn't Anglo-Saxon as it was in the days of the Revolution and after. Why, we have 1,000,000 Lithuanians alone, in this country, and untold millions of Germans and French, to say nothing of other races. In Lowell alone we have 10,000 Greeks, and you can go on the streets of Lowell and not hear the English language spoken at all. One hundred and twenty-five years ago there was a different moral fibre in this land from what there is today.

"We are apt to deceive ourselves with the idea that every native born American is a fighter and a rifle shot. Why, the rifle has given way to the golf stick and the baseball bat. When the mighty world series was on this fall there were also being held at the same time the national championship rifle matches in Florida. But who knew about them, or cared about them? One couldn't find any scores in the papers, unless he hunted hard. The present war is one of nations, and the man who engages in making them is every whit as valuable as the man at the front. The country which can produce the greatest amount of ammunition is very likely to win this colossal struggle. But in 10 years wars may be fought entirely in the air, and, instead of 100 air ships in the air at one time, there may be a hundred thousand of them. This war has proved that cavalry is utterly useless. The scouting is being done by aeroplanes entirely, and there is no chance at all for flanking movements by cavalry, because one flank ends at the Swiss frontier and the other on the North sea.

"The fortifications of Boston harbor are no better than if they were made of milk. Why? Because the guns there can shoot but six miles at the most, while 15-inch guns could stand off and out of the range and blow the Boston forts to pieces. And all of these points must bring to mind the fact that the great essential of war today is not courage, it is just as dangerous for a man to attempt to run away as it is for him to go forward. The one great essential is the man-killing machine, and to find men who know how to use it. Unfortunately this is so but we mustn't longer deceive ourselves about it."

JUVENILE DELINQUENT LAW

A hearing to discuss the incorporation of amendments into the present law governing delinquency was held at the state house, Wednesday, and the speakers included Lowell residents.

Among the speakers was Miss Nelson of Somerville who stated with emphasis that the toe of a hob nailed boot was about as good a corrective for a boy as he knew of. Miss Ida M. Howe of Lowell was in sympathy with him, although she did not want to see boys incarcerated, but only made to show respect for authority.

Others who were present were: Mrs. Lily Clark, also representing the Daughters of the American Revolution; Hugh J. Melloy, superintendent of schools; Miss Emily Skilton, of the Florence Crittenton Rescue League; Mrs. C. F. Coburn, Mrs. C. M. Williams and Charles F. Richardson, agent of the Lowell Humane society.

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

The regular meeting of Washington commandery, Golden Cross, was held last evening with a large attendance. Grand Trustee Hector Turnbull was present as an official visitor. The commandery is preparing for the celebration of its anniversary on Dec. 3, when several of the grand officers will be present.

Clan Grant, O. S. C.

Only routine business was transacted at last evening's meeting of Clan Grant, 141, Order Scottish Clans, held in Grafton hall, with Chief William Macleira presiding. The Merrimack valley team reported progress in regard to the bowling team.

CAPTURED AT SEA

Report That Interned Germans Were Taken by British Warship

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—The six warrant officers of the interned German raider Kronprinz Wilhelm, who escaped from Norfolk, Va., Oct. 10, in the yacht Eclipse, were captured at sea by a British warship, according to information in a letter received here yesterday.

The letter was sent to William Wolff, a New York manufacturer, by his mother-in-law, who was a passenger of the steamer Bermudian, which left New York for Hamilton last Wednesday.

According to the letter, the Bermudian was stopped a short distance from its destination by a British cruiser, which engaged the passenger vessel in wireless conversation.

The substance of the talk, as told by the wireless operator of the Ber-mudian, was that the cruiser, the Idoneity of which is not given, had overtaken the missing Eclipse at sea, made prisoners of the Germans and sunk the yacht. The letter gives no other details.

Reports have been current in ship-ping circles here for several days that the yacht had been captured by a British cruiser, believed to be the Melbourne.

MINING COAL IN GREENLAND
COPENHAGEN, Oct.—The Danish government is taking steps to mine coal in Greenland more intensively. This is due to the fact that it is difficult now to buy English coal in Denmark. The coal famine, in fact, is so serious here that the government is planning to relieve the situation in part by cutting wood from the government forests. Steps are also being taken to increase the production of peat.

Coal has heretofore been mined in Greenland only in an experimental way, but the deposits there, in the opinion of experts, are very extensive. The heating qualities of Greenland coal, however, are not regarded as equal to the English variety.

The government is also taking a new interest in the copper mines of this far northern colony, thinking that the mines are capable of more extensive development which would be profitable at the present time.
